Color, Ceremony, Camaraderie for Mayors

By JOHN MIKA

Hospitality, in both English and French accents, was spoken here Saturday as Victorians welcomed the civic leaders of Quebec province.

A total of 263 mayors and their wives—representing a significant cross-section slice of Canada's French-Canadian population—were wined and dined at full-scale functions and in private homes during the weekend.

Today, the Quebec group plunges into the serious purpose of the visit with business sessions at the Empress Hotel involving seminars on the recent annual meeting of the Quebec Union of Municipalities.

Theme of the meeting — and of the whole visit — is "beginning a campaign of mutual understanding between the two major ethnic groups of our country."

In the centennial square, the newly-operational fountain splashed with water while the Union Jack and Red Ensign fluttered from flagpoles flanked by the provincial flags of British Columbia and Quebec.

Another Quebec flag flew at the masthead of the Pandora Avenue entrance and a fleur-de-lis patterned rug, in the Quebec colors, was spread inside the entrance doors where the French-Canadians were given lapel name tags and the familiar plastic Daffodil-Seagull badges of Victoria's flower festival.

Upstairs, a glittering scene met the visitors in the large, high-ceiling council reception room. More than 100 civic dignitaries, military officers in dress uniforms and leading citizens of the community were ranged between the walnut-panelled walls of the richly-carpeted chamber.

Champagne glasses of an imported rose wine and a specially-rigged simultaneous translation service for the guests who spoke no English helped put the assembly at ease as the two groups mixed freely and then listened to a series of short speeches.

Mayor Rosaire Gendron of Riviere-du-Loup, new president of QUM, presented Mayor Wilson with a personal gift of a handcrafted set of cigarette box, ashtray and lighter. He also gave him a souvenir box of Quebec's famous maple syrup, sugar and butter.

Mayor Gendron presented to the city a hand-worked plaque bearing the armorial crest of the Quebec Union of Municipalities.

Recalling personal family ties with Quebec he told the guests "we sincerely hope you will not feel like strangers in a strange land but that you will enjoy yourselves here."

Union of B.C. Municipalities president Reeve Peter Jenewin of Maple Ridge also extended a welcome "not only here to Victoria but to our province of British Columbia."

Scores of portable ear pieces made it possible for the roughly 40 per cent of the visitors who spoke no English to follow all the speeches as UN-trained simultaneous translator Paul Leduc—flown from Montreal by the QUM group—spoke into the closed-circuit wireless system set up in the chamber.

"Your visit is, indeed, an historic occasion," Mayor Wilson told the assembly. "You have shown great initiative in coming nearly 3,000 miles to see us and you have broken with precedent in having your study meeting for the first time outside the province of Quebec.

"We warmly applaud the vision and the courage that engendered this trip, for memorable it will be not only to you and to us but we believe to all of Canada."

Mayor Wilson said that civic leaders in both provinces have "a unique opportunity" to learn each other's problems—the necessary first step towards their solution.

"While the senior governments must deal with the legislative changes necessitated by the events of our time, we, with our very personal contacts, can perhaps do more than any other level of government in leading the way towards a future of better understanding, friendship and mutual respect that will assure a great future for this country to which we all belong.

"You, the mayors of Quebec, have taken this initiative, which we applaud enthusiastically. It is now up to us to follow your example and visit, see and increase our knowledge all we can about La Belle Province de Quebec."

Responding, Salaberry-de-Valleyfield Mayor Robert Cauchon, leader of the Victoria trip, echoed the sentiments that the visit was an historic event.

Saanich Hunter Killed

The 24-year-old Saanich man, who lived at 1170 Palmer, died from a bullet fired from his friend's rifle.

Police said the two were firing at a tin can in the Martin's Gulch area just south of Shawnigan Lake when the accident occurred.

They had decided to target practice after an unsuccessful day's hunting.

While walking back to the firing line for another try, Mol's 30-30 rifle accidentally went off.

The bullet entered Peakmen's side and he fell to the ground.

RAN FOR HELP

So he set off at a run to get help.

PEAKMAN
. . . firing at can

About two miles down the road he met prospector Robert Copeman of 556 Ker Avenue, Saanich. The two drove back to the scene of the accident.

Meanwhile, Peakmen had been laying two hours in the spot where he was shot.

He was taken to King's Daughters' Hospital, Duncan, but was dead on arrival.

INQUEST TUESDAY

He was employed as a digger operator by local contractor Donald H. Mann of Cedar Hill Cross Road.

An autopsy was to be held later today.

The inquest will be opened for viewing of the body Tuesday night and then will be adjourned to a future date.

New Typhoon Hits

SAIGON (AP) — Another typhoon hit South Viet Nam's central coast area today but it was much less ferocious than expected. Little damage was reported.

RCMP Grab Man After Pair Slain

RIVERS INLET, B.C. (CP) — A suspect was captured today by police in their hunt for a man who raped an 18-year-old girl as two people lay dying of gunshot wounds a few feet away.

RCMP officers were holding Roy Hanuse, about 21, on a police boat at this steamer landing 250 miles north of Vancouver. He was found in an empty cabin on the Indian reserve where the shooting occurred.

Their search was launched into the bush at dawn this morning after Johnny and Aggie Hanuse, parents of 13 children, were shot and killed.

RCMP said the killer shot the couple in order to assault the girl.

Most of the Hanuse children had previously been taken into the care of the Indian affairs department and are living at schools and homes across the province.

Police said Hanuse was not related to the slain couple.

FRENCH CHALLENGED

Loose Talk 'Must Stop'

PARIS (AP)—Manlio Brosio of Italy, secretary-general of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, challenged President de Gaulle today to state his position on the alliance's problems clearly.

Speaking to the 10th annual session of the NATO parliamentary conference, (Brosio referred to France's opposition to the proposed Multilateral Nuclear Force MLF) and to French suggestions that NATO must be reformed.

At the same time the secretary-general said proponents of MLF have to justify the proposal.

"Those who put forward new proposals must explain and justify them," Brosio said. "Those who object must argue their case and put forward their counter proposals."

"I believe there is far too much loose talk about the need for reforming NATO. Suggestions that NATO needs reorganizing which are unaccompanied by any practical proposals as to what needs to be done can only create perplexity and cast doubt on the solidarity of the alliance."

In an apparent reference to the nuclear surface fleet, French Foreign Minister Couve de Murville warned the other Western powers against trying to impose any "ready - made solutions" for the problem of nuclear defence.

NO QUICK SOLUTIONS

Welcoming the NATO parliamentarians, Couve de Murville said no one should be under the illusion that there are any "ready - made solutions that would, to everyone's satisfaction, solve problems that have been discussed for so long."

The four - day conference brought together representatives sent from the parliaments of the 15 NATO countries. The conference will discuss various NATO problems and send recommendations to the NATO council of foreign ministers. The conference is strictly a consultative body whose resolutions have no legal effect.

RAISE CUT FOR PM, CABINET

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Wilson today approved a pay raise to members of parliament but trimmed by half the increase recommended for himself and his ministers.

The salary for a House of Commons member was raised from $5,250 a year to $9,750—a raise of about 86 per cent.

He said the increase suggested for all ministers should be cut by half. This would bring his own salary up to $42,000 a year from $30,000, instead of the recommended $54,000.

Motorists Stranded In U.S. Snow

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — A snowstorm that struck the Rocky Mountains Sunday brought blizzards to northern Arizona and spilled wintry weather across normally mild central and southern desert areas.

Motorists were stranded, hunters marooned and 13 persons reported missing as the late afternoon blizzard struck the Kingman area in Arizona's northwest corner. All the missing later were found safe.

Arizona 93, the main route from Phoenix to Las Vegas, Nev., was closed after at least 100 cars were stranded.

The Arizona highway patrol also shut off U.S. 66 to the east, and the Mohave County sheriff's office dispatched its jeep posses into snow-swept desert mountains south of Kingman in search of the lost, mostly hunters. All were found.

Forest fires continued to ravish woodlands in the desperately dry eastern half of the United States, adding to the already staggering cost of the record-shattering autumn drought.

TALKS SET ON PAVING ALASKA ROAD

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada and the United States will hold technical talks next month on design standards and cost estimates for reconstruction and paving of the Alaska Highway, Northern Affairs Minister Laing announced today in the Commons.

He said the discussions, in which British Columbia and the Yukon Territory also will participate, will not be concerned with arrangements for sharing the cost of the work.

Plane Hits Mountain, 28 Killed

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Wreckage of an airliner that hit a mountain peak in a storm Sunday night was found early today. Sheriff's deputies said all 28 persons aboard were dead.

One Canadian was among the victims. He was identified as Mr. H. Will of Calgary.

Searchers were directed to the area by a motorist who told officers he saw the plane skimming the ground Sunday night in a whirl of snow eight miles south of the city. The witness said the plane had one wheel down, as if it were trying to land.

The Fairchild F-27, Bonanza Airline's Flight 114 from Phoenix, Ariz., was three minutes from a landing at McCarran Field when it vanished from the radar screen at 8:27 p.m.

English Canada Asked for Help

TORONTO (UPI) — Premier Jean Lesage today called for English Canada to assist his province in retaining its identity.

Quebec would otherwise be forced into an isolation it did not wish, he said.

Lesage said a future Canada may have fewer than its present 10 provinces if there should be "a regrouping of some of the existing provinces."

Lesage stressed to his audience that he did not wish to be regarded as carrying any warning or ultimatum to English-speaking Canadians.

LESS CENTRALIZATION

Lesage restated his plea for a more decentralized form of central government. He said the economic and cultural progress of Quebec's 5,500,000 citizens could only be assured by a provincial government.

He stressed that Quebec trailed other provinces in development and said this was added reason for its need to have greater control of its own development.

He said that while the French-Canadian only really felt at home in Quebec, the people of Quebec—excepting "a small minority"—had no intention of leaving Confederation.

Lesage said there were many formulas by which Canada could give French-speaking Canada the place which is its due.

"The Canada of the future may be composed of 10 provinces, as it is today, or the number may be reduced following the regrouping of some of the existing provinces," said Lesage.

EXTREMES REJECTED

Lesage rejected what he termed as two "extreme possibilities."

He said one extreme was that Quebec be swallowed up in a "common melting pot." The other was that it be separated from the rest of Canada.

"The rest of Canada must help Quebec to attain its objectives," said the Quebec premier.

"Otherwise, if we are forced to act alone, we shall be in-

Nairobi reported it monitored a Stanleyville broadcast that Carlson's life would be a matter of negotiation, but later found the negotiation announcement had been made before the announcement of the decision to execute Carlson.

The rebels claimed that Carlson was a major in the U.S. Army and had spied and fought against them. This charge was denied by U.S. officials in Washington who said the U.S. would hold the rebels "directly responsible" for Carlson's fate.

FEATURING ETERNAL FLAME

Terrace to Mark Kennedy Grave

WASHINGTON (AP) — Elaborate plans for a white marble terrace and a low, classically plain monument for John F. Kennedy's grave at Arlington Cemetery were announced today.

The central theme for the grave site will be the eternal flame lighted by the late president's widow the day of his funeral almost one year ago.

The grave will lie in a small grass plot marked by a grey slate tablet in what the designers said was the tradition in early New England.

In the centre, slightly elevated, is to be the rectangular grass plot where Kennedy is buried. Its marble "frame" contains a kneeling step for prayer. Within the grass plot will be a slate marker about three feet by 4½ feet in size, bearing the incised inscription:

John Fitzgerald Kennedy

A small cross will be incised above the grave.

The marker for the late president will be flanked by smaller tablets marking the graves of the two Kennedy children who died at or shortly after birth.

The eternal flame will burn to the rear of the tablets emerging from a three-pronged bronze font.

WALL BEARS SEAL

The backdrop for the flame is to be a long, low wall bearing the presidential seal.

The plans for the grave site were announced at a press conference today, six days before the first anniversary of Kennedy's assassination last Nov. 22 in Dallas, Tex. Defence Secretary McNamara and architect John Carl Warnecke were in charge of releasing the details.

Senator-elect Robert F. Kennedy, the late president's brother, was to be on hand to represent the family, which approved the plans in advance.

Models of the gravesite will be put on public display at the National Gallery for one month, beginning Tuesday.

The grave is down a gentle slope from the Curtis-Lee Mansion where Kennedy, on a bright March day some nine months before death, stood looking out over the city — the Potomac River; the Lincoln Memorial, the white shaft of the Washington Monument and the Capitol dome in the distance—and remarked "I could stay here forever."

MANPOWER HIKE AIRED TONIGHT

Esquimalt councillors will be put in the hot seat tonight when they are asked to increase police and fire department manpower.

The controversial topic will be brought up as a result of a fire committee recommendation.

The recommendation calls for an increase of about five men.

In the past there has been talk of a fire hall and full-time brigade for the municipality.

But the nearest it has ever come to getting off the ground was the appointment several months ago of Police Sergeant James Owens as fire prevention officer.

COLLECT DATA

At the time of his appointment, fire committee chairman Coun. James Bryant said he would be asked to collect data on the fire situation in Esquimalt.

This included recommending the minimum operational force on a full-time basis.

Tonight's recommendation is expected to include retaining an experienced fireman on duty at all times.

Even so, there is no suggestion of splitting the police and fire departments.

. . . MAYORS

"Such a large group attending tonight proves that the invitation (extended by Mayor Wilson on behalf of Greater Victoria councils) was appreciated in the Province of Quebec," he said.

"This is an historic moment of great importance—it is the first time since Confederation that this has happened and it is important at this time because so many people are trying to change Confederation."

'We're All Canadians'—Leader

"As you in Victoria learn something of us from the province of Quebec, you will find that though we speak a different language, we have much in common.

"We must never forget that we are all Canadians."

On that note, the visitors and hosts drank up their glasses and sped to the Empress Hotel where the lobby was turned into a reception area for more informal mixing.

When the convivial group of 500 had thoroughly melded into a homogenous mass and the cocktail din of French and English chatter had become indistinguishable, the entire group filed into the ballroom and along heavily-laden tables with a wide selection of buffet dishes—decorated with chef's sculptures.

An overflow section was used outside the ballroom to seat all the guests and waiters and waitresses were quick to refill wine glasses as the meal progressed—the last item of a busy day.

Sunday morning a majority of the Quebec visitors, and some new-found friends, crowded into the small French parish church of St. Jean Baptiste, 301 Richmond, to hear mass and later have a light breakfast in the parish hall.

A group of some 120 went directly into three buses from the breakfast to the Canadian Services College at Royal Roads where they watched a cadet wing parade on the drill square, toured the grounds and had lunch in the castle wardroom.

Fine Boat Rides but No Fish

The others went back to the Empress and later were driven to the officers' mess of the Queen's Own Rifles and the wardroom of HMCS Naden for lunch.

Following the meals, a party of about 60 boarded a dozen private yachts at Tsehum Harbor and Canoe Cove and went fishing for 1½ hours. None were lucky but all enjoyed the boat ride under the warm sun.

Sunday evening was reserved for person-to-person contact in the homes of various citizens—a highlight of the trip.

All of the visitors were matched with their assigned citizen hosts in a military-style operation—helped by army signalmen and Victoria police—on the civil service parking lot across from the Empress at 4:30 p.m.

Together, hosts and guests, drove to Government House where Leutenant-Governor and Mrs. George Pearkes offered them another glittering reception as a prelude to the Sunday dinners served in almost 70 private residences scattered throughout the Greater Victoria area.

The Quebecers made their way back to the Empress in a clear, moonlit night ending a gloriously sunny autumn day that doubtless none will forget when they return to their homes.

Spirit Change Held Vital for United Canada

A change in spirit will lead to practical ways for French-English understanding in Canada, Quebec educator-priest Louis-Albert Vachon said here Saturday.

Msgr. Vachon, rector of Laval University, was asked following his admission as honorary doctor of laws at University of Victoria what he felt was the greatest way to bring unity to French and English-speaking Canada.

"We have the same esteem for human values, but we haven't the knowledge of one another," Msgr. Vachon said.

It is necessary for Canadians to "know our differences, to appreciate them, to make them meaningful . . . with mutual acceptance of our differences, culture and ethnic points of view," he said.

"I think our qualities and characteristics are complementary. One culture can help the other.

WORK TOGETHER

"When we realize this, we should live and work together.

"I think if there is a change in spirit we will find the ways.

"Many of the French-speaking people feel we don't have a full place in Canada. These are the spirited ones," Msgr. Vachon said, referring to separatists.

"The others hope we will have our place."

Blast Try Uncovered

FLIN FLON (CP) — RCMP said today an attempt was made during the weekend to blow up the federal building at this northwestern Manitoba town.

The police report said a fused bundle of 16 sticks of explosive was found by a mail sorter this morning.

The explosives had been dropped through an exterior mailing box. The fuse had been lit, police said, but burned out before igniting the explosives.

FIVE TURBINES

Japanese Win HydroContract

A Japanese firm has broken through the trade barrier to win a $4.6 million contract for turbines to power the mighty Peace River project.

B.C. Hydro co-chairman Dr. Gordon Shrum has announced award of the contract for five turbines to Mitsubishi International Corp.

"The board of directors is satisfied with the efficiency and delivery date of the turbines and the capability of Mitsubishi to meet all specifications," Dr. Shrum said.

READY BY 1968

Three of the 310,000-horsepower turbines will be ready for installation in the Portage Mountain powerhouse in the fall of 1968.

The other two will be built immediately afterwards.

Construction of the powerhouse will begin next year. Work is already under way on access tunnels.

Japanese bids are also expected for supply of five generators for the power plant.

Tenders will be opened next Jan. 1, a Hydro spokesman said.

The 2.3 million kilowatt power plant will have a greater capacity than any currently operating in the western world, he said.

He said Hydro is also about to award a contract for 800 transmission towers to carry power from the Portage Mountain dam to Prince George.

. . . LOOSE TALK

eign Minister Schroeder met with George Ball, U.S. undersecretary of state, and said West Germany and the United States are in full agreement on NATO's future.

Ball came to Bonn to discuss ways that Western Europe can be given a bigger voice in the control of nuclear weapons. He met with Chancellor Erhard after talking for two hours with Schroeder.

British Foreign Secretary Patrick Gordon Walker presented his Labor government's proposals for modifications in the U.S. plan for the multilateral nuclear force in meetings with Erhard and Schroeder Sunday.

The U.S. plan, which West Germany approves, calls for 25 surface ships armed with U.S. Polaris missiles and carrying crews of mixed nationalities. The United States would have the final say about firing the missiles.

SPREAD FORCE WIDER

The British proposals are reported to retain the idea of mixed crews but all for spreading the force among more NATO nations and including British planes and other aircraft.

The West German government told Gordon Walker it would study his proposals but it did not commit itself. Decisive steps are expected when British Prime Minister Wilson meets President Johnson in Washington Dec. 7-8.

In Washington Sunday, McGeorge Bundy, President Johnson's special assistant on national security affairs, said he doubts that France ever would withdraw from NATO.

Maximum Sentence

BURNABY (CP) — Kenelm Jesson, 17, was given the maximum jail sentence Friday when he appeared in court charged with crashing a party and assaulting a man. "This was a brutal, vicious and unprovoked attack on a complete stranger," said Magistrate Murray Hyde in handing down a sentence of two years less one day plus 12 months indefinite.

Moro's Headquarters Wrecked by Bombs

ROME (AP)—Two explosions wrecked the national headquarters of Premier Aldo Moro's Christian Democratic party early today, injuring two men slightly.

The bombing may have political repercussions in next Sunday's nation-wide municipal elections. The vote is considered a popularity test for Moro's centre-left coalition government.

Two charges were set off before the main gate to the party's headquarters. Four heavy steel doors on the building were blown from their hinges. Most of the office equipment on the ground floor was destroyed. Two holes were dug in the street. Hundreds of windows in adjoining houses were shattered.

A policeman and a night watchman were injured.

It was the second bombing in Italy within 24 hours, but it was not known if there was any connection between the two.

Sunday a time bomb shattered the mail car of the Munich-to-Rome Brenner Express. But postal employees heard the bomb ticking and the car was isolated on a siding in the South Tyrol. No one was injured.

That bombing was believed to be the work of anti-Italian terrorists inside Austria. The German-speaking population of the South Tyrol is seeking autonomy and the area has been the scene of frequent terrorist bombings.

TOUGHNESS in his role as an actor is even carried into his private life as Broderick Crawford, who walked into a plate glass door Saturday at Kennedy Airport, shrugged his shoulders claiming "it didn't hurt a bit." The cut needed 11 stitches.

New Branch To Police River Treaty

B.C. Hydro has set up a new department to police the Columbia River Treaty and to plan other long-range power projects for the province.

The new Major Resources Division will be headed by W. D. Kennedy, one of the key "backroom boys" in the negotiations which led up to the treaty between Canada and the U.S. for development of the Columbia.

ENGINEER TEAM

Working under Mr. Kennedy will be a special team of engineers.

They will be responsible for seeing that the conditions of the treaty are properly implemented.

They will also conduct any further negotiations necessary with the U.S.

In addition, they will carry out any further planning for new power projects in B.C.

REORGANIZED

Mr. Kennedy formerly headed Hydro's Economic and Commercial Services Division.

That department is being reorganized as the Commercial Services Division under H. A. Elliott, previously executive assistant to Mr. Kennedy.

Suspended for Life

HANEY (CP) — Francis Longley, 70, had his driver's licence suspended for life in police court Friday after the court heard of a car killing one man, colliding with another car and plunging off the Port Mann Freeway. Longley was sentenced to four months in jail for criminal negligence, two months for impaired driving, and three months for leaving the accident scene. Terms will run concurrently.

7 Syrians Dead In Border Clash

UNITED NATIONS (AP)—Israel and Syria go before the UN Security Council today to charge each other with aggression and ask for action to stop it.

The urgent council meeting resulted from artillery and air battles Friday and Saturday in which 10 persons were reported killed and 37 were wounded. It was the most serious outbreak along the border in years.

U.S. chief delegate Adlai E. Stevenson, the council president for November, called the noon meeting at the request of Syrian chief delegate Rafik Asha. Later he got a counter request from Israeli chief delegate Michael S. Comay.

A Syrian spokesman said his government was asking the 11-nation council "to condemn Israel and to stop her from committing aggression."

Israel was understood to want the council to call on Syria to hold its fire and settle any future grievances peacefully.

After hearing both nations, the council was expected to adjourn until members could study a report on the clashes from the head of the UN's Palestine truce organization, Lt.-Gen. Odd Bull of Norway.

REPORTS SEVEN DEAD

A Syrian army communique Friday charged that Israeli artillery that day shelled the Arab villages of Tel Hamra and Azyziat in the demilitarized zone between the two countries. It said Syrian forces hit back at five Israeli settlements and military positions and UN observers finally got a cease-fire. It said seven Syrians were killed and 26 were hurt.

Comay in a letter to Stevenson said Israeli planes brought about the cease-fire by attacking hilltop Syrian gun positions at Tel Hamra, Azyziat and Nikheila that had been bombarding the Israeli Valley settlements of Dan and Shaar Hyishuv for two hours. He said three Israelis were killed and 11 were hurt.

Another Syrian army communique said Israeli planes violated Syrian air space Saturday and, in a series of battles, Syrian planes hit one that was "seen exploding in mid-air."

An Israeli military spokesman in Tel Aviv denied any Israeli plane exploded. He said four Soviet-built Syrian jets violated Israeli air space and Israeli planes hit one of them, but its fate was unknown.

The council's last meeting on a Palestine question was Sept. 3, 1963, when it debated Israeli and Syrian cross-complaints. Russia vetoed a British-U.S. resolution to condemn Syria.

clined to assume attitudes—and it would be quite human to do so—which will be less and less understood and which would only succeed in pushing us into an isolation that, truly, we do not want," he added.

He stressed the rest of Canada may well hasten such a step by remaining more and more detached from the preoccupations and aspirations of Quebec, whether it be because of "indifference or of opposition."

COURSE IS SET

Lesage said his own idea of a future Canada was one where all the provinces "ten, or less, according to the future political configuration" would have more autonomy than at present, each discharging fully its constitutional responsibilities.

"It is upon this course that Quebec is set," he said.

The Quebec premier reiterated his dominant theme of more constitutional flexibility so that each of the constituent parts of the country would not be forced into a common mould.

"Particularly when they differ one from the others," he added.

Bank Worker Feted For 44-Year Service

Evelyn Greene said goodbye over the weekend to the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce, for which she has worked for 44 years and nine months.

Miss Greene, who will be 65 Tuesday, was to have worked her last day at the main Victoria branch at Government and Fort today—but was given the day off.

The bank's staff gave her a tea and presented her with a watch Friday and had a farewell party Saturday night.

She worked in the same office for 40 years—all but two months. She joined the bank in 1920 and came to the Victoria office four years later.

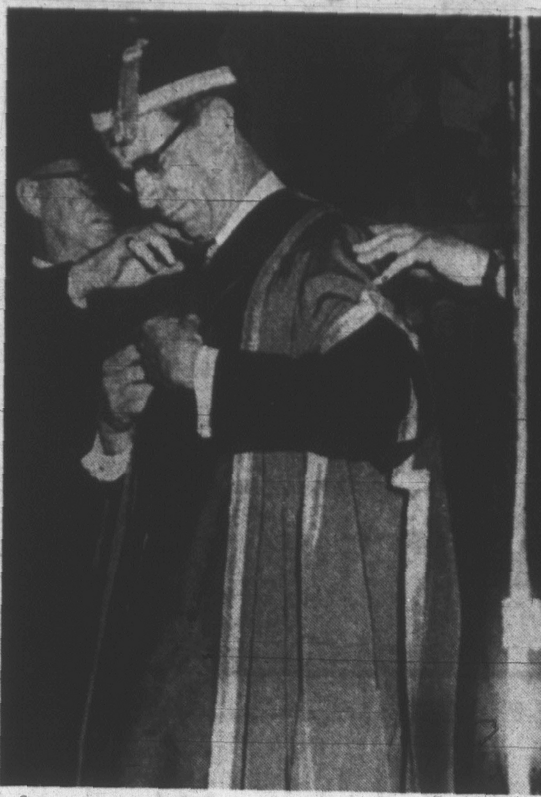
FIRST PRESIDENT PLEDGES

Uvic to Seek High Standard

By AB KENT



SOLEMN MOMENT in the making of a president occurred as university deans R. T. Wallace, left, and H. C. Gilliland robed Dr. Malcolm Taylor in distinctive blue and gold. Spell was broken immediately as guests and faculty rose to their feet in tumultuous tribute.

Formal installation of university president Dr. Malcolm G. Taylor was greeted by a thunderous standing ovation by 1,500 persons in a ceremony Saturday at Gordon Head campus.

A packed gymnasium watched as Dr. Taylor was robed by deans R. T. Wallace and H. C. Gilliland in distinctive blue and gold to become the first president of University of Victoria.

He was declared the new chief executive by Uvic chancellor J. B. Clearihue, who charged him to repeat the oath:

"I, Malcolm Gordon Taylor, do accept the office of president with all its duties and privileges.

"I solemnly vow before this assembly that with the help of the faculty, the students, and the governing bodies, I will do all in my power to enable this university to achieve the highest academic standards, to render service at all times to the community and to the world, and to continue diligently in the search for truth.

"I do now pledge myself to perform the duties of president of the University of Victoria as prescribed by law and custom, and at all times to promote the welfare of this institution, so help me God."

The colorful moment—flashed through with scarlets, blues, gold, silver and ermine of the academic assembly — brought tears to the eyes of Dr. Taylor's teen-aged daughter Deanne, sitting with Mrs. Taylor in the front seats.

As the guests rose to applaud, registrar Ronald Jeffels brought bouquets of roses to the president's wife and daughter, and to Dr. Taylor's mother, Mrs. Ora Taylor.

Greetings

It was a ceremony unlikely to be matched in Victoria for the number and stature of guests, visitors and special greetings from academic fields abroad.

Honorary doctor of laws degrees went to McGill University principal and vice-chancellor Dr. H. Rocke Robertson; Laval University rector Mnsgr. Louis-Albert Vachon; dominion archivist Dr. William K. Lamb, and industrialist - philanthropist Walter C. Koerner.

The president was welcomed by seven speakers, including Lieutenant - Governor G. R. Pearkes, Visitor to the University.

In addition, there were representative guests from many Canadian universities and from the western U.S. They bore some 20 engraved messages honoring the occasion.

Judge Clearihue made special mention of other chancellors and presidents here for the ceremony, naming University of B.C. chancellor Phyllis Ross and UBC president Dr. John B. Macdonald; chancellor Gordon Shrum and president Dr. Patrick McTaggart-Cowan of Simon Fraser University, and president Aquinas Thomas of Notre Dame University.

Dr. Macdonald spoke on behalf of UBC, the National Conference of Canadian Universities and Colleges and the International Association of Universities.

Never in the history of man, he said, have university responsibilities been so great, and he offered the support and encouragement of all three groups.

New Chief

Willard Ireland, secretary of the board of governors, pledged its best efforts to the university and its new executive head.

Prof. Sydney G. Pettit, speaking on behalf of the faculty, recognized the pressures under which Dr. Taylor would live—"the nag for material needs."

But he hoped the president would promote and direct the pursuit of knowledge, maintain universality in outlook, detachment from public opinion and reservation of judgment.

Student president Mrs. Olivia Barr noted Dr. Taylor has "understanding of student concerns and interest," and took the opportunity to place student autonomy on the line.

Student autonomy, she said, is part of academic freedom and Uvic students are aware of its responsibilities.

Autonomy

Today's student, in order to assume the responsibilities of tomorrow—as teacher, administrator and leader—must have autonomy on the campus, she said.

Dr. Taylor paid tribute in his inaugural address to Education Minister Leslie Peterson for the adoption of so many Chant report recommendations and the quick implementation of the Macdonald report on higher education, which resulted in the birth of Uvic.

"All the people of this province applaud what was not only a great decision but a decision for greatness," he said.

The president said the ceremony celebrates equally, besides the dedication of himself, the rededication of each member of the academic community to high ideals and noble purposes.

He said it is a privilege to belong to that group in such stirring times, when there are resources to create "if we but choose, the greatest educational system the world has ever known."

Last item on the program was formal declaration by Chancellor Clearihue of McPherson Library as the "heart of the university — storage house for the wisdom of the past, laboratory of today and the future."

Canada Urged To Join OAS

MONTREAL (UPI)—A call for Canada to join the Organization of American States (OAS) was made Friday by Argentine ambassador, Ricardo Pueyrredon.

"Canada can strengthen the OAS by contributing to peace in the western hemisphere and by joining will show Canada is willing to be involved in affairs of the hemisphere," the ambassador said.

Argentina has been urging the Canadian government to take up the seat set aside for her in Washington's OAS headquarters since 1928, the ambassador said.

'I Saved and Saved . . . for Burglar'

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Mohammed B Ben Ali had hoped to retire this year after 40 years of selling hot chestnuts, peanuts and popcorn from his pushcart.

But Saturday night burglars stole what he called his life savings of $24,000. The money included $10,000 in coins stuffed into peanut bags and hidden in shopping bags.

"I saved and saved and saved—all for a burglar," said the 68-year-old vendor. "I'm just a man without a life. . . . I feel like the blood has run out of me. I was going to retire this year."

TRAIN RAMS STALLED AUTO

Driver 'Pulled From Death'

MISSION (CP)—An RCMP constable pulled a motorist from his car seconds before it was rammed and demolished by a CPR train late Saturday night.

The RCMP said here Sunday that Allan James Bosch of Abbotsford, B.C., had left his car when it stalled straddling a railway crossing.

But Bosch then went back as the train approached and gave one last try at clearing the track.

The constable, who was not identified by RCMP, raced to the car and hauled Bosch out.

A Day of Great Promise

IT WAS A HAPPY COINCIDENCE that the University of Victoria officially received on Saturday both its head and its heart. With the inauguration of Dr. Malcolm Taylor as its first president, and the formal opening of its fine new library, the institution acquired two vital assets without which it could not be a true university.

In the preliminary months he has been with the University Dr. Taylor has given ample evidence that the good things said of him in Saturday's formal ceremony were not mere words. To his dedication to high academic standards and his appreciation of the role of both the scientific disciplines and the humanities in forming the whole man, he adds a commendable understanding of the place which a university must take in the community in which it grows and the firm bonds which must be maintained between the two if both are to gain the maximum benefit.

The excellent library has been graphically described as a "unifying and dynamic force within the whole University," and as "the heart of the University—a storage house for the wisdom of the past, a laboratory of today and the future." These things it will be—a vital part of the institution which with Saturday's ceremonies enters upon a great new era.

With a man of Dr. Taylor's abilities and beliefs to head it, with able and devoted faculty members who already are fashioning an enviable reputation, with a vigorous and questing student body that continually taxes the capacity of the fine new buildings surging up at Gordon Head, the University of Victoria faces a most promising future.

There will be problems, but they will be surmounted; there will be set-backs, but they will be recouped; there will be successes, and they will be but steps to further progress. A new life of incalculable potential now pulses in Greater Victoria, and it may well shape the whole future of our community.

Education for Unity

FOR SEVERAL YEARS PAST the government of West Germany has sponsored a program whereby selected parties of guests or individuals spend two weeks or more in visiting, and learning about, the Bonn Republic. As many as 3,000 persons may visit West Germany in a year, travelling without expense to any part of it they wish to see and being given every facility for obtaining information on any topic that interests them.

The result is that throughout the world there is a growing body of journalists, politicians, students, writers, artists and others who have a better understanding of the country and its people, and in most cases, undoubtedly, a very favorable impression.

If understanding is the key to international harmony and hence to peace, this West German governmental policy shapes up as a most interesting experiment. The expense to the nation no doubt is considerable, but it appears to be money well spent and a very productive form of "foreign aid".

The question arises: Would not a world-wide system of such sponsored visits and get-acquainted itineraries constitute a valuable contribution to world peace and a national expense of at least equal validity with armament expenditures? Canada might well give serious study to such a plan, with financial encouragement to selected persons of many countries to visit our land and gain an understanding of our people and our customs. What better investment could we make of a comparatively few thousand dollars each year?

But the project could be brought much nearer home, and with perhaps even more valuable results. Since lack of knowledge and understanding between Quebec and the other provinces is one of the chief defects arising from our country's geography, a planned program of federally sponsored visits between the people of all the provinces would have a great influence in bringing our nation into greater harmony. Far too many Canadians never see at first hand the people and activities of provinces other than their own; far too few Canadians know at first hand their fellow citizens of other parts of the country.

The current visit of Quebec mayors to Victoria provides an excellent example of the good relations which can be established when people meet and communicate. There should be many more such opportunities for mingling through both eastward and westward travel. Students of all ages, businessmen, teachers, tradesmen, scholars, anyone who would benefit himself and the country as a whole by personal study of another province could be eligible for a subsidized visit.

A national inter-travel plan would do much to help unify Canada, for unification will need a great deal more than long-range words. It needs it now.

Concentrations of Failure

IN HIS BOOK, "KIDS, CRIME and Chaos," a study of juvenile delinquency reprinted in paperback form this year, Mr. Roul Tunley offers an interesting comment on certain low-rental housing projects undertaken in some parts of the United States to replace slums.

Some of these projects provide modern, well-constructed high-rise apartments for those of modest, if any, earnings. They are physically great improvements on many of the hovels they have replaced. But the terms of tenancy and the actual design of the buildings have unfortunate secondary effects.

Because the premises are restricted to people of very low income, the more competent residents of a former slum area from which tenants are drawn are required to move away when their earnings pass a certain ceiling. Space has to be made by them for others less well off.

In consequence, says Mr. Tunley, quoting spokesmen living in the projects, the people of ability, of potential leadership, as reflected in earning capacity, are withdrawn, with serious social handicap to the community. The successes move out; the failures remain. The human material from which social improvement might be expected on a self-help basis, is removed.

Moreover, the nature of apartment construction is such that many families lose touch with one another by the elimination of gathering points familiar to them when they lived in under-privileged areas. They lack focal points for daily contact and, to a degree, feel themselves prisoners of their improved environments.

Arguments can be raised against these complaints. It seems logical, however, to assume that if self-improvement is to be generated from below, not imposed from above, the newly settled family units will suffer when their brightest neighbors are forced to vacate.

Of, for and by Indians

PROVIDED NO ONE EXPECTS overnight success from the experiment, the project conceived by and for Port Simpson, B.C., Indians could give the native peoples in this province an object lesson in self-improvement.

The Indians in question now possess substantial means from the sale of timber. They have certain convictions about the need to secure stable employment for members of the band and are interested in making educational opportunities more attractive for young and adult alike.

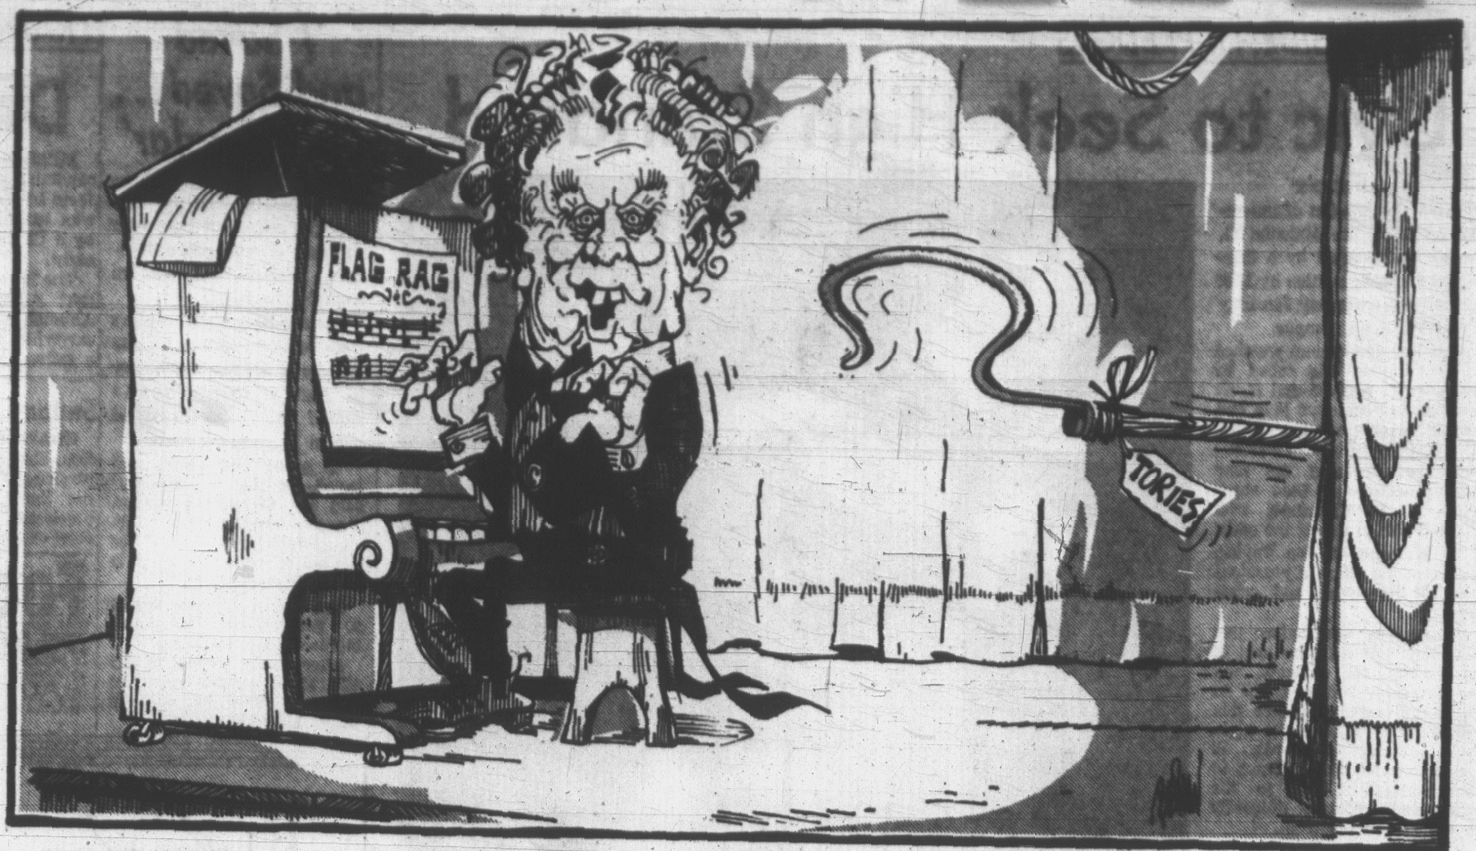
In co-operation with the provincial government and the federal government, with costs split about equally three ways, they are engaging a specially trained counsellor to assist them in devising the most suitable way to achieve their purpose.

Prospects are bright. The band is so located that it can draw on the rich physical resources of the area. In addition to timber land, the Port Simpson people have easy access to good fishing grounds. They have a good elementary school and, perhaps most important, a determination to improve their standard of living.

Even with these advantages it is not a foregone conclusion that their efforts will produce success after success. There are natural hurdles to be overcome and there are conditions beyond their control which could set the experiment back.

At the same time the attitude of the band, coupled with the willingness to seek advice and joined to what could be a relatively stable economic base, furnish grounds for optimism.

The importance of the project stems in large part from the fact that the incentive comes from the Indians themselves. If their enterprise flourishes, this could be an excellent stimulus to action by other Indians.



"For my next number . . . !"

A ROUSING BOOM ON THE PRAIRIES

By JAMES GRAY

Millions of Dollars Worth of Public Works Approved

While no one has been watching, the people of the western prairies have been having the best year of their lives.

The dimensions of the boom can be measured by an unprecedented speech made recently by Hon. Ross Thatcher, Premier of Saskatchewan. He went before the Wheat Pool convention and spelled out some $12,000,000 worth of tax cuts he is going to make at the next session of the legislature.

Not within the memory of the oldest taxpayer on the plains has any in-office politico talked tax cuts of that magnitude. Until now, the question has been the natural monopoly of out-of-office politicians.

Mr. Thatcher said that the people of Saskatchewan would be enriched by $9,000,000 by reduction of the provincial sales tax from five per cent to four per cent. Farmers would be permitted to use tax free purple gasoline in their trucks and this would save them $3,000,000. That will work out at better than $33 per farmer next year — and $33 will buy a lot of curling brooms. As a soupcon, he added that farmers will save an additional $500,000 a year with the removal of the 3c-per-acre mineral tax.

Buoyant revenues from a booming province, coupled with a lot of fat-paring from the estimated expenditures, make Mr. Thatcher's cuts possible. Far greater cuts would be possible in Alberta, except for the fact that Alberta's Social Credit government has never believed in cutting taxes.

The Alberta treasurer recently released figures for the last fiscal year which put Alberta's budget surplus at $44,000,000. Most of the increase came from increased revenue from royalties and sale of natural resources. As income from this source in 1964 has been far greater than last year, another whopping increase is expected in the surplus this year.

Perhaps more important as boom indicators are the figures now being released to shareholders of the prairie co-operatives, for it is now annual meeting time. The figures of the Canadian Co-operative Implements Limited are typical.

The big machinery co-op sales are running 40 per cent above last year, its plant has been running at full capacity for months trying to catch up with demand. It expects to pay dividends of $750,000 to its customers this year, or more than double what it paid out in 1963.

In Alberta, the big U.F.A. Co-operative has just reported sales of $21,129,000 for its last fiscal year, an all-time record and more than $2,430,000 up from last year. The United Grain Growers' Co-operative has just completed its best year on record, and that is going back almost 50 years. For most co-operatives, the fiscal year begins on August 1, the start of the new crop year.

The signs of the boom are everywhere apparent in the cities of the west in new buildings of every kind which are rising high above them. Retail trade is at record levels and the classified columns are full of help-wanted ads. But even more important than any of these is the complete submergence of the defeatism of the depression. At the recent civic elections, millions of dollars worth of public works were approved by the ratepayers.

In Regina in particular the voice of the taxpayers was surprisingly clear. In both Regina and Saskatoon there have been long hassles over the construction of Jubilee auditoriums. Both cities had visions of $4 - $5,000,000 buildings with the federal and provincial government picking up most of the tab. The new Thatcher government shook everything down to earth by putting a ceiling of around $1,000,000 on its contribution to each.

Regina then asked the ratepayers to approve an expenditure of $1,000,000, and they gave the money by-laws an overwhelming majority.

In Saskatoon, even the controversial $2,500,000 Idlewyld Bridge across the Saskatchewan River was approved, though by a narrow margin. The east side of the city was for the bridge and the west side dead against it. However, another $2,000,000 worth of public works gained a substantial majority.

The confident spirit of the larger cities has been apparent in most of the small centres as well. Majorities of three and four to one have been recorded for school by-laws.

FROM WASHINGTON

By JOSEPH ALSOP

Alsop

THE first proof has now been given that the fall of Nikita S. Khrushchev was a beginning as well as an end. The occasion, appropriately enough, was the celebration of the 47th anniversary of the Russian revolution in Moscow. At the Kremlin reception after the big parade, Khrushchev's successor, first party secretary Leonid Brezhnev, called on Marshal Rodion Malinovsky to offer a toast.

The burly Soviet defence minister seized the opportunity to denounce the United States in general, and secretary of defence Robert McNamara in particular, in extremely threatening terms.

Brezhnev's partner, the chairman of the council of ministers, Alexei Kosygin, at once hurried over to U.S. ambassador Foy Kohler to offer what came close to a formal apology for Malinovsky's remarks. And, although all the other toasts were published in full in next day's "Pravda," the toast by Malinovsky was heavily censored.

It was somewhat unusual, though not absolutely unprecedented, for Malinovsky to be asked to give his toast; the only toast-givers are generally members of the all-powerful presidium. It was extremely unusual, indeed virtually unprecedented, for Kosygin to offer a near-apology on the spot to the American ambassador. And Pravada's subsequent censorship of Malinovsky, in effect, announced officially that the defence minister had gone much too far.

This kind of episode in Moscow always means that there is a dispute about policy, and therefore a contest for power. The end of the Khrushchev era in Russia was therefore no more than the beginning of a struggle to succeed Khrushchev—a struggle which was not finally settled by the appointment of Brezhnev and Kosygin.

On the probable pattern of the power-struggle, considerable light is shed by the earlier episode that almost all the experts now regard as the immediate cause of Khrushchev's fall. In September, in brief, Khrushchev, the other members of the presidium, and the higher Soviet economic planners, held a long meeting to discuss the always troubled subject of investment priorities.

Since no announcement of any result followed the meeting, it is clear that agreement was not reached in September. At the beginning of October, however, Khrushchev boldly attempted to impose his own will by causing most of his speech to the September meeting to be published in "Pravda," with the implication that the Khrushchev recommendations had been approved.

Khrushchev's attempt was doubly bold. On the one hand, the prerogatives of all the other members of the presidium had been flagrantly flouted, by the effort to force immediate acceptance of the Khrushchev line despite the September meeting's failure to reach agreement.

On the other hand, the interests of the armed forces were directly threatened by the Khrushchev line. For he gave first investment priority to consumer's goods, and put the needs of defence and heavy industry a long way second.

It seems highly probable, therefore, that Malinovsky and the other marshals threw all the weight of the Soviet defence establishment into the balance against Khrushchev. This weight, added to the discontent of the other presidium members, caused Khrushchev's fall.

Junior representatives of the Soviet government are now passing the word, both here and in Europe, that the armed forces had no role in the dismissal of Khrushchev. But this claim is pretty strongly challenged by the strange business of Malinovsky's Kremlin toast.

What Malinovsky did was the kind of thing that men do when they are suffering from a slight rush of arrogance to the head. And what better cause for arrogance could Malinovsky have, than the happy confidence of having helped importantly to destroy Khrushchev?

The near-apology by Kosygin in turn implies that the Brezhnev-Kosygin team is seriously committed to a kind of neo-Khrushchev policy, with considerable emphasis on peaceful co-existence. But since Malinovsky dared to take a much harder line, it is obvious that a harder line is also supported by other men seeking the top Kremlin job.

So the drama has started, with the Chinese Communists also playing major roles.

Editorial Voices Heard in Quebec

Quebec L'Evenement

Quebec's attorney-general, Claude Wagner, has declared in a Montreal speech that separatism and extremism must not be confused but that carelessness can lead to one getting mixed up with the other. . .

However, the separatists, even if one disapproves of their ideas, have the right to make themselves heard—on condition, as Mr. Wagner reminded us, that they express their opinions within the bounds set down by the law and according to democratic practices. That holds good not only for separatists but for all other currents of opinion and political parties as well.

Whatever form it might take—whether it be of the right, left, nationalist or anti-nationalist—extremism is to be condemned if it resorts to violence. In this community, the law should not be hard on extremists just because they happen to be separatists but rather because they are extremists and thus use violence.

In his speech, Mr. Wagner showed that he knows how to make the necessary distinctions. But firmness is not brutality. The police should take their cue from this and act with discernment. This is not always the case, as was shown by recent events in Quebec City. In other words, violence generates more violence and it is not always easy to stay cool. However, this is a reflection of the times in which we live.

Quebec Le Soleil

Already divided on the flag question, is the Conservative party going to be divided on another question, that of "repatriating" the constitution? The opposition leader, Mr. Diefenbaker, who has been opposing the adoption of a truly national flag, now has mounted a new battle horse—the repatriation formula for the constitution. . . .

If we correctly understand Mr. Diefenbaker, the government's attitude in this matter leads right straight to a weakening of federal prerogatives and he says it would be new proof of the weakness of the Pearson government vis-a-vis the provinces, particularly Quebec.

Perhaps the most striking denial to this allegation came from Conservative personalities themselves, among others Davie Fulton, former justice minister in the Conservative government. He originated the present formula which was picked up by Mr. Favreau who obtained the agreement of the provinces and the federal governemnt last Oct. 14. .

Where Mr. Diefenbaker no doubt has his most serious reservations is in Article 91-1 where the Fulton formula was modified. Thus dispositions concerning federal jurisdiction cannot be changed unilaterally by Ottawa if they touch on use of French and English, or the representation of a province in the Commons or the Senate.

This is not a "capitulation" by the federal government but recognition, even more explicit, of the fundamentally bicultural character of the nation. Thanks in good measure to this article, the discussions which dragged on for 30 years over "repatriating" the constitution have come to a conclusion. . .

Missed the Point

Your October 31 issue, in a column entitled "Big Brother Gives Lessons in China," reports on the lecture I delivered on Friday, October 30, to the Humanities Association at the University of Victoria. Your article seriously distorts the essence of what I said in this lecture. Through systematic selection of very much paraphrased statements out of their context you describe my lecture in sweeping generalizations and with a slant which it did not have. This slant is summed up in the misleading sensational nature of your headline.

To begin with, I pointed out that the Chinese language itself does not discriminate between "education" and "indoctrination" and that "thought reform" as well as other aspects of education in China about which so much has been made in the West, do not actually constitute drastic departures from Chinese cultural traditions.

Communism has now replaced Confucianism as a state philosophy and the education-indoctrination is aimed at re-creating the community of belief between rulers and ruled characteristic of traditional Chinese society and for that matter, of pre-Reformation Europe.

You say nothing of the picture I gave of the tremendous development and popularization of education in China under the new regime. I said that, in the process of rapid popularization of education a certain lowering of academic standards is inevitable (as anyone who compares North American educational standards wih European ones will discover) and that in China this phenomenon has been aggravated by the extreme politicization of the education.

As to the conclusion which you attribute to me that: "the ideological emphasis on the party truth has malformed a people beyond rational understanding, and to an extent where it would take 'a long time' for their reconversion to orthodox acceptance of facts," this is nothing but a product of your own imagination and in no way reflects what I stated in my lecture.

BETWEEN OURSELVES

By Elizabeth Forbes

Today we mark a very happy occasion in the presence here of members of the Quebec Union of Municipalities and their wives.

I know our visitors will take away with them many memories of this city, its people and its surroundings.

Just as we have brought back memories of friendships made and places visited on occasions when we have been in their province.

I cannot, in the wildest sense of the term, call myself a linguist. My French is very poor. Yet, on visits I have made to Quebec, I have found friendship wherever I walked.

The taxi drivers of Montreal, the people of the Gaspe, the families I stayed with and the country folk with whom I talked, often in sign language, all accepted me as an English-speaking Canadian with a few words of French.

I accepted them as French-speaking Canadians with a few words of English.

It was as simple as that.

We laughed together at my mistakes in French and their mistakes in English.

We drank black, black coffee while we conferred on our various needs as a nation.

In the market places, piled high with produce, we discussed the merits and compared prices of fruits and vegetables, eggs, and poultry and even medicinal remedies that had come down through generations in some families.

We found that despite limited knowledge of each parent language, we had much . . . so much . . . in common. Also, that we could be friends even if we did have differences of opinion.

* * *

I never think of Montreal without wandering in memory down the hill to the Bonsecours, where the sailor's church still points the way to those returning from the sea.

I remember, too, the Place D'Armes which was the scene of a battle between the French and the Iroquois in the early days of the colony.

Today, a life-size statue of Maisonneauve, founder of Ville Marie (Montreal) in 1642, holds place of honor in the square. Near at hand is the Church of Notre Dame and the Saint Sulpice Seminary, the later dating back to the French regime.

In memory I return again and again, to Rue Ste-Genevieve, within the old walled city of Quebec, and to a tall, narrow house where I stayed as a paying guest.

To reach my room on the third floor, I climbed a curving stairway, painted white, and with a statue of the Madonna in a niche, midway up. My hosts, a French-Canadian family, became real friends.

I think, too, of market day in Quebec City's lower town and of the country people who came to sell their wares.

The market opened with morning chimes from the church tower across the road and closed with evensong from the same chimes as the sun went down.

* * *

There's the family Bourgruit, among the last of the famed Quebec wood carvers. I spent an afternoon in their workshop at the village of Saint Jean Port Joli on the St. Lawrence River.

Near by, a quick moving French-Canadian woman, who spoke so rapidly I could hardly catch a word, fed me home-made doughnuts with real maple syrup.

I think too, of the women of Quebec I have met around conference tables and of the discussions we have held.

We approached each subject with open minds and without bias. We didn't always agree but we did respect each other's opinions and we did learn that the problems we faced were much the same, in any language.

* * *

Visit of the members of the Quebec Union of Municipalities to this city, points with much greater significance to this same kind of mutual understanding and to the sensible approach that respects both language and sentiments of the other person.

Let us hope that their visit will set the example for an exchange of similar visits between eastern and western provinces and that from such visits will come increased concentration—in the future—on areas of agreement and less on the patterns of disagreement that have clouded Canada's immediate past.

YOUR HEALTH

By DR. WALTER ALVAREZ

A Floating Kidney

A number of women write to ask about the adviability of having a floating kidney sewed up into the space where it is supposed to be. (A "floating" kidney is one that comes down unusually far when the person stands up.) The operation used to be a popular one, but today I think it is seldom performed. What happened was that many years ago Dr. William Braasch, until his retirement chief of the urologic section of the Mayo Clinic, went over the records of the few "suspension operations" on floating kidneys that had been performed at the clinic in the previous many years, and concluded that in almost all cases the patient had received no benefit. Evidently his or her symptoms had not been due to the "floating kidney."

Alvarez

Hence, in all my 25 years, working at the Mayo Clinic, I never saw anyone who had his kidney sewed up where it was supposed to stay. Certainly I would never permit anyone to perform this operation on me unless my right kidney was floating about in the right side of my abdomen, and producing definite symptoms, perhaps relievable by a special belt.

* * *

A number of menopausal women write to say that after the loss of their ovarian function, the lime went out of the vertebrae in the upper part of their spine, and as a result, this part of the spine caved in, leaving them very round-shouldered. With the collapse of the spine, some of the many nerves that come out of the sides of the spinal column and run outward and downward between the ribs, became pinched; and with this came pain in the chest wall, and perhaps down in the abdominal wall. What is sad is that I have seen even very able orthopedists, neurologists, and arthritis experts more or less stumped as to what to do to relieve the almost constant and sometimes demoralizing pain. Commonly the giving of calcium plus vitamin D does not help; the calcium (lime) just does not go into the vertebrae and stay there—to strengthen them.

Theoretically, the giving of ovarian hormone should help, but commonly it does not make the woman any more comfortable. Some physicians add male hormone, but this also commonly fails to help.

Some physicians tell me that they have relieved the pain for a while by giving a cortisone type of drug. The trouble with that is that if the drug is given in fairly large doses or for too long a time, it can do much harm in a number of ways.

One thing the physician can do—and this is to give plenty of sleeping medicine at night, together with pain relievers such as aspirin plus codeine (if the woman can take these medicines comfortably). I have never seen either a codeine or a barbiturate habit in a sensible person. A few people can get much help from an alcoholic drink, but that, of course, in some people can produce habituation.

If excruciating unbearable pain comes, the physician can try methadone, which is perhaps the least habituating of the strong pain relievers. I have seen a sensible woman take methadone perhaps three times a week for several years before she began to get habituated. Then she stopped using the drug—without much difficulty.

IN FUTURE ELECTIONS

Political Split on Racial Lines Predicted

WINNIPEG (CP) — Through failure to attend to divisions in Canada, the two major political parties are in danger of fighting future elections along lines of racial origin, Senator M. Wallace McCutcheon said Saurday.

In a speech to the Manitoba Progressive Conservative Association, the former Conservative cabinet minister said:

"The prospect of a Liberal party with its strength centred almost exclusively in Quebec is as disturbing as a Conservative party representative of only English-speaking Canada.

"I do not want the word Liberal to mean French. And I do not want the word Conservative to mean English."

He criticized the Liberal government for a lack of over-all policy.

". . . It is the absence of a stated and coherent set of principles and objectives that has brought the present federal Liberal government to grief in many areas. Whether it is dominion-provincial relations, fiscal and economic decisions, social policy or flags, one is left with the impresion that there is no government position that cannot be bargained with or re-negotiated, that there are no limits that cannot be adjusted upwards or downwards, and there is in fact nothing permanent or inviolable and that everything is flexible."

"By this I mean first of all its moral authority, its right and duty when dealing with the governments of 10 provinces, or with business or labor or agriculture or any other segment of the country, to insist on its role as spokesman for all of the country."

This might seem elementary, but "I would like to be convinced that this moral authority has not at best fallen into disuse and at worst been seriously eroded of late."

Labor Puts Tight Rein On Members

LONDON (AP)—The Labor party is putting a tight rein on its members in the House of Commons, and some complain they are being treated like schoolboys.

Stringent attendance rules laid down by chief whip Edward Short, a former high school principal, may increase pressure from the rank and file for the leadership to gamble on a new election that might produce a larger majority and easier working hours.

One sweetener for MPs forced to spend much of their time in Parliament is the prospect of higher pay. Prime Minister Wilson was expected to announce government plans for a raise today.

British MPs earn £1,750 ($5,250) a year, one of the lowest parliamentary salaries in the Western world. They get no free postage, secretarial help or government office space.

Under Short's rules to protect Labor's five-vote margin against Conservative calls for a snap vote, every Labor MP must be in the House by 3:30 p.m. and remain until the House adjourns, usually about 11 p.m. This is hard on those who must earn another salary, as many do.

The rules do not apply as strictly to members who also are ministers in the government, thereby giving rise to some complaints from the rank and file.

Short has installed a quota system that allows members about one day off a week, which they obtain by pairing with a Tory member who also wants to stay away.

TODAY'S GRAIN PRICES

WINNIPEG

WINNIPEG (CP) — Most prices were irregular near the close of dull trade today on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange.

Flax hesitated at times with more liberal offerings from commission houses.

Some selling was started by a report that the United States agricultural department was considering a subsidy on surplus flax for export. This touched off more liberal offerings, but the market rallied from extreme lows at times.

There was some inquiry for Canadian flax from France.

Oats and barley trade disclosed modest overseas shipping support, especially in barley.

Rye was erratic in light trade. Early recessions were erased.

CHICAGO

CHICAGO (AP)—Wheat weakened on the grain futures market on the Board of Trade but the rest of the cereals and soybeans were steady to firm late today.

Wheat declined as a result of weekend rains that soaked much of the drought-stricken areas of the U.S. midwest and southwest.

Corn was made on buying by exporters and commercial houses. Much of the early trade in corn was regarded as spreading operations.

Rye and oats were little changed from previous closes.

United Press International

A race against time began today in the U.S. in an effort to settle or head off strikes that could paralyze Ford Motor Co. operations and America's railroads by the end of thhe week.

Efforts continued to end strikes against Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing Co. plants in four cities, the Detroit newspaper walkout, a strike against Corn Products Refining Co. and the West Coast pulp and paper company strikes.

Ford, its production of 1965 cars and trucks dwindling under the impact of scattered local strikes by the United Auto Workers' Union, was expected to shut down its major assembly centres by Friday if the disputes are not resolved.

Nearly half of Ford's 130,000 hourly rated workers were on strike or idled because of the walkouts, some of them at key plants manufacturing parts without which production eventually will have to come to a halt.

Five of the original nine locals that went on strike Nov. 6, despite a national agreement between Ford and the UAW, still were out today.

LAST-DITCH TALKS

Negotiators for six railroad shopcraft unions were scheduled to meet today with federal mediators in a last-ditch effort to head off a possible nation-wide rail tieup. The six AFL-CIO unions could walk out Friday.

Union official Michael Fox announced a news conference for this afternoon in Chicago. He was expected to formally announce the strike plans.

J. E. Wolfe, chief railroad negotiator, also was in Chicago in case the unions decide to renew talks directly with the carriers.

The dissident unions include machinists, boilermakers, sheet-metal workers, oilers and electrical workers. The chief issue in the dispute is the union demand for a wage increase in excess of the 27 cents an hour over a three-year period. The 27-cents pay boost was approved by a U.S. presidential emergency board earlier this year.

One strike was technically over today but production was unlikely to resume.

ONE SETTLED

The Printing Pressmen's Union, Local 13, which has been on strike against Detroit Free Press and Detroit News for 127 days, voted Sunday to end the walkout against the Free Press.

In other developments on the labor scene:

- More than 700 local union presidents of the United Steelworkers meet in New York City today to help formulate demands in forthcoming contract negotiations with the basic steel industry.
- New negotiations were set in Washington today in an attempt to settle the five-day strike of 48 pulp and paper-producing plants in Oregon, Washington and California. About 21,000 workers are on strike.

The walkout of 10,700 United Auto Workers at five Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing Co. plants in four cities began its second week. National agreements remain to be reached with the United Auto Workers in plants at Cedar Rapids, Iawo; La Crosse, Wis.; La Porte, Ind.; West Allis, Wis., and Springfield, Ill.

POLITICAL CLIMATE HITS REAL ESTATE

MONTREAL (CP)—John Hargraft, industrial real estate manager of National Trust Co., Ltd., in Montreal, claims "the political climate" resulted last month in a client deciding not to invest $150,000,000 in industrial real estate in Montreal.

Mr. Hargraft was speaking at a one-day sales conference of the Montreal Real Estate Board.

He said real estate agents had not been able to erase the "extremist reputation created by the actions of separatists and the contradictory political statements of some cabinet ministers.

Fear of nationalization also had resulted from government sponsorship of the establishment of a Quebec steel industry and ambiguous statements about the mining industry, Mr. Hargraft said.

BUY B.C. PRODUCTS AT SAFEWAY

It is always Safeway's policy to support local growers, producers and manufacturers whenever and wherever possible.

Safeway features a wide variety of fresh and processed fruits, vegetables and dairy products grown and produced in the rich fertile valleys of British Columbia.

B.C.'s famous fishing industry is represented with large selections of fresh and canned seafoods. The forest industry is represented in the majority of paper products which are displayed . . . and in much of the wrapping and packaging material used by manufacturers and at store level.

In addition, support is given to local and national companies, with plants in B.C., which process and pack quality items made from both local and imported products.

Your support of these "grown and made in B.C. products" helps to maintain the level of B.C.'s growing economy and payroll.

Bills Bombed, But Colts Squeeze Past Vikings

By Associated Press

The law of averages caught up with Buffalo Bills, the bench took over for Baltimore Colts and its was business as usual for Cleveland Browns and San Diego Chargers as all four divisional leaders remained firmly in command in the National and American Football Leagues.

The Bills, troubled by injuries, lost the perfect record in major professional football Sunday as Boston Patriots downed them 36-28 for their first loss after nine straight victories. But the Pats' 7-2-1 record still leaves them with plenty of ground to make up in the AFL's Eastern Division.

The Chargers, who match Boston's won-lost figures, just about sewed up the Western title by handing a 28-14 setback to Kansas City Chiefs, their closest pursuers, who now have lost five of their nine starts.

Denver Broncos topped New York Jets 10-6 and Oakland Raiders crushed Houston Oilers 20-10 in the remaining AFL games.

Alex Hawkins, captain of Baltimore's punt-return unit but a rare performer in the Colts' offensive lineup, made a diving catch of a 26-yard touchdown pass from Johnny Unitas to give his club its ninth victory in 10 NFL games, a 17-14 decision over Minnesota Vikings, and a virtual stranglehold on the Western Division title as their closest pursuers bit the dust.

NEED ONE VICTORY

One more victory in their four remaining games will put the Colts beyond the reach of Los Angeles Rams and Detroit Lions, who both lost Sunday.

Cleveland Browns also gained ground in the East, extending their lead over St. Louis Cardinals to 2½ games as Jimmy Brown scored two touchdowns in their 37-21 victory over Detroit while the Cards were held to a 10-10 tie by New York Giants.

In other games, Chicago Bears stopped Los Angeles 34-24, San Francisco '49ers upset Green Bay Packers 24-14, Philadelphia Eagles edged Dallas Cowboys 17-14 and Washington Redskins walloped Pittsburgh Steelers 30-0.

The Colts broke a scoreless tie with Lou Michaels' 35-yard field goal and Unitas' 74-yard touchdown pass to Lenny Moore in the third quarter. Moore's score marked the 13th consecutive game in which he has gone across with a touchdown.

SADAIR CRACKS . . . . . . TRACK RECORD

Rich Run Just a Romp

NEW YORK (AP)—Sadair opened up one-quarter mile from the finish line Saturday and went on to a 10-length triumph and a track record performance in the $301,700 Garden State Stakes at Cherry Hill, N.J.

The son of Petare—Blue Missy, already winner of the Arlington-Washington futurity, won the world's richest race by carrying the silks of Mrs. Mary B. Hecht's North Forty Stable of High Falls, N.Y., over the 1 1-16 miles in 1:41. The time clipped two-fifths of a second off the track record.

Under Manuel Ycaza's well-timed ride, Sadair came from out of the pack rounding the far turn and made a farce of the 12th running of the rich event for two-year-olds.

The Florida-bred colt, trained by former pro footballer Les Lear, earned $181,020 and boosted his bank account to $387,306. He never has been out of the money.

In New York, French-bred Point do Jour, owned by Mrs. Magruder Dent, won the 1 3/16 mile Roamer at Acqueduct like it was a sprint.

Taking the lead at the start, Point do Jour, with Jimmy Combest up, scored by four lengths over even-money favorite Irvkup, eight lengths farther back came Twice as Gay.

At San Mateo, Calif., Now Buck won his first stakes victory in capturing the $10,000 added Burlingame Stakes at Bay Meadows.

Owned by Mrs. William G. Gilmore of Atherton, Calif., the son of Buckhound finished 2¾ lengths ahead of Lucky Mel Jr, Triple Light was third

We heard you were looking for a tough little car…

Epic uses the rack and pinion steering incorporated in almost all racing cars for faster, lighter, vibration-free handling and tight cornering. Epic's turning circle: 29 feet.

(The Tough Little Car from General Motors)

We tore it over some of the roughest back roads we could find on the map. We ploughed it through some of the worst sub-zero winter weather Canada can dish out.

But Epic came out fighting! That's because we really gave it the works to begin with. We gave it a smooth-riding, independent front suspension system, guaranteed to unwrinkle any road. We gave it a high-performance 50-hp engine that's a stand-out in its class for lively acceleration. We designed Epic's rack and pinion steering for faster handling, superb cornering and effortless, fingertip control.

We built plenty of stamina into Epic, which is a polite way of saying it's a Tough Little Car!

And the strange part is—Epic doesn't look little. It's got big-car styling and big car ideas on roominess and trunk space.

See the Envoy Epic at one of the Chevrolet-Envoy dealers you'll find all across Canada. Take the keys and test out the Tough Little Car from General Motors for yourself.

Goalies Hear From Snipers

Hull and Howe Fire Loudest Bombs As NHL Scorers Have Big Weekend

By The Canadian Press

The backstops have been hogging the headlines since the start of the season but surrendered 28 goals in five games as the shooters were heard from. And loudly they spoke:

—Bobby Hull scored three goals in one game, the 13th time he has performed this feat.

—Gordie Howe scored his 627th goal, the most tallies by a player in regular season and playoff games.

Hull ran his goal total for the season to 11 in 13 games as he produced the tying, winning and insurance markers as Chicago Black Hawks dumped Toronto Maple Leafs 4-2. Hull also got an assist when he set up Stan Mikita's goal that gave ths Hawks a 1-0 lead.

Elsewhere, Detroit Red Wings gained a one-point lead in the standings by walloping Jacques Plante and New York Rangers 6-2 while Montreal slipped to second place because of a 2-2 deadlock with the Bruins in Boston.

TOPS RECORD

The Canadiens had gained a temporary tie for first place with a 4-2 triumph over Detroit Saturday night while Boston upset Toronto 3-1 in the only other NHL game played.

Howe passed Maurice (Rocket) Richard's career total of 626 goals before 14,809 Montreal fans had even settled in their seats. He picked up a loose puck and beat Hodge with a high shot at 0:20 of the period.

Toronto, playing without Frank Mahovlich and Dave Keon, kept third place despite the two losses but fell four points back of Detroit. Chicago and New York are tied for fourth with 13 and the Bruins have nine.

The Leafs overcame Mikita's goal with second-period markers by Tim Horton and Andy Bathgate. But Hull slapped a shot past Johnny Bower to tie the score and added two goals in the third.

He whacked Red Hay's rebound into the Toronto net at 1:54 of the finale and then boomed a shot that Bower couldn't even see, let alone stop, at 12:28.

The Wings erupted for four goals in the third period to beat the Rangers. Rod Gilbert had scored twice to give New York a 2-0 bulge but Bruce MacGregor engineered a Detroit comeback with two goals including the winner. Ron Murphy, Doug Barkley, Lowell MacDonald and Lindsay added singles.

A New York crowd of 15,682 saw Plante's bubble burst under the fire of 37 shots. New York had won two games since Plante replaced injured Marcel Paille in nets.

Lions Locate the Key Late; Trample Stamps

Stunning Second Half Display Cools Calgary

CALGARY (CP) — British Columbia Lions spent 30 minutes Saturday searching for the system they had used to win five games in six tries against Calgary Stampeders, then located the key in the last half in time for a 24-10 triumph in the first game of the 1964 Western Football Conference final.

The Lions disappointed 21,236 fans at McMahon Stadium with a stubborn defensive effort that held Calgary to one first down in the final 30 minutes.

The victory gave British Columbia a big advantage in the best-of-three final because the remainder of the series—Wednesday and if necessary, Sunday, Nov. 22—will be staged at Vancouver.

Bob Swift scored two touchdowns for British Columbia, both on short charges through the middle. Willie Fleming added one on a 21-yard dash. Peter Kempf kicked a field goal and two converts and Neil Beaumont hoisted a decisive fourth-quarter single.

Lovell Coleman, the WFC's leading rusher and Western nominee as Canada's outstanding Player of the Year, scored a first-quarter Calgary touchdown on a one-yard plunge. Larry Robinson, top Canadian in Western Canada this year, converted and added a field goal.

Calgary led 10-0 after the first quarter and 10-3 at halftime. British Columbia held a 17-10 third-quarter edge.

The single by Beaumont gave British Columbia an 18-10 lead with less than five minutes remaining. It also cost Calgary the services of import defensive back Jesse Branch for the remainder of the season. Branch fumbled Beaumont's 41-yard loft and dived into a pile of players to recover it. He came out of the pileup with a dislocated left shoulder.

British Columbia also suffered an injury when centre Gary Schwertfeger limped off in the fourth quarter with stretched knee ligaments. Coach Dave Skrien said Schwertfeger probably would be replaced by another import, Jesse Williams.

Penalties Costly to Both Teams

Calgary coach Bobby Dobbs said he could not predict who would replace Branch. Import backs Lu Bain and Paul Dudley are possibilities, with Bain first choice if he comes off the injured reserve list.

Two penalties, one for no yards and one for pass interference, led to the Calgary touchdown. From the Calgary 38, Jim Dillard accepted four passes, the last of which carried play to the one. Coleman dived over centre for the major and Robinson converted.

Eagle Day hit Dillard on a 14-yarder and struck for 16 yards to Herman Harrison to lead to Robinson's field goal with 42 seconds left in the quarter. Robinson connected from the 30.

One British Columbia drive died in the second quarter when Ron Payne recovered Swift's fumble on the Calgary 16, but the Lions regrouped later for a field goal after Burton eluded two tacklers on a 32-yard jaunt along the sideline with a pass from Joe Kapp.

Kempf drilled the field goal from the 30 on the last play of the half.

A series of breaks led to the tying British Columbia score after nine minutes of the third quarter. The Lions moved from their 51 to the Calgary three in 11 plays before Fleming was stopped on a third-down gamble.

Coleman gained five on the first play but Ted Woods fumbled on the seven as he attempted to sweep left side. A first-down holding penalty moved British Columbia to the 17 and Kapp attempted a toss to Pat Claridge.

Back judge Taylor Patterson called Art Johnson for interference and British Columbia had first down on the four. On the second play, Swift smashed across from the three.

Calgary failed to move from the kickoff and Jim Furlong punted to the Vancouver 52. Six plays later, Fleming circled the left side of the Calgary line to score.

The Stamps' final threat developed in the fourth quarter after Kempf attempted a 42-yard field goal shot into the wind. The kick, which could have provided the insurance point, was less than three feet short and the Stamps later moved to first down at the Vancouver 38.

Two pass attempts were batted down before Day was buried for an 11-yard loss. The Lions marched directly to Beaumont's clinching single and Calgary again failed to gain against the Lion defence.

Kapp charged for 30 yards to the Calgary two and Swift barged across to score.

Lions' centre Gary Schwertfeger limped off with stretched knee ligaments in the fourth quarter, but B.C. coach Dave Skrien said he has an adequate replacement in import Jesse Williams.

"We're not discouraged," Dobbs said, "but we're disappointed."

He said the turning point of the game was the pass-interference call against Art Johnson on the Calgary four-yard line in the third quarter.

DOWN TICATS

Roughies Step Closer to Cup

OTTAWA (CP) — Ottawa Rough Riders started the 1964 Eastern Football Conference season with strong Grey Cup ambitions, and they took a big step towards the Nov. 28 classic at Toronto with a convincing 30-13 triumph over Hamilton Tiger-Cats Saturday.

RUSS JACKSON
. . . entered dreamland

The two teams still have to play again this Saturday in Hamilton, but the Riders will carry a 17-point lead into the final game of the total-point ESC final and Hamilton will have to find a way to stop a poweful Ottawa running attack that rolled up 249 yards along the ground Saturday.

Although the total offence of the two teams was almost the same, a rugged Rider defence recovered three Hamilton fumbles, intercepted two passes and left three members of the Hamilton offensive backfield with minor injuries.

Each of the Ottawa running backs—Rick Black, Dave Thelen and Ronnie Stewart—scored touchdowns, and defensive halfback Gene Gaines set a Canadian football record with a 128-yard kickoff return for the other Ottawa major. Moe Racine rounded out the Ottawa scoring with three converts and a 28-yard field goal.

Quarterback Bernie Faloney and Bobby Kuntz scored the Hamilton touchdowns, both on one-yard runs, and Don Sutherin kicked one convert.

COMPLETE ONE PASS

Ottawa completed only one pass for six yards in four attempts, but was able to come up with the big running gains.

Hamilton managed 158 yards along the ground, and 127 by passing. But their pass attack was never a serious threat, with only eight completions in 19 attempts, and Ottawa defenders picked off two interceptions.

Black and Thelen were the big men in the Ottawa attack. Black picked up 89 yards in 12 carries, while Thelen made 80 yards in 14 attempts. Fullback Art Baker picked up 46 yards for Hamilton.

"Our defence let us down," Hamilton coach Ralph Sazio said after the game. "We had a complete letdown."

MADE THEIR BREAKS

The Riders made their own breaks, and took advantage of them. Faloney was rushed during a first-quarter punt, and managed only a 25-yard boot to the sidelines.

On the next play Black cut in around end and raced 41 yards for the first touchdown of the game.

Thelen capped an 80-yard drive with a one-yard touchdown plunge early in the second quarter, and after Faloney's touchdown, Gaines ran the kickoff back to give Ottawa a 20-7 halftime lead.

Hamilton was kicking off from the Ottawa 50-yard line after a roughing penalty was called on Faloney's touchdown play. Gaines took the ball 13 yards inside his end zone, and for a few seconds it looked as if the Hamilton tacklers would trap him in the end zone for a single point.

But Gaines managed to squirm loose to the 10-yard line, where he picked up about six blockers, and raced down the sidelines without anyone laying a hand on him.

Irish Bantam Champs; Face Playoff Struggle

St. Louis College are kings of the Norm Fieldgate Bantam Football League, but they will have to prove their supremacy again next weekend.

In the first playoff game, Victoria Trojans and Oak Bay "replay" a contest they couldn't decide Sunday. They finished in a 6-6 tie.

Leading the Irish Sunday were Pat Griffin and Ted Kissinger with three touchdowns each; Dan Fogden, Gordon Kissinger and Vince Orr with one each. Mike Herold scored two for Esquimalt with Rick Atkinson getting the other.

Gordon Head got majors from Howe, McMynn, Baynton and Thom. Bobby Allen and Jerry Longson crossed the goal line for Glen Lake.

Lucky Bettor Grabs $98,273 —All in Cash!

YONKERS, N.Y. (UPI)—One of two patrons who held winning tickets on a $98,273 twin double payoff at Yonkers Raceway Thursday night showed up at the track Friday and insisted on being paid in cash.

Track officials identified the lucky bettor as Murray Shapiro, a 41-year-old truckman's helper from Brooklyn. Track officials then assigned two special policemen to guard Shapiro when he advised them he planned to remain at the track.

FOR SEALS' THURLBY

MAPLE LEAFS EDGED

Christmas in November

San Francisco 6, Victoria 5

By DOUG PEDEN

Tom Thurlby appears to have a new lease on hockey life and the people who are paying for the rejuvenation are Victoria Maple Leafs.

Thurlby toils for San Francisco Seals, playoff champions of the Western Hockey League last season who are struggling in the cellar this winter.

Last-place clubs are always trying to arrange player trades or purchases that might improve their fortunes and when manager-coach Bud Poile brought his club to town Saturday it was rumored that two Seals were playing for their jobs.

One of them may have been Thurlby, a defenceman who had not been having one of his better seasons with the leaky 'Frisco rearguard corps.

At any rate, Poile pulled Thurlby out of his defence post and started him as a winger for the first time.

Before the firing was over before 2,616 fans at Memorial Arena Saturday night, Thurlby had collected two goals and an assist, and the Seals had snapped a three-game losing streak with a 6-5 victory over the Leafs.

Thurlby performed so efficiently he may never get back to his defence post but he still had to share the 'Frisco spotlight with a little scooter named Ed Panagabko.

Panagabko also contributed two goals, including the one that counted most—the winner at 2:21 of sudden-death overtime — as the Seals got their second triumph in 10 road games.

It Was Leafs Who Made Final Error

While all was suddenly sunny in Poile's camp, the result was another heartbreaker for coach Rudy Pilous and his Maple Leafs, who continued their habit of serving up excitement in big chunks.

It was the sixth time this season, and the third time in four overtime battles, that the Leafs had lost by a single goal.

At times the Victorians appeared unable to do anything right, particularly in the opening stages when the Seals grabbed a 2-0 lead. At others, the Leafs seemed capable of skating the visitors out of the rink but most of the promising flurries were ended by defensive errors.

In fact, both clubs had troubles on defence and in the end it was the Leafs who made one miscue too many.

There was, however, no shortage of frantic action for the paying patrons as the Leafs battled back to go ahead at 3-2 in the second period and twice rallied to tie the score in the third session.

Some of the finest action was supplied by Gordie Redahl and Milan Marcetta, who were skating faster and shooting more than any other Leafs.

Redahl, who also used his speed to break up a couple of potential 'Frisco scoring thrusts, slashed in for his eighth and ninth goals of the campaign. Marcetta also collected two goals to make it eight for the season and Lou Jankowski rounded out the Victoria scoring with his ninth.

Maple Leafs, now six points behind fourth-place Vancouver Canucks, have one more home game before starting a road trip to California.

They tangle Tuesday night at Memorial Arena with Portland's second-place Buckaroos, who scored four third-period goals to beat the Leafs 4-3 on their last visit to Victoria.

Perhaps ready to bolster the Victorians on their road trip will be veteran winger Steve Witiuk, who has called off retirement plans.

Witiuk, who picked up 25 goals and 28 assists for Denver last season, was due to start working out with the Leafs today.

Totems in Front

By CANADIAN PRESS

Seattle Totems combined some good hockey with a slug of good luck to vault into first place in the Western Hockey League by an eyelash.

They edged Vancouver Canucks 4-3 in overtime Saturday night and staved off a last-minute San Francisco rush Sunday for a 5-4 win over the Seals.

HEAVYWEIGHT CHAMP 'IMPROVED'

Clay Gay, Sonny Sad, Promoters Blue

Clay was "improving and feeling kind of happy" Sunday despite the hernia operation which postponed his heavyweight title defence against Liston.

Clay was operated on late Friday for an incarcerated hernia. Dr. Nathan Shapiro, examing physician of the Massachusetts Boxing Commission, said Clay should be able to fight within five to six months.

United Out to Show Times Are Changing

Draw Flatters Canadian Crew

Canadians 1, United 1

By ERNIE FEDORUK

They packed all the scoring into the first three minutes of play and then filled the next 87 with a steady stream of frustration, excitement and speed.

That seemed to be the general opinion of a slim turnout (407 paid) that watched Vancouver Canadians hold Victoria United to a 1-1 Pacific Coast Soccer League deadlock at Royal Athletic Park.

The 90 entertaining minutes also contained signs of changing times. For United, it would have to be for the better.

In recent years, you see, it was United's custom to place the almighty accent on defence. The opposite was true for Canadians, who had the likes of wee Normie McLeod and Neil McKenzie anchoring a dangerous offence.

They traded roles Saturday.

United carried the attack over much of the route, and if you've missed reading between the lines then it must be stated flatly that the 1-1 result flattered Frank Howarth's Canadians.

GOOD CHANCES

Apart from a few brief and minor weaknesses, United generally had everything going for it but luck. Frank Grealy's blue-and-white had enough chances to win three games. Their chances were good and well-earned, but they didn't have the breaks.

A leg here . . . a head there . . . and sometimes a post or bad bounce . . .

All this, and plain hard luck, got in the way of an impressive United victory.

Luck stayed with United for only one minute. That's when Russ Ball scored to give the Victorians a brief 1-0 lead, tapping in centre forward Jim Jamieson's rebound.

Centre half Bill Hamilton of Victoria was called for handling a harmless looking cross two minutes later. McLeod, an old nemesis, tied the score from the penalty spot.

KEPT IT UP

But the action didn't end there.

Both teams played brilliant and thoughtful football. Both had numerous chances to break the deadlock.

Dunc McCaig, Ash Valdal and Jamieson were particularly effective on attack for United. All had at least two glorious chances to score, and each hit a post or cross-bar at least once.

Saturday's result kept Canadians three points ahead of United and North Shore, sharing fifth place in the seven-team league.

Blundell Leads Firemen to Top

VANCOUVER — Vancouver Firefighters moved into first place in the Pacific Coast Soccer League standings by defeating Columbus 3-1 before almost 3,000 fans Sunday.

Right wing Dave Hutton gave Firemen a 1-0 lead at the 32-minute mark, kicking in a rebound after Columbus goalkeeper Merv Schweitzer fumbled a hard shot. Inside Jim Blundell then scored the first of two goals in the next minute when the Columbus defence quit to appeal for an offside.

North Shore scored all three goals in the first half, Neil Ellett, Ed Cannon and then Don Hunter giving them a 3-0 lead.

Price Worries Haidas

Will that Price worry Victoria Haida Chiefs?

That's the question bothering coach Howie Tooby as he prepares his Chiefs for their first home game of the Inter-City Senior Men's Basketball League.

Chiefs take their bows before the home fans Wednesday night against Vancouver Grocers at Central Junior High. Game time is 9 p.m.

The worrisome Price in Billy-Joe, a six-foot, eight-inch whiz who makes the Grocers go. Tooby hopes to slow the spiralling Price by assigning Pete Simmons and Johnny Devlin as a double-team checking unit.

The Chiefs and Grocers were idle at the weekend, but the league's other entries were in action. Alberni Athletics stepped away from the mainland with a split of the weekend's two games.

They thumped CYO Gaels 89-58 Sunday after dropping a 70-57 decision to the front-running Westminster Bakers on Saturday.

Victoria High Island Champs

The Vics captured the Island championship Saturday by defeating Campbell River in the tournament final. Both finalists now advance to the B.C. championships, to be played at University of British Columbia on Nov. 21.

Vic High defeated Nanaimo in one semifinal, while Campbell River reached the final by defeating Claremont. Nanaimo beat Claremont in a playoff for third place.

SCHONAUER IN MIDDLE

Refs Boycott Soccer Match

The Victoria Soccer Referees' Association boycotted a District League cup match Sunday. A veteran player, on hand as a spectator, wound up refereeing the Heywood Avenue Park game.

The dispute arose when the referees learned Otto Schonauer, once suspended by the B.C. Soccer Commission, was dressed for the Brodies' Bakery team.

The suspension was lifted recently and Schonauer was permitted to take out a player's certificate.

Hank Casillo, chairman of referees, said Sunday night the dispute "was a matter between the referees and the B.C. Commission." He declined to elaborate, but it was learned the referees object to the manner in which the B.C. Commission handled the case.

Said Casillo: "The referees' decision (Sunday) had nothing to do with the player himself, the teams involved or the league."

Volker Stoldt, a member of the Hourigan Kickers' team, came off the sidelines to handle the McGavin Cup semifinal playoff between Brodies and Victoria West. Brodies won, 2-0, on goals by Alan Glen and rookie Joe Milligan.

An official of the District League said teams agreed to use a spectator (Stoldt) "because of the large number of fans who turned out for the game. It would have been most unfair to call off the match."

SCOTS IN FINAL

Victory moved Brodies into the final of the knockout competition against Canadian Scottish, who defeated Oak Bay Marina 3-1 in Sunday's other semifinal, played at Central Park.

John Rostron, Stan Wiseman and Annis Fisher scored goals for the Scots while Bob Shepherd replied for Marina, a second division side that earlier had conquered two first division clubs.

A minor donnybrook erupted and one player was ejected from a first division game at Naden. Navy and Gorge fought to a 2-2 tie in a game that was postponed earlier in the season.

Bob Marsden and Dunn scored for the Sailors while Tim Walker and Ray Bauckham counted Gorge goals.

In second division games Sunday, Gorge stopped University Vikings 4-2 and Sidney Hotel edged Dunlops 2-1.

Chinooks Score With SS Tactics

The "double S" formula seems to be the one to offset the height factor in basketball.

It worked well Saturday night for Victoria Chinooks. Their SS (sytem and shooting) tactics paid off for an 85-50 victory over the taller Marpole Bulldogs.

Victory kept Victoria in a second-place tie with YMCA, who edged Alberni 65-64 in a Sunday game.

Working their plays and shooting well, Chinooks had little trouble in scoring their fourth win in five starts.

All but one member of the Victoria team got on the scoresheet. Forwards John Lauvaas and Ron Bowker led the way before a turnout of about 200 at Oak Bay high. Lauvaas scored 20 points and Bowker tossed in 18.

'Y' Moves Up After Edging Alberni Club

VANCOUVER — Vancouver YMCA stood off a late Alberni assault to steal away with a 65-64 decision which boosted the Y back into a second-place tie in the Inter-City Junior Men's Basketball League Sunday afternoon.

Alberni scored its first win of the season Saturday night, romping to an 85-60 victory over North Shore Mountaineers. In another Saturday game, CYO Saints rang up their seventh straight victory by defeating UBC Braves 57-49.

Only poor shooting, and some hard luck, prevented Alberni from scoring a weekend sweep. The Islanders trailed 38-36 at the half and by 11 points at one stage in the third quarter.

Gary Gundlund paced Alberni with 22 points while Ron Moore was the Y's top gun with 20. Marv Johnson, who sizzled in 30 points Saturday night against North Shore, was held to only 12 points Sunday.

CYO had to come up with a strong defensive display to contain the UBC team Saturday. The unbeaten Saints wrapped it up with a 13-point splurge in the final five minutes.

Hounds Trip Hoppers

Greyhounds downed Grasshoppers 5-2 and Cowichan edged Mariners 4-3 in Vancouver Island Ladies' Grass Hockey Association matches Saturday.

Midgets Salvage Win for Hosts

Saanichton's midget boys' team clipped Cordova Bay 26-13. Brentwood won the pre-midget match 28-6 and Cordova Bay took the bantam bout 39-15.

Rangers Take First

Rangers took over first place in the Combination Soccer League by thumping Falcons 5-0 Saturday. Malahat downed Island Tug 7-2 in an exhibition.

Many Activities for Visitors From the East

By JOHN MIKA

There were many items in Saturday's welcoming program that obviously pleased the visiting Quebec mayors but none so much as the presence and words of Mayor R. B. Wilson.

The slight hesitation of strangers in a strange city visibly evaporated from the Quebec group during the City Hall reception as Mayor Wilson delivered a bilingual address in perfect French as well as English.

The crowd proved he was the biggest hit through their applause for him and a spontaneous roar of agreement when the Quebec Union of Municipalities past president Mayor Robert Cauchon described Mayor Wilson as "a great Canadian mayor."

"I congratulate the citizens of Victoria in their judgment upon the choice of a chief magistrate," he said.

Throughout the succeeding reception and buffet at the Empress Hotel, the focal points of the crowd were Mayor Wilson and his wife as friends and strangers alike paid their respects.

HEARTFELT GRATITUDE for the Quebec mayors' reception was voiced by Mayor Robert Cauchon of Salaberry-de-Valleyfield, past president of the Quebec Union of Municipalities, who helped arrange the visit. Listening to his speech during the City Hall reception Saturday are current QUM president Mayor Rosaire Gendron of Riviere-du-Loup and Victoria Mayor R. B. Wilson, who officiated.

Royal Roads Cadets Give Bright Show

Marching cadets, a warm sun and Victoria scenery at its best mounted a brilliant show for 150 French-Canadian visitors and local guests at Royal Roads Sunday.

White, red and blue ensigns fluttered from masts at the head of the Canadian Services College drill square, gleaming brass six-inch shells from the old HMCS Ontario served as parade markers and the smoky, blue Olympic Mountains provided the backdrop for the review which began at 11:10 a.m.

As the civilan guests filed to their chairs overlooking the square, four squadrons of 180 high-stepping cadets followed their band onto the parade ground and smartly formed their ranks for an inspection by Royal Roads commandant RCN Capt. W. P. Hayes.

Blue Sky

Overhead, the sun shone out of a pale blue sky and its slanting rays danced and sparkled over the deeper blue of the sea while a crisp autumn breeze sporadically shook a slow golden shower of leaves to the ground from tall Lombardy poplars flanking the parade square.

The cadet wing faultlessly performed both a slow and a quick-step march past the saluting base and then gave its commandant and his guests a general salute before marching off.

At the ceremony's end, the group of Quebec mayors and their wives, escorted by the military college's officers, some cadets and Victoria guests trooped through the leaf-strewn lawns and gardens of the mansion grounds, some exclaiming over roses still in bloom and grass as green as summer's.

Following the stroll through the various gardens, the group

French Parish church of St. Jean Baptiste had rows of standing worshippers for Sunday morning mass.

NO FISH but lots of fun were captured by Quebec mayors who boarded private yachts Sunday. Courtney Haddock, skipper of Mamita, is shown engrossed in a conversation with crew member Mayor Valmond Blanchette of Sept. Isles, P.Q., on their return from a 1½-hour outing skipped entirely by the salmon.

Only the Fish Failed To Catch the Spirit

By PETE LOUDON

We took 52 Quebec visitors to Coho alley Sunday and nary a one brought home a fish.

Now how's that going to sound when the word leaks out?

There's a bright side. None of the guests, delegates to the meeting here of the Union Des Municipalities Du Quebec, made any complaint.

All expressed delight with their voyages from Canoe Cove and the RVYC Tsehum boat harbor. The day was sunny, the water was blue and calm and the 12 cruisers they travelled in were the kind most men dream of owning.

A tight schedule permitted less than two hours to be devoted to the cruise, hardly time to get a line in the water, so some boats didn't even try.

One boat, Harold B. Elworthy's Lady Diane, collected two grilse, but they didn't measure up to the legal size and had to be cut loose.

Just to prove we do have "saumon" in our waters, many of the Victoria faimilies who entertained Quebecers Sunday night, served salmon, and may have saved the day.

One of the hosts anonymously complained that he had a long search to find a fresh salmon for sale anywhere, however.

How are we going to coax them into staying here if this keeps up?

O'Reilly? Oh, Really!

The names of our Quebec visitors fall soft on the ears (when well pronounced): Hebert, Lafontaine, Bouchard, Lambert, Poirier, Tessier, Boyer, Benoit, Dufour, Desjardins—there is a beauty in hearing them.

It comes as a surprise to meet Messrs. Gold, Litchfield, Snyder, Roy, Hartenstein, Cameron, McLernan—and yes, there's a Mr. O'Reilly.

VISITORS CROWD CATHOLIC CHURCH

Victoria's French-speaking Catholic parish of about 80 persons was swelled by an addition of more than 200 worshippers crowded into St. Jean Baptiste Church Sunday morning.

Mass at the little church at 301 Richmond Road was said by The Reverend Alexis Auger and the collection plates were piled high with money from Quebec.

Later, the visiting mayors from French-Canada and their wives and Victoria friends crowded into the adjoining parish hall for a light breakfast.

The hall was festooned with pink and blue strings of paper carnations. Large models of Victoria's cluster lights decorated the sidetables and the parish women had carefully arranged hanging flower baskets to add more color to the event.

Accent? But Who Cares?

The Quebec mayors agreed that more French-speaking Canadians speak English than the English do French.

They also learn the language faster.

Mayor Pierre Bernardin vho runs a council which is half French and half English xplained the reasons.

First, he believes that French is somewhat harder o learn than English.

But he said the main eason you don't hear many English people speaking French is because there is a endency for them to be perfectionists.

"They won't speak for fear of making mistakes," he explained. "They are self-conscious of their accent. They only want to talk perfect French."

"On the other hand," he said, "French-speaking Canadians don't give a hoot if they make mistakes as long as they get their messages across."

Mr. Bernardin believes languages should be taught in schools at the very start.

"The younger the better," he said.

They Liked The Lights

The bulb-lit outline of the Legislative Buildings was a big hit with visiting French-Canadian mayors Saturday but it didn't hold a candle to their gratitude for the greetings in French spelled out by the overhead Causeway lights.

A city policeman that helped escort the busloads of Quebec visitors from the City Hall reception to an evening banquet in the Empress Hotel reported they broke out in spontaneous applause when they say the signs announcing: "Bienvenue Aux Maires De Quebec."

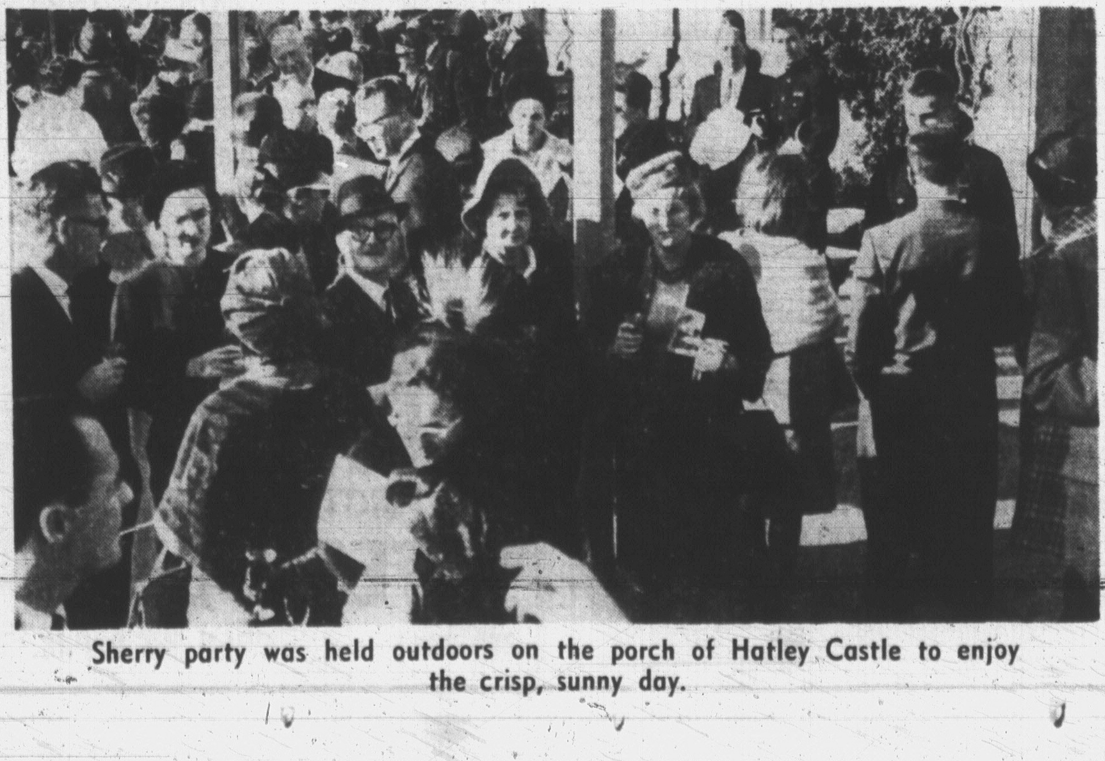
APERITIF was served in the living room of 602 Newport, Stephen residence, before party sat down to dinner. Left to right: H. R. Stephen; Mayor and Mrs. P. A. Poirier of Victoriaville, P.Q.; Mrs. Stephen, and Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Lawson. Mr. Stephen was in charge of the Sunday evening program.



Sherry party was held outdoors on the porch of Hatley Castle to enjoy the crisp, sunny day.

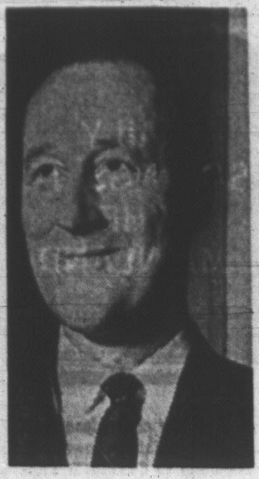
QUEBEC MAYORS GIVE THEIR VIEWS



Councillor Shows Pride

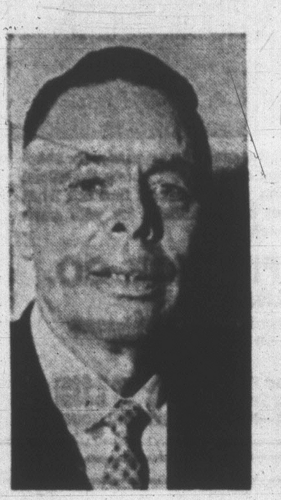
"There are three of us here from Dolbeau, a town of about 6,700 people, some 400 miles north of Montreal, and we plan to distribute some literature Monday so everyone will know about Dobleau.

"This is my first time to British Columbia although I have made several visits to the United States. I'm really enjoying this trip—it's one of the best.

"I came on this trip because I wanted to see more than just my own province. We all want to learn how people live in the other provinces and how others think of us.

"I hope we meet again—next time in Dolbeau."



Levesque Not That Levesque

Mayor Edmond Levesque of Nazareth-Rimouski grinned as he said through an interpreter that he was not "Rene"—the controversial Quebec Liberal minister.

Mr. Levesque, who has been a mayor for eight years, said it is only the youths of his 35,000-population suburb of Rimouski that are ardent separatists "and that is because they have no jobs."

Separatism should not be taken seriously but it should be understood that Quebec is engaged in a drive to better conditions for its people and improve its position.

"In our area—we are a logging and farming area with no industry—things are in a bad way with lots of unemployment. The way it is now, we receive little government help from Ottawa. Most of that goes to Montreal."

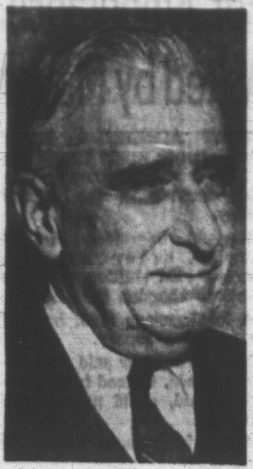
He said the Quebec provincial government is drafting a comprehensive plan intended to help the Rimouski area.

Quebec Flag Appreciated

Phillipe St. Pierre, the mayor of Ste. Genevieve, a Montreal suburb, said he knew that some Victorians probably expected people to arrive from Quebec wearing horns and a long tail.

But now that we could see each other and talk to each other we can see few differences in each other. There should be more of these exchanges of people between the two provinces, he said.

He said the delegation was particularly impressed with Victoria's thoughtfulness in flying the Quebec provincial flag, providing a fleur de lys designed carpet at City Hall and finding waiters for the receptions who were bi-lingual.



News Agencies Hit for Rift

Mayor Olier Payette of Ste. Rose said:

"We came here to bring the greetings of the Union of Quebec Municipalities and the people of Quebec. We are glad to have come to know the people of B.C. better.

"Now you should come to see us so that you will know us better. If you would do so, there would be fewer prejudices against us."

He blamed the news agencies of Canada for creating a needless rift. He thought nothing less than an exchange of visits could correct the damage.

"We will reciprocate what you are doing here. You will say 'after all, they are not so bad.'"

He said none of his group was offended because most British Columbians are unable to speak French.

"It is not their fault. They do not meet French-Canadian groups. How can they practice? We have the advantage of meeting English-speaking groups daily."

He said the English-speaking people he has met are animated by the best of faith. It is just a question of the two groups getting to know each other better, he said.

Repeat to Draw Twice as Many

Ald. Aurelien Seguin, deputy mayor of Ile Perrot, an island municipality of 6,000 population located 20 miles from Montreal, attended with his mayor, Florian Bleau.

"We are creating a relationship here such as we would like to have with all of Canada," said Ald. Seguin.

He was pleased that so many people here could converse with him in French and he praised Mayor R. B. Wilson for speaking in French so adequately.

He said after the fine welcome afforded the Quebec visitors on this occasion, he was certain that if there was a repeat journey to Victoria next year, twice as many people would want to be along.

He said it would be a fine thing for Canada if there could be an annual exchange of students between Quebec and British Columbia.

Not only would they learn more about each other and have a greater appreciation of each other's cultures, but they would have an unparalleled opportunity to practise speaking in each other's languages.

FLQ Sparks Awareness

Mayor Roch Lasalle of Crabtree Mills, near Montreal, was one of the few who spoke passionately of French-Canadian complaints.

Now 36, he was the youngest mayor in Canada when he first was elected eight years ago.

Speaking through an interpreter, he said no one in Quebec approves of the FLQ bombings "but all the same that is where the awareness of our problems started.

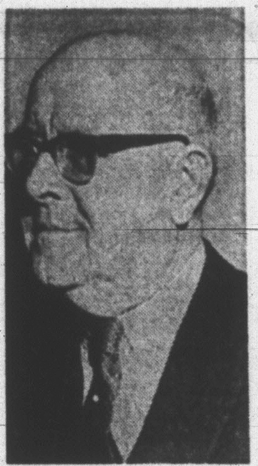
"There is a peaceful revolution in our province—so far.

"All we want is what is justly coming to us—not more than our fair share but not less either.

"Quebec always has observed the terms of Confederation faithfully but not so the other provinces. We have given full liberty and equality to all the minority groups in our province but French-Canadian minorities in other provinces have not been given equal treatment.

President of the St. Jean Baptiste Society in his hometown — the leading organization of French culture in the province—Mayor Lasalle said many responsible people are working hard for peaceful settlement of the problems.

"For the present, extremists are a minority and to be condemned. But do not think that the number of people who are unhappy with things as they are is negligible."



Visits Help Ease Tension

Gerard Brunelle, president of the consulting commission of the provincial government for Quebec municipalities was asked how British Columbians could act to ease tensions which might threaten Confederation.

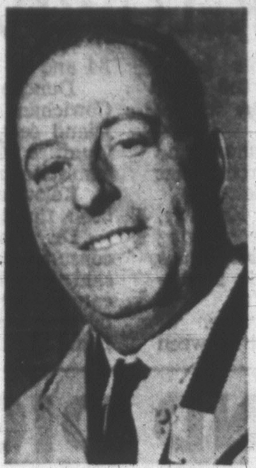
"Just do as we did today. Come to Quebec. You'll be welcome.

"I don't believe we have anything to fear for the future of Confederation.

"Those who were leading the Separatist demonstrations were in the 18-21 age group. We were young once, too. But as we grew older, our minds changed.

"You should not be afraid of the Separatist movement. It's not serious. It's just a matter of youngsters getting enthusiastic.

"We have had the same thing many times in years gone by—but there was no radio and no television then." So the furor went unnoticed by other parts of Canada, he said.



Victoria Wins Rating of A-1

Jean-Denis Payette, secretary-treasurer of Crabtree Mills, said through an interpreter that "Victoria is A-1."

He said there was considerable unemployment in Quebec but not, fortunately, in his paper mill town near Montreal with its 2,000 inhabitants.

He was surprised to find the temperature here just about the same level as in Crabtree Mills although, he added, it is pretty mild for this time of year at home and an earlier snowfall had melted away.

City Traffic Wins Praise

Mayor Valmond Blanchette of Sept. Isles, Quebec, and his wife Blanche said, "If this sort of exchange had started 10 years ago, there would be less talk of separatism in Canada today."

They said the solution to all Canada's differences lies in simply getting to know one another, and getting to know all parts of the country.

Mayor and Mrs. Blanchette arrived in Victoria two weeks ago to attend another convention and stayed over for this event. As a result they have come to know Victoria better than many of their colleagues. They had high praise for Victoria traffic direction, estimating it to be the best in Canada.

"It is so easy to cross the streets," they marvelled.

Mayor Blanchette praised Quebec Premier Jean Lesage as the man best fitted to be the next prime minister of Canada ". . . although we don't want to lose him, of course."

He was disappointed that Real Caouette, leader of the Creditistes, should be so well known here as a Quebecer. In Quebec, he rates zero, he said.

Luncheons also were served other groups of the visiting groups of the visiting Quebec party in the officers' mess of the Queen's Own Rifles and in the wardroom of HMCS Naden.

Montreal Sends One for Visit

Coun. Fernand Alie is the only official representative of the City of Montreal, his mayor and the president of the executive committee both are in Paris, France.

The presence of the mayor of Montreal was not mandatory, he thought, because the problems of that city are far different from those of any other Quebec centre, because of its tremendous size. However, the city is a member of the Quebec municipal union association.

Coun. Alie thought the mayor might be in Paris in connection with the 1967 Montreal World's Fair arrangements. But the reason was really still secret.

"We are sure something big is coming out of it," he added.

Coun. Alie was impressed that two Victoria Times reporters, Humphry Davy and Jacques Rouseaux, were at hand with fluent translation abilities.

"I meet French-speaking people all over the world," he said, and he was overwhelmed by the experience.

He said B.C. residents should not worry about the spectre of separatism. Probably not more than 5 or 10 per cent of the population of Quebec is involved in the movement or sympathetic to it, he said.

Coun. Alie said, however, there was a little bit of resentment in every person when his rights as a full-fledged citizen are not respected.

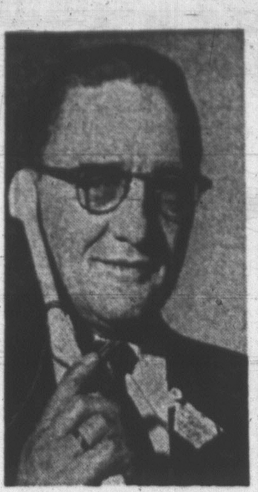
As Exciting As Belgium

Mayor Marcel Marier of Drummondville, a past president of the Quebec Union of Municipalities and veteran of numerous civic gatherings, praised the Victoria visit and compared it favorably with an international conference he attended last year in Belgium.

Turning to the subject of separatism, he said the extremists and non-French-Canadians, such as Algerian and Puerto Rican imimgrants, who have received a lot of press publicity which, of course, they take advantage of."

He said most serious Quebecers are not extremists "but we feel that Ottawa has too much power—we want to run our own province and if we can't then I'm afraid something bad might happen."

"There also are problems of language. For instance, in Montreal or Ottawa many people refuse to speak French and that hurts and irritates us. There are many such irritations and they gradually build up into a big complaint."



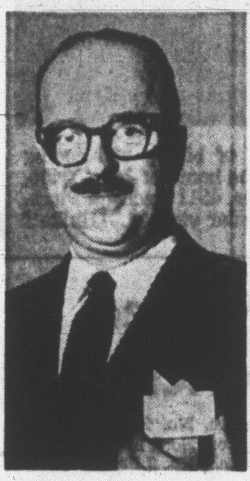
Separatism Not For Discussion

Mayor Aime Racine, mayor of Petite Riviere St. Francois, also prefect of Charlevoic - Ouest County, spoke only French but through an interpreter and plenty of gestures indicated he was both surprised and gratified to find so much hospitality for the visitors.

Accompanied by five others from his county, he said all were enthused by the reception on their first trip to the west coast.

One of the few who would not discuss separatism — "that is a matter of personal feeling and opinion" — he said he was very interested in discovering how other Canadians live.

"I am anxious to see if I can pick up some good ideas to take back with me to my hometown," he said.



'Only Students Seeking Split'

Mayor P. A. Poirier of Victoriaville ("it's between Montreal and Quebec City on the south shore of the St. Lawrence and had a population of 20,228 as of last December") said it was his first trip to Victoria.

"Separatism? I don't believe in separatism because I see no reason for it. First, all the civilized countries of the world are trying to get together to be strong so why should we try to separate?

"Second, it's only the students who believe in that—we all pass through that nationalistic stage when we are young.

"But there is a valid point to the protest and I would hope that English-speaking Canadians become aware of it.

"We don't have equality. In business, for instance, we can never get access to certain positions not because we are not qualified but because we are French-Canadian.

"In the same country, all the citizens should be equal," he said.

'Our Reception Very Cordial'

"This is the first time I've come west and I'm enjoying it very much," said jovial Mayor J. R. Desrosiers of Cap-de-la-Madeleine, a town of 30,000.

"Our reception has been very cordial and I'm glad I came.

"I think we all came because we realized this was a great opportunity to improve our relations with the people of the west coast. We are very anxious to let the Canadian nation know we are not all separatists."

Mayor Desrosiers said more person-to-person contacts are needed to balance the "good press the small minority of separatists get."

Although not desiring separation, the mayor said he wanted to see the terms of confederation evolve into a better deal for Quebec.

WRITER GREETS MAYORS

French in Victoria?—Mais Ouis!

By HUMPHRY DAVY

Something which surprised visiting Quebec mayors who couldn't speak English was to find an English-speaking newspaperman who could speak French.

It was the last thing they expected in Victoria . . . la ville Anglaise.

There was nothing extraordinary about that for me, of course, because my father was English and mother was French. It would have been shameful if I couldn't.

"Mais comment, votre nom est Davy. Vous parlez Francais," they asked.

Then I had to explain how I gained my knowledge of French. I spoke to my mother in French and she spoke to me in English. There were exceptions. They occurred when she got cross at me. Then French flowed easier.

They were appreciative that I spoke French, especially the shy ones. There are not too many of these because the average French-speaking Canadian is a pretty confident fellow.

Most of the questions they asked were about British Columbia, its history and climate. Then of course they would talk to me about Quebec and the changes taking place there.

TRANSLATION

There were times when I got stuck for a French word, especially when I tried to be too French. For example I wanted the translation for golf course. It would have been wiser to use the English name as my guest used it too.

The French translation for seaweed really stuck me. It was only after extensive mind searching that it came to me—goemon. But I was exhausted.

French comes easier, I find, if you have a good knowledge of the basic roots of the English language. There are hundreds of words which are of French origin—all those which end with the affix -tion.

But the basic thing is not to be afraid to speak French.

Six Hurt When Car Hits Ditch

DUNCAN — Tom Sturmey, Duncan, suffered two broken legs and eye injuries when he was one of six hunters hurt in a car crash Sunday morning.

Injuries to the other five men were less serious.

RCMP said Ray Hankins, Duncan, was the driver of the car which rolled into the ditch about three miles west of here on the Cowichan Lake Road.

The others, all of Duncan, were Sherman and Joseph Hankins, brothers of the driver; Gordon Gamlin and Alan Nikirk.

They were leaving on a hunting expedition. Total of $1,000 damage was done to the car and six rifles were badly damaged.

DUNCAN — Terms of salary agreement reached by negotiating committees of Cowichan School Board 65 and its teaching staff have been turned down by the Cowichan Teachers' Association.

Joseph Frumento, board chairman, said both sides have until Dec. 5 to iron out differences before the dispute automatically goes to arbitration.

Although no figures were released, it is believed the conciliators came to terms on less than half the teachers' original claim of 10 per cent across the board.

Fire Chief Named At Lake Cowichan

LAKE COWICHAN — New fire chief is R. E. Weismiller.

He was elected this week to serve the rest of this year and the 1965 term.

His appointment follows the resignation of B. R. All who was fire chief for 11 years. He resigned due to ill health.

Other officers elected are: T. H. Gordon, deputy chief and secretary-treasurer; D. L. Weismiller, No. 1 captain; J. Padjen, No. 2 captain; J. H. Gordon, No. 1 lieutenant; John French, No. 2 lieutenant.

Council also learned the cost of a fire hall addition here will be around $2,000.

Nanaimo architects have been asked to draw up sketch plans.

Even so, council told local Kinsmen — who have offered to do the work on the hall—the addition cannot be put into the budget until next year.

CRAMPING & GAS PAINS

Spastic Colitis (functional irritation of the colon or large intestine) may make you suffer from dull cramping aches or burning pains in the side, gas, acidity, heartburn, biliousness, bad breath and disturb sleep. If you suffer from Spastic Colitis, avoid rough, scratchy foods and take a special medication like KOLADE Powders to relieve cramping intestine muscles, soothe sore mucus membranes and check acidity. Not a laxative. Get KOLADE at drug store and see how fast it relieves colon and stomach discomfort.

34-44% FEWER CAVITIES AMONG KELOWNA YOUTH

The reporters, from Duncan and Nanaimo, were given proof that fluoride helps reduce cavities.

Guests of the city of Kelowna, they were shown figures comparing children who drank Kelowna's treated supply and others in Penticton and Vernon who didn't.

Kelowna's children had between 34 and 44 per cent fewer cavities.

Duncan, Nanaimo and North Cowichan are the three Vancouver Island centres among 11 B.C. communities which will hold fluoridation plebiscites next month.

Kelowna's city water supply has been fluoridated for eight years.

Dr. Alan Gray, regional dental consultant at Kelowna Health Centre, said there had been no signs to indicate straining of teeth from fluoride, or that the incidence of arthritis or heart strain was on the increase.

ISLAND DIGEST

REGIONAL REPORT

All's Bright On Job Front

Employment conditions in B.C. are buoyant and should continue that way well into the winter, says B. C. White, regional employment officer.

While the number of unplaced applicants seeking jobs through National Employment Service offices at Oct. 31 was 12.3 per cent higher than the previous month, it was 9.6 per cent less than the same period last year.

He reported skilled loggers and maintenance men were still difficult to obtain, but there was a steady increase in the number of unskilled workers seeking jobs.

CHRISTMAS TREES

Harvesting Christmas trees was a major activity in Cranbrook and the Windermere Valley areas with crews bundling the "million or more" trees shipped during November.

Before the Oct. 22 strike of 640 herring fishermen, a season's total of 90,000 tons had been landed and processed.

"This is the highest recorded catch of herring in the past 20 years," he said.

All parts of the construction industry remained at near-peak capacity. Arrival of severe winter weather would be the only reason for a slackening of the pace.

There were shortages of skilled workers but no serious delays because of them.

NEAR-PEAK

A number of retail and wholesale stores indicated an increase of business of at least 12 per cent over the same period last year.

There was "a strong demand" for graduate nurses, especially those with B.C. registration. Psychiatric nurses were in short supply but graduates continued to arrive from England and were readily placed.

Volunteer Unit For Ambulance Asked by Mayor

PORT ALBERNI — Mayor Les Hammer would like to see a 24-hour call volunteer ambulance service in the Alberni Valley.

He put this idea forward Saturday after ambulance operator Ed Miller said he wants to abandon the service.

A local garage man, he said he is losing money.

Mayor Hammer said a volunteer brigade, trained intensively in first aid, could manage the job.

About 30 persons would be needed.

They would run on the same lines as volunteer firemen and auxiliary police.

Said the mayor: "I feel personally that the hospital should be operating the ambulance service. However, they (the hospital board) do not seem to think so."

He also said Health Minister Martin is apparently opposed to including ambulance services under BCHIS.

Mayor Hammer's scheme would include formation of an ambulance district with each householder in the valley assessed to pay the cost of the service.

The ambulance was given to the city by the Kinsmen Club and Mr. Miller provided a driver and attendant.

ON PENSIONS

Three-Day Limit Set for Debate

By KEN KELLY

OTTAWA (CP) — Where the party leaders failed, their followers succeeded.

That about sums up the arrangement concluded Friday among the political parties to confine themselves to three days of debate on the Canada Pension Plan, starting today.

A limitation on the pension debate to get it into a joint Commons - Senate committee was one of the arrangements which Prime Minister Pearson and the leaders of the opposition groups tried to make in their talks last week and the week before.

It was related to when the Commons would take up the flag committee's report and collapsed, partly because Opposition Leader Diefenbaker refused to accept a time limit on the flag debate.

It went down the drain so far as the leaders were concerned last Monday.

Now MPs are chuckling about the apparent proof the new arrangement gives of an oft-repeated point of view—that the personal incompatibility between Mr. Pearson and Mr. Diefenbaker is at the root of a lot of the Commons troubles.

People in a position to observe the two men say that they can hardly get talking together without the temperature rising, not so much from personal dislike as from incompatibility of outlook.

After the leaders' talks were called off a week ago, Privy Council President George McIlraith, government leader in the Commons, made the rounds of spokesmen for the opposition groups to see whether an arrangement could be put together to ensure at least speedy passage of the pension plan into the joint committee.

He got co-operation from his opposite numbers —Gordon Churchill (PC—Winnipeg South Centre), Stanley Knowles (NDP —Winnipeg North Centre), H. A. Olson (SC—Medicine Hat) and Gilles Gregoire (Creditiste—Lapointe).

The final act of the behind-the-scenes drama was played out on long-distance telephone. A message was relayed to Mr. McIlraith from Mr. Churchill, who was in Winnipeg for the annual meeting of the Manitoba Progressive Conservative Association.

The arrangement raises the possibility that the Commons will get to debate the flag committee's report this week.

However, a firm decision hasn't been made on this point and, if recent practice is continued, the Commons will spend Thursday and Friday considering 1964-65 spending estimates and turn to the flag debate a week today.

Overtime Demand 'Indecent'

COPENHAGEN (Reuters)—Members of the Danish society of priests have rejected as "odd," and "indecent" a suggestion from a pastor that they should get overtime pay for working on Sundays.

A pastor in Stuer, North Jutland, recently put forward the idea that the society—the parson's "trade union"—should press for an overtime supplement for priest's wages because so much of their work was done on Saturday and Sunday.

Dean R. Fauerskov Laucsen, the society's chairman, writing in its monthly journal, said they found "this odd suggestion quite unsuited for further consideration."

Another priest, Pastor T. Gudmand Hoeyer, of Kolding, said it was "indecent" and could do nothing but give justified offence.

The film, Valley of the Swans, will be shown at the regular meeting of the Tolmie P.T.A. Monday at 8 p.m. in the school auditorium.

LIBERIAN FREIGHTER

All Safe as Ship Goes Down

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP)—All 29 crew members of a Liberian freighter were rescued early Sunday after the vessel apparently sank off Mexico's Baja California coast, the U.S. Coast Guard said.

The rescue vessel, the Liberian ship Evros, radioed:

The coast guard said the Archangelos "is presumed to have sunk" in the Pacific off Magdalena Bay, 700 miles south of Long Beach.

A Coast Guard spokesman said there had been no further radio contact with the rescue ship since the message reporting all crew members of the Archangelos were safe.

The apparent sinking remained a mystery hours after the incident, the coast guard said.

LEAK IN HOLD

First word of the Archangelos' distress was received at 7:16 p.m. Saturday, giving the ship's location and the word:

"Leak in hold, ruptured. Need immediate assistance."

Eight minutes later, another message said:

"Abandoning ship. Everybody in lifeboats."

The Evaros was the first ship on the scene. Three other vessels in the area had also been dispatchd to aid the Archangelos' crew.

Later the coast guard, still unable to reach the Evaros by radio, said it had received this account from the Archangelos' general agent in the United States, the G. M. Livanos Corporation, New York City:

The company had communicated with the Evaros on frequencies different from the coast guard's. The Evaros said nothing was left on the sea but wreekage when it reached the scene.

it's time dad had a phone of his own

They are preparing to take over a world in which speed of communication will play a vital role in every aspect of living. But for the moment this fact doesn't console Dad too much when he wants to use the phone himself.

Modern problems call for modern solutions. That's why second lines are becoming increasingly popular with so many of today's busy households. Once the family starts growing up, it's high time Dad had a phone of his own, with a separate connection to the outside world.

The cost is small in relation to the convenience and harmony it brings. And, of course, Dad gets his own individual listing in the telephone directory free of charge – another big advantage for the man who handles out-of-hours business calls at his home.

Call your nearest B.C. TEL Business Office this week and discover how easy it is to have a time-saving, temper-soothing second line installed in your home.

U.S. Dues Boycott Hits UN Finance

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — Ten or more nations were expected to boost annual pledges to the United Nations special fund and technical assistance programs today. But they cannot fill the gap left by U.S. refusal to pledge anything until its dispute with Russia over peacekeeping finances is settled.

The United States usually pays 40 per cent of the costs of the development programs.

France, which also owes peacekeeping dues, planned to announce an increase of $505,000 over the $1,122,066 it pledged last year for the special fund, and a repetition of its $1,852,555 pledge for the technical assistance program.

Venezuela was expected to raise its pledge to the special fund to $520,000 from $260,000, Brazil to $400,000 from about $100,000, Indonesia to $225,000 from $60,000, Spain to $250,000 from $50,000, Greece to $235,000 from $50,000, and Colombia to $125,000 from $40,000. Denmark, Norway and Switzerland among others were looked to for increased pledges.

But the U.S. decision to hold back its expected contribution of some $60,000,000 would make it impossible for the two enterprises to meet their $150,000,000 target for 1965.

Three Plead Guilty To Impaired Charge

Three impaired drivers appeared before Magistrate J. A. Byers Saturday but only one was sentenced.

All three pleaded guilty.

Wayne S. Harris, HMCS Fraser, was arrested after he collided with a parked car on Lockley Road shortly after midnight Friday. He travelled 179 feet after the impact and then hit another parked car that he knocked over the sidewalk and through a fence.

According to police, Harris became violent after being arrested. He said he had been drinking vodka and didn't even remember the accidents.

Harris was fined $250 and prohibited from driving for six months.

Emil Panzenboeck, 1807 Oak Bay Avenue, was arrested after a collision at Oak Bay Ave. and Richmond early Saturday. Evidence was that he reversed into another car and then tried to drive ahead but couldn't because the cars were locked together.

He left the scene and went into his own house but returned when police arrived. A breath test showed his blood alcohol count to be .20 per cent.

Harold Mobley of Ladysmith was charged after he was checked at a road block on the Trans-Canada Highway Nov. 7. His blood alcohol count was .16 per cent.

Both Mobley and Panzenboeck were remanded for sentence after asking to be allowed to retain their licences for business purposes.

VANCOUVER mayor Bill Rathie and three other municipal leaders have asked the provinial government to seek federal aid toward a $100,000,000 east-west freeway through Vancouver. This would be part of a $300,000,000 series of freeways and bridges to relieve traffic congestion.

Youth Fined $30

A youthful driver was fined $30 in Oak Bay court Friday when he pleaded guilty to careless driving. David Hyslop, 2855 Lansdowne Road, was charged after he collided with a parked car on Cadboro Bay Road, Nov. 4.

Sleeper Wins Citizenship

SEATTLE (AP) — The heart of the court softened Friday and Albert Smith, Englishman, will become Albert Smith, citizen of the United States.

U.S. District Judge W. T. Beeks, who denied Smith's application Monday because he thought the Boeing Company aerospace engineer was asleep during the naturalization ceremony, granted it Friday.

Smith, 30, wrote Beeks an apology "for giving the appearance of disrespect." But he denied being asleep.

DEMONSTRATING ALL THE POISE that helped her win Miss Canada title, Linda Douma rode triumphant through throng of friends who came to reclaim their queen for Sidney village. The former Miss Sidney and Miss PNE returned from Toronto by air Sunday and was whisked off to reception at Sanscha Hall in Sidney.

—Times Photos by Bill Halkett

'BEST PART IS COMING HOME TO YOU'

By PETE LOUDON

Linda Douma, 20, Miss Canada 1965, lived a day she will never forget, and neither will her home town.

She wasn't quite down the stairs from her plane before her mother folded her in her arms. A band played and civic officials smiled up at her and a crowd of 300 applauded and cried hurray for Linda.

Naturally, she cried a bit. Then there were cameras, flashing from all angles, picturing her with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Douma, baby sister Laurel 5, and young brother Reg., 18, and grandmother, Mrs. D. R. Cole.

There was a microphone and there was Sidney Village Chairman A. A. Cormack, there was a bouquet of roses and there was Lieut.-Gov. G. R. Pearkes and Saanich MLA John Tisdalle and there were Mounties in red felts in her honor.

CAR CAVALCADE

Miss Canada, in a green knitted suit with a grey fur neckpiece, hatless and breathless, collected her poise. There was a car cavalcade into Sidney and a parade through town.

The Chinatown Lions Drum and Bell Corps and Majorettes, and a police car with a flashing red light, and decorated cars filled with purring Lions members and cars filled with well-wishers, convoyed her to Sanscha Hall. And everybody else in town was there.

The North Saanich High School band was playing. There were flowers everywhere. There was a special white throne and a long table filled with food and a hall filled with proud smiles.

ALL KNEW LINDA

There were speeches and gifts and hundreds of hands to shake and everyone told everyone else how well they knew Linda.

She came here, they said, when she was two. Her parents, from the prairies, have a service station. Linda was born in the old RCAF hospital near Long Beach and Tofino, while her dad was in the service. She was schooled here. She went from here to University of Victoria and was a third year arts student who wanted to teach.

Then, last summer, suddenly she was Miss PNE at Vancouver. Then the newly-formed Sidney Lions picked Linda as their first project and the 22 members raised $1,500 to send her to Toronto to see if she could snatch the brass ring and she did.

'OVERWHELMED'

"I'm completely overwhelmed," she said. "It is the most wonderful thing that ever happened to me." She said the last week in Toronto has been a dream.

"But the most wonderful part," she told her friends, "is coming home to you."

She promised that when she is on tour — Cyprus in December, Hawaii in January, later at Japan and Hong Kong—she will be representing Canada, but she'll also be a personal delegate from Sidney.

Village commission chairman Cormack said he had predicted she would be Miss Canada, now he would predict she would become Miss Universe.

But Linda and her mother say no—no more contests. The honor of being Miss Canada means giving a year to the position—and it will be a wonderful year, a dream year.

But when it's over—back to university and the teaching career — and none of her friends doubt that's the way it will happen.

Tracking Dog Nabs Escapee After Smashup

3 Others Arrested In Malahat Incident

A 15-year-old youth who escaped from Brannen Lake School was caught by a police dog after he ran away from the wreck of a stolen car on the Malahat early Sunday.

The youth, together with three others from the detention home, stole a new car and raced down-Island.

They were spotted by a patrol car from the Duncan RCMP detachment which gave chase. Near the Malahat Chalet the get-away car hit a pole and ended up in the ditch.

THREE ARRESTED

Three of the youths were arrested on the spot but the driver ran into heavy bush.

The Saanich police dog, Rex, and his handler, Constable James White, were on the scene shortly afterwards. They had been waiting at Goldstream at a road block set up by Colwood RCMP to intercept the car.

Rex flushed the runaway out of heavy bush where he had hidden about one-half mile away from the highway. The youth passed out when arrested and had to be carried out to the road by Saanich Constable Joseph Ferguson. He was not seriously hurt.

Man Slugged By Prowlers

A 50-year-old man was attacked by two prowlers when he entered his apartment shortly before midnight Saturday.

Both prowlers escaped before police arrived. The bedroom of Mr. Wise's suite had been ransacked, but nothing appeared missing.

All Work Finished By Summer

Farmer Construction Company will begin the $1,000,000 wind-up of the civic precinct project Tuesday morning.

The company plans to move equipment and plant to the site in the morning where it will build the last three portions of the program along the north side of Centennial Victoria Square.

The projects—on all of which Farmer Construction was low bidder—are: senior citizens activity centre, $239,810; police station renovation and construction of a magistrates' courthouse, $347,060; and parking garage and shopping arcade, $417,575.

DONE BY SUMMER

"They should all be finished next summer when all work on the square will be completed," said city special projects planner Rod Clack.

Mayor R. B. Wilson cleared the path for an early start on the work when he politely turned back a move by Centennial Victoria Square committee chairman Ald. A. W. Toone to obtain veto power over design changes in the police station project which could have caused delay.

Ald. Toone, at Thursday's council meeting when the mayor was absent, persuaded council to turn jurisdiction over the building from city police commission to his committee.

At a special meeting this morning, he proposed a floor-by-floor survey of the plans which prompted Mayor Wilson to observe that the plans always have been available for council examination and suggestions.

"But I also informed them that if council wanted to design the building it should have done so in the first place. The police commission was given that responsibility and if council wished to intervene now it was bound to cast a reflection on its confidence in the commission," he explained later.

The meeting formally approved the $347,060 contract recommended by police commission after the mayor's remarks.

Man Faces Charge In Sailor Beating

The attack was not reported by Esquimalt police until today.

Police said a sailor has been charged in connection with the incident. The suspect was to appear in court this afternoon.

Police this morning were interviewing two other sailors in connection with the assault.

It occurred about 4 a.m. in the 800-block Wollaston. Thomas was lying bleeding on the ground when police arrived.

He had severe head injuries and was rushed to hospital immediately. Police would not say what caused the fracas.

TUESDAY MEETINGS

Vandals Hit City Cars, Street Signs

Car wipers were twisted off, windows were smashed and street signs damaged in apparently unrelated incidents reported to police in all municipalities.

But the biggest vandalism occurred in Saanich around the Albina-Hampton district. Four youths, three aged 15 and one 16, have been arrested for causing the damage.

At Hampton and Albina they smashed two street signs and smashed the door of another car parked at Hampton Park. The trellis over a gate at 215 Hampton was damaged and a car aerial and outside windows smashed on a car at 3368 Wascana.

Impaired Driving Costs Woman Fine, Suspension

Mrs. Kathleen Tribe, 4511 Pachena Place, pleaded guilty this morning to impaired driving on Gorge Road early Sunday morning.

She was fined $250 and prohibited from driving for three months.

Crown prosecutor Peter Birkett said she drove through a red light at Gorge and Government. She stopped half-way through, then reversed and almost hit a police car that had pulled in behind her vehicle after it was spotted weaving along Government Street.

Mrs. Tribe's lawyer, Louis Lindholm, said she got in trouble because "she responded to the plea by our mayor to show warm hospitality" to the Quebec municipal representatives who visited the city at the weekend.

He said the charge arose after a "convivial evening" at a reception in the Empress Hotel for the "eastern dignitaries."

Another 2,500 At Goldstream To Watch Fish

Sunny days and salmon returning to spawn and die have attracted the largest crowds ever this year to the Goldstream Park area.

Another 2,500 persons turned up Sunday at the park making the total number of spectators this fall pass the 10,000 mark.

But soon the crowds will disappear just as the salmon are ending another life cycle. The main run of the salmon is finished. They have returned home, laid their eggs, and now their dead carcasses drift back out to sea.

It is expected there will still be a few stragglers fighting their way upstream next Sunday when the Solarium Junior League will be back in the park with the mobile refreshment booth.

TOPICS of the DAY

An undetermined amount of watches and rings were stolen over the weekend from Broad-Johnson Trading Centre, 617 Johnson.

The theft was reported to police Sunday night. Police said the thief apparently entered the premises using a key to the door.

Exact amount of the loss is still being totalled.

Ask The Times

Q. What is the origin of the expression "Indian summer?"—J. R. W.

A. Origin is uncertain. One story says the American settlers named this period of good fall weather after the American Indians who told them it would come.

Hassle Forces Ferry To Turn Back to Dock

A government ferry was turned back to its dock at Swartz Bay Sunday night because two passengers "squared off" over a driving incident.

The mainland-bound Queen of Victoria's crossing was delayed about 20 minutes while the would-be combatants were calmed down.

No blows were exchanged.

They were advised to lay charges against each other privately if they wished and were allowed to continue their ferry ride.

Ferry officials said today the incident occurred on the 9 p.m. run, the last from Swartz Bay for the day.

It apparently started when two carloads of young men rolled onto the ferry.

The youths started to squabble, allegedly when one driver accused the other of cutting him off as they approached the ferry slip.

When the captain was told that two passengers were threatening each other on the car deck, he turned his ship back.

RCMP said they are laying no criminal charges in connection with the incident.

Ferry officials said a full report on the matter is expected by Tuesday.

DEAR ABBY . . .

Don't Quibble, Honey!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am 21 and a college senior. I could have had many dates last year but a boy on campus monopolized all my time and ruined my chances with everyone else. At the end of the semester I told him I wasn't sure I cared enough about him to continue dating him in the fall. I said we shouldn't see each other over the summer, but should think it over and talk about it again when school resumed. He said he loved me and always would but he'd abide by my wishes.

When we returned to school he immediately started dating another girl. I called him and told him I wanted to talk to him. (I was going to tell him I DID love him.) When he came to see me, he brought the other girl along. I knew then that it was all over between us. Now everyone is saying that HE dropped ME for HER. This is hurting my reputation and I think it's his place to tell our friends that I dropped HIM. What do you think?

NOT DROPPED

DEAR NOT: All right, so you weren't "dropped"—you were freed. But don't expect him to put an ad in the paper. Your pride may be bruised but your reputation won't suffer.

DEAR ABBY: Six months ago I took a course in "scientific massaging" and I passed the examination without any trouble. I massage as a side line to earn extra money. I enjoy massaging because it brings relaxation to many. I massage men, women and even children. I carry my own table and go to their homes by appointment. My problem is my wife. She does not want me massaging ladies. I say that my work is like a doctor's and there is no reason why I shouldn't massage ladies. What is your opinion?

MASSEUR

DEAR MASSEUR: Your wife apparently fears that your lady clients may be getting a treat instead of a treatment. Such fears could be caused by her own feelings of inadequacy. Keep assuring her that she has absolutely nothing to worry about. (P.S. The little woman is jealous — but don't rub it in.)

DEAR ABBY: That lady who wrote about the "Open House" shower, where an ad was placed in the newspaper and anyone who wanted to come was welcome, was a piker compared to someone in my husband's family. Listen to this: One of the girls had to get married, so all her aunts got together and gave her a combination BRIDAL and BABY shower! Practical, I suppose, but wasn't that the absolute limit?

OWOSSO, MICHIGAN

DEAR OWOSSO: I'd say they exceeded the limit. Speed and otherwise.

CONFIDENTIAL TO POSTAL EMPLOYEE: All my mail is opened for me with the aid of an electric letter-opener, and the envelopes are discarded. When I read unsigned letters, unless some reference to the city is made, I have no way of knowing from where the letter has come.

SHOPPING GUIDE

Don't Slight Style When Assisting Santa

By Penny Saver

With all the wonderful Christmas products in the stores, we tend to neglect the opportunity to replenish our winter wardrobe accessories. But, now is the ideal time to get accessories for parties or other events which herald the approaching season. While shopping the other day, I came across some items which will make you "tops" in the fashion world.

One accessory I found has to do with hair styling.

According to those in the "know", back-combing and "teasing" are now out-moded and the natural, softer look is "in". This poses a bit of a problem if your hair isn't long enough to make a bouffant upsweep without the help of teasing. So, to give your upswept hair-style shape and form, try a wiglet! These are of soft, fine nylon and look and feel like real hair. They range in color from black to platinum blonde and are slightly blended in color to give a more natural look. And the price is only $4.95!

Gloves are also a very important part of a wardrobe. The ones I found are both pretty and practical for the woman who drives. There is an "old wives'" saying, "cold hands mean a warm heart". Well, cold hands which are stiff and dry when driving could mean a silent heart if your hand should suddenly slip. These gloves are made with a leather front which will insure a good grip on the wheel. The back is covered with an attractive crochetted cotton design. They sell at $6.98.

If you want a casual, sporty look in a glove, store also has a wide selection of nylon stretch gloves which will fit any size hand. These are particularly attractive when worn with a jaunty slack outfit or skiing ensemble. Sports gloves cost $1.98.

MUNDIE-SMALL WEDDING

French Lace Accents Classic-Style Gown

A white organza over taffeta gown styled on classic lines with a fitted bodice and lily point sleeves was worn by Carol Irene Ann Small on Saturday evening when she became the bride of James William Mundie.

The bodice featured a rounded neckline accented with French embroidered lace. The semi-full skirt extended slightly en train. Her three-tier scalloped veil misted to elbow-length from a coronet of mother of pearl. Red roses were in her bouquet.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Small, 1600 Hollywood Crescent and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Mundie, 3344 Wickheim Road. Mr. Small gave his daughter in marriage.

First United Church was decorated with white and pink chrysanthemums at the altar for the ceremony at which Rev. R. J. D. Morris officiated. Soloist, Mrs. D. Montgomery, sang "The Wedding Prayer" during the ceremony. She was accompanied by Mrs. W. Gregory.

Bell-skirted gowns of teal blue peau de soie with matching headpieces centred with bows were choice of maid of honor, Miss Lynn Small, the bride's sister; bridesmatrons, Mrs. D. Grover and Mrs. W. Gordon, and bridesmaid, Miss Norma Redfern. All carried crescent-shaped bouquets of white chrysanthemums.

Malcolm McMillan was best man and ushers were Gary, Brian and Roy Small, the bride's brothers.

At a reception that followed in the Club Soho, the bride's table was covered with a lace cloth that was made by the groom's grandmother, Mrs. M. Mundie, and centred with a three-tier wedidng cake, made by the bride's father. Pink sweetheart roses and white candles in crystal candelabra completed the decorations. Dick Porter proposed the toast to the bride.

The bride's going-away outfit was a cranberry red dressmaker suit highlighted with a fur collar. A matching feathered hat, black accessories and white rose corsage completed the ensemble.

Lachasse's lady-like designs have always been so popular and here is one we feel outstanding. The neckline is oval, and not too bare. The short sleeves are back in fashion again—although for those who still prefer the sleeveless look, the directions are given for both. The sunburst released pleats on the bodice and skirt front add a beautiful dressmaking detail. The bodice back has a gently blouson effect, dropped and gathered in at the waist. There is a pleat set into the centre back seam for easy walking. The narrow belt is contoured for perfect fit. A truly perfect design for many types of fabrics such as light weight woolens, cottons, satin, crepe, silk, shantung and linen. A wonderful dress whether for warm or cold weather. Spadea's exclusive ready-to-wear sizes produce a better fit. See chart for size best for you.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Don't Grow Old Because Of a Neglected Complexion

While we cannot reverse facial aging we can do much to delay it and minimize it. There are certain changes which take place sooner or later, no matter what we do, but we can influence HOW soon it happens and HOW great the changes are.

As we grow older the fat between the skin and the muscles become less firm and full. These factors lead to a droop in contour and to wrinkling. One of the most important preventive measures is to fight the increasing dryness of the complexion.

Lowman

In order to do this you may have to use a cleansing cream instead of soap. Also there are excellent soap substitutes on the market. These are excellent for the dry or aging skin as well as for a baby's outer coating. If you use soap (and some women just do not feel that their face is really clean wihout it) try one of the superfatted soaps.

Take advantage of the moisturizers which are available. Pat an eye cream about the eyes at night before going to sleep. Of course use lubricating creams generously and give them time to soak in if you do not leave them on all night.

Dermatologists are now convinced that exposure to the sun is one of the important factors in facial aging. In their interesting book "1001 Questions and Answers to Your Skin Problems" (Harper and Row—publishers), Doctors Sidney J. Robbins and Stephanie H. Robbins say, "Excess exposure to the sun, indulged in by many sunta faddists, tends to make the skin dry and wrinkled. It's incredible how many of the women who are most concerned about wrinkles are the same ones who seek the deepest suntans. Excessive exposure to the sun not only dries out the skin but also has a tendency to form freckles and brown spots, especially in middle-aged people."

So, get your suntan if you wish, but recognize the truth—you are making a choice. Indulge in sports early in the morning or in the later afternoon. Use one of the screening products and wear a large hat. Take the sun at its weakest.

If you would like to have the name of a soap substitute, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for it to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

AUXILIARY BAZAAR AND TEA

Gifts Galore Bedeck The Stalls In Metropolitan Church Saturday

It looked as though Santa was making his rounds early on Saturday afternoon when Victoria Multiple Sclerosis Golden Key Auxiliary held its annual bazaar and tea in Metropolitan United Church.

Heading the popularity poll was a jewelry stall featuring pendants, bracelets, rings and necklaces made of gem stones found on Vancouver Island. The jewelry was made by conveners, Mr. and Mrs. K. Williamson of Duncan. Another highlight of the stall was a display of rocks from the Duncan area.

Many a little girl's eyes sparkled as she looked over the array of dolls and doll clothes that were selling in the stall convened by Miss Elizabeth Parker, Mrs. G. Parker and Miss Audrey Harrison. There were "baby" dolls, Scottish lasses and Barbie dolls and clothes for one and all. In charge of the Barbie dolls were Mrs. C. Bacon, Mrs. W. Duncan, Mrs. R. Burrell and Mrs. R. Grant.

A sum of $1,165 was realized from the succesful affair that was opened by Mrs. D. L. Brothers. She was introduced by president Mrs. Olive Campbell.

Presiding at the tea table that was centred with an arrangement of pink chrysanthemums and white candles were Mrs. G. Norris, Mrs. A. H. Wills, Mrs. W. Owens, Mrs. C. Conrad, Mrs. A. Serviteurs included Mrs. C. Gilbert, Mrs. G. Marsden, Miss Veronica Marsden, Miss Sandra Hawkes, Mrs. I. Ritchie, Mrs. D. McConnell, Mrs. Art Cann and Mrs. R. Lejeune, and members of the Oak Bay Spade Club.

Mrs. Arthur Newcombe and Mrs. Keith Newcombe, grandmother and aunt of the bride, travelled from Blenheim, Ont., to attend the recent Dormer-Newcombe wedding. Other out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Stan Lyon of Sardis, B.C.; Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Elliott of New Westminster, and Miss Val Andrews, Vancouver.

Red Carnations Mark Guest Pews For Saturday Evening Wedding

St. Patrick's Church, Oak Bay, was decorated with arrangements of chrysanthemums and fern, and pews were marked with red carnations Saturday evening when Fr. M. J. McNamara heard marriage vows exchanged between Georgina Margaret Marie Noels and Neil Donovan McLeod.

Parents of the principals are Mr. and Mrs. George F. Noels, 1658 Pearl Street, Victoria, and Mr. and Mrs. C. A. McLeod of West Vancouver. Soloist, Vic Morriss, sang "Ave Maria" during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a couturier designed gown of peau de soie that was made by her mother. It was fashioned with with a chapel-length train and wide three-quarter-length sleeves. The neckline and front panels of the skirt were highlighted with Belgian lace. A three-tier scalloped veil pouffed from a self-fabric pill box headpiece trimmed with matching lace. Only jewelry was a single strand of pearls and she carried a bouquet of red roses and white stephanotis.

The bride was attended by her four sisters, Mrs. Wayne Richardson, Mrs. Leo Hermsen and the Misses Jeanette and Rita Noels. All wore red satin bell-skirted gowns with matching shoes and self-fabric rosette headpieces trimmed with veiling. They carried colonial bouquets of red carnations and white chrysanthemums backed with white lace and accented with camelia leaves and fern.

A three-tier wedding cake, topped with a frosted wine glass containing sweetheart roses, centred the bride's table at a reception held in King Arthur's Round Table Restaurant. The cake was flanked by white chrysanthemums, red carnations and fern. William Neal proposed the toast to the bride.

For travelling on a honeymoon trip, the bride donned a melon green, three-piece Italian knit suit, topped with an olive and melon-toned semi-fitted coat and toning hat. Black leather accessories completed her ensemble. She carried a single Talisman rose.

Rev. Murray Henderson Hears Dormer-Newcombe Wedding Vows

Baskets of pink and white chrysanthemums decorated Belmont United Church recently when Rev. Murray Henderson heard marriage vows exchanged between Carol Mae Newcombe and Edward John Dormer.

Parents of the principals are Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Newcombe, 1525 Denman Street, and Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Dormer, 1613 Edgeware Road. Organist was Mrs F. Zuhling.

Entering the church on the arm of her father, the bride was lovely in a street-length gown of shimmering peau de soie that was highlighted with a long-sleeved jacket of French lace and matching train that extended from her shoulders. A hand-rolled illusion veil misted to shouder-length from a headpiece of seed pearls and crystals. She carried a cascade bouquet of red sweetheart roses and white streamers.

Only attendant, Miss Irma Littig, wore a street-length bell-skirted gown of pink taffeta with a pink rose headpiece trimmed with matching net. Pink and white carnations and pink streamers formed her colonial bouquet.

David Dormer was best man for his brother and guests were ushered to their pews by Raymond Briggs and Frank Sailor, the bride's uncles.

Bruce Thackeray proposed the toast to the bride at a reception that followed in War Amputations Hall. A three-tier wedding cake flanked by vases of pink carnations and surrounded with carnations in pink tulle centred the head table. Baskets of white chrysanthemums completed the decorations. The Colwoodaire orchestra played for dancing.

FORMER MINISTER OF DEFENCE RECOVERS FROM RUIN

Most Misunderstand Explosive Dr. Strauss

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

BONN — In the chemistry of German politics, which must be decisive in the politics of Western Europe, the most explosive element is Dr. Franz-Josef Strauss.

But this strange personage, who has been widely regarded as President de Gaulle's fifth column in Germany and the secret enemy of the United States, is grossly misunderstood. All his views and motives have been so distorted that he cannot recognize them when he reads the press and almost despairs of getting through to the world public.

Or so at least he told me in a remarkably candid interview.

Thinking back over a rather long experience with politicians, I can remember none like this massive, beefy and florid man of early middle age who burst suddenly into his office after a long day in the Bundestag and looked as if he had just emerged from his morning shower.

Though I had never seen him before, there was something familiar in his face. It took me several minutes to realize that the cannon-ball head, the heavy jowels, the pinched nose and jutting chin are almost the exact features of Chancellor Ludwig Erhard as they must have appeared in his younger days.

That resemblance is arresting and ironic. For Dr. Erhard and Dr. Strauss, once close colleagues and friends, are now struggling against each other, within Germany's ruling centre party, to control it and the nation's future.

Age Vs. Youth

The contest between these men — age against youth — seemed to end when Dr. Strauss, the powerful minister of defence, was dismissed in disgrace from the government. He had contrived the arrest of his chief critic, a newspaper editor, was charged with misleading parliament and his promising career ended, apparently, in total humiliation.

This assumption, so cheering to his enemies, did not last long.

Dr. Strauss still controlled the southern, Bavarian wing of Dr. Erhard's restless coalition. He possessed a private fulcrum of power and he possessed, as well, an imaginative mind, a compelling charm, a corrosive wit and a ferocious energy.

Given these assets, it was not surprising, perhaps, that he quickly recovered from his ruin and on the day when he received me had dominated the foreign policy debate in the Bundestag.

Now he relaxed in an easy chair with a boy's disarming grin and a specially long cigarette. What, he inquired, did I want to know?

Of course I wanted to know many things but there was no need to ask. Once started, Dr. Strauss' conversation flows in bubbling torrent. The deceptively careless air changes to grim vehemence. The moon face takes on a cold passion. Here, obviously, was a man who had something to say and felt desperately eager to be understood.

In the first place he flatly denied the general belief in Germany and through the Western world that, with French President Charles de Gaulle as his sponsor, he was trying to make Europe into a "third force" standing between the United States and Russia.

Second Pillar

No, the unified Europe for which he worked, and without which nothing important could be achieved, must be the "second pillar" of a united Western world, an essential pillar. And to suppose that he held any anti-American sentiments was simply ridiculous.

"After all," he said, "I was one of the first architects of NATO." He added that he would never want Germany to make a deal with Russia and abandon the West. While he hoped that Germany would never have to choose between the United States and France, nevertheless, if the choice was inescapable, there could be only one response — Germany must maintain its American friendship.

It was useless, however, to discuss these hypothetical questions apart from the practical facts of the world.

The "historical patterns," as he called them, had drastically altered in recent years. Immediately after the Second World War power was neatly divided between the U.S., Russia and the neutrals but now the Communist camp was split, the monolith shattered by the Russian-Chinese quarrel. A new situation had appeared and it needed new policies in the West.

Free Western peoples, he warned, should not be deluded by the developing independence of Russia's satellite governments. Certainly they wanted Western goods and credits but only to satisfy their discontented peoples and thus to strengthen their own oppressive rule. The belief that these governments were turning to freedom was pure illusion.

Analyzing the new situation in more detail, Mr. Strauss concluded that Russia and China were different by four factors: Their differing interpretations of Communist ideology; the ambition of each to be the leader of world Communism; China's clear determination to drive Russia out of the colored world; and the soft Chinese-Russian border which frightened Nikita Khrushchev and his successors.

In any case, he went on, the new German initiative toward European unification was vital. Without real unity Europe would "dissolve." The initiative must be modest at present but it could lay a foundation, "a common denominator," for further advance in the future. It was so necessary, indeed, that Dr. Strauss would push it ahead even if one or two of the Common Market nations refused at first to join it.

Must Co-Operate

But the adherence of France was absolutely essential. Nothing could be done to reorganize Europe without German-French agreement which, after all, the U.S. had always advocated.

I interrupted to ask whether De Gaulle would agree to any initiative, however modest. Dr. Strauss paused cautiously and retorted: "I hope so."

At any rate, having launched the initiative, the German government must carry it through or face electoral defeat. It must prove to its people that it was making real, if peripheral, progress.

Then this supposedly blind worshipper of Gen. de Gaulle politely criticized the French leader as a man "who belongs to yesterday and tomorrow." Searching for the precise English word, Dr. Strauss said that Gen. de Gaulle had "strained" French power, since France was in fact a second-class power. On the other hand, a united Europe would be a first-class power, but always an organic part of the West.

Such a power was needed in any successful approach to the Russian empire. Germany could not approach it alone because German motives were distrusted after their long record of aggression. On the other hand, if German power were merged into the power of a united, peace-loving Europe these motives would no longer be suspect.

How, I asked, would the U.S. regard this approach?

Dr. Strauss gave a prompt and vigorous answer. The U.S., he said, must surely see the advantage of having more than one voice speaking to Russia.

So long as there was only the American voice, so long would Communism's "nuclear blackmail" be directed solely at the U.S. and it must remain the singe target of all Communist attack and propaganda. In any confrontation, miscalculation or accident anywhere throughout the world, the U.S. alone would be blamed for it.

Dr. Strauss said he had given this advice to the late president John F. Kennedy at Washington. What Mr. Kennedy had said in reply, if anything, Dr. Strauss did not mention.

Turning for a moment to Britain, he said that the Wilson government's election seemed to be a verdict against British entry into any scheme of European unity. Actually the verdict would not prevent, but would encourage integration. This movement had been long postponed while Europe waited for Britain to make up its mind. Now that it was made up, the excuse for postponement had disappeared. Europe must proceed with its plans.

Held Back

Dr. Strauss digressed to observe, somewhat wistfully, that after the war Britain could easily have assumed the leadership of a prostrate Europe but had abdicated this chance. Why, he wondered, had Winston Churchill demanded that Europe unite and yet had refused to unite with it? Well, British psychology was an odd thing. And now Britain faced the danger of isolation from the adjoining continent but in the end, Dr. Strauss thought, it would decide to join Europe.

Summing up, he repeated that the free world must face completely new and still changing circumstances, must explore and exploit them instead of standing still, as some Americans apparently wished to do.

What, I asked, venturing on delicate ground, did Dr. Strauss think of Dr. Erhard? The answer was polite and guarded, as one would expect, and doubtless hid a very strained relationship. Dr. Erhard, said Dr. Strauss, had excellent brains, but did he have the courage to carry through the grand initiative of European unity?

With that ambiguous query, Dr. Strauss closed the interview and hurried back to the Bundestag. He had spoken in immaculate English but as we shook hands the nuances of the language seemed to escape him. "Good bye," I said. He replied: "How do you do?"

Possibly, I thought, this subtle man had also missed the nuances of the American and British characters. As I was to find later on, the character of modern Germany is even more occult.

A LOAN 'WITH CONTEMPT'

LONDON (AP) — President de Gaulle of France has offered Britain a loan to help with its economic difficulties and refused to consider abandoning construction of the supersonic Concorde plane, The Daily Mail said Saturday in a front-page story.

The story came from The Mail's Paris correspondent, Angus MacPherson, who said the loan offer was "a gesture of contempt from President de Gaulle, who is furious at another 'Anglo-Saxon betrayal.'"

The offer was made, MacPherson said, in de Gaulle's reply to the British project.

Antiques, New Equipment Get Equal Fire Dept. Care

Fire Chief John Abbott has been busy overseeing the restoration of the department's antiques at the same time as he has been introducing the latest of equipment.

The old includes the chief's 1901 buggy and the 1859 seal granted to the volunteer department by Sir James Douglas.

The new includes a $300 heavy-duty electric hammer which can be used for forcible entries in brick walls or concrete buildings, a four-ton hydraulic jack and electric power saws.

In the rescue department the latest in manual resuscitators have been purchased which means that each first line piece of equipment is now complete with its own resuscitator. This in turn means that no one in the city is farther than three minutes away from the fire department's rescue apparatus.

Last year the department received 127 resuscitator calls, and of these 79 responded to treatment and 65 were persons suffering from heart attacks.

This year the total number of calls to date is 140.

MILL WASTES HARMFUL TO FISH, OYSTERS

Some early results of the study, now only half complete, were announced to representatives of fishing and logging industries here by Earl N. Kari of Portland, director of the project sponsored by the Washington State Pollution Control Commission and the U.S. department of health.

Solutions to the controversial problem are expected to be recommended after the study is completed.

This is the second time in the chapter's five-year history it has ranked in the top ten internationally.

It was awarded third place in 1962.

The award is based on the chapter's activities in carrying out the order's program of youth development.

Goldstream Chapter has a membership of 63 and meets the first, third and fifth Wednesdays of each month at Goldstream Masonic Temple, Langford.

The Order of DeMolay is an organization for young men between the ages of 14 and 21 and is sponsored by groups of men belonging to the Masonic Order.

Civil Service Retirement Set at 60 in New Zealand

By J. C. GRAHAM

Canadian Press Correpondent

WELLINGTON (CP) — After hesitating for many years, the New Zealand government has fixed 60 as the compulsory retiring age for civil servants. Those who have completed 40 years of service may be required to retire even before reaching 60.

The new policy amounts to a reduction of about five years in retiring ages. Hitherto the upper age limit has normally been 65, although some public servants have had their terms of service extended beyond that age. However, those who have completed 40 years have normally been retired after they reach 60.

The present staff of the public service will not be compelled to observe the new limits, but it will be enforced for all joining from now on. However, efforts will be made to encourage as many as possible of exising staffs to observe the new system.

Inducemsnts include various adjustments to superannuation rights making it profitable for civil servants to retire at 60. These include provision for staffs to pay in superannuation contributions allowing them to retire at 60 on full pensions even if they have not in fact served a full 40 years.

The lower retiring age has been fixed in consultation with public service organizations and has generally been welcomed by senior officials. The problem of activities for fit and mentally active men presents comparatively minor difficulties in New Zealand where a condition of over-full employment has prevailed for nearly a generation.

There are still far more vacant jobs than workers to fill them in New Zealand. Civil servants retiring at 60 find little difficulty in getting other jobs if they want them to supplement their pensions.

Many senior officials get appointments to semi - public agencies and tribunals, such as commissions, licensing bodies and the like. Others use their knowledge of government procedures to good effect in firms dealing with the government departments in which they served.

Another breakthrough from Canada's largest stereo laboratories:

ITALIA STEREO HI-FI BY ELECTROHOME

plus a total departure in speaker systems

for incomparable sound and uncompromised fine furniture

Electrohome's president, Carl Pollock, has good reason to be proud. His engineering design team has achieved the impossible! Now, thanks to Electrohome's unique, new Electrosonic Sound system, you may enjoy superb stereo performance without the need for wide speaker openings common to other hi-fi consoles. The benefits are obvious to those who truly love fine furniture.

When the Italia is used with Electrohome's 360° Satellite Speakers, sliding front panels may remain closed. The result is electrifying both to ear and eye!

Only Electrohome has the magic of Electrosonic Sound

Electrohome-designed bass speakers "fire" downwards to overcome the need for wide speaker openings found in conventional stereo consoles.

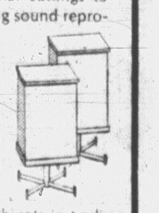
Here, truly, is perfected solid state – the result of 4 years' research in Canada's largest stereo laboratories and extensive field testing.

A host of exclusive new features, available only from Electrohome, will add so much to your listening pleasure. New Selectomatic Switch automatically switches from FM monaural to FM stereo, if a stereo signal is present. If the stereo signal is too weak, it automatically switches to monaural. New Four Gang Tuner is superbly accurate in pinpointing the desired station and filtering out all others. New Solid State Voltage Regulator gives you better FM reception, free of noise modulation, and overcomes FM drift when household voltage changes. New Electromatic Switch is a trouble-free solid state device that improves reliability and performance by electronically switching AM to FM or FM to AM.

The Italia (illustrated) features the superb Garrard A70 turntable and changer. It is dynamically balanced and has a bias arm adjustment to prevent record wear. Other models have the incredible Dual 1009 changer and the Shure M44-7 magnetic cartridge with stylus set at the same 15° angle used for original cuttings to pamper records and to give breathtaking sound reproduction.

Hear Canada's only three dimensional stereo with Electrohome's exclusive 360° Satellite Speakers. Because the Satellite Speakers flood the entire room with music, the console can be placed where it looks best – and you will be assured of the ultimate in sound, wherever you sit.



A wide selection of fine Deilcraft cabinets in traditional, colonial and contemporary styles await your inspection at your nearby Electrohome dealers. Prices range from $300.00 to over $2,000.00.

After 25 Years, the Passiveness Has Disappeared

By HUMPHRY DAVY

Quebecers have changed in the past 25 years. In many respects they are a different people. Their outlook, interests and ideals are different.

As a former resident of the province, this struck me when I met the visiting Quebec mayors this weekend.

As I remember the French-speaking Canadians in the 1930s, they were passive and somewhat uncertain about their destiny.

There were rumblings of discontent, of course, but no visible sign of a major change of outlook.

Their talents were not utilized. Outside of law and medicine, there were far too few in the professions.

It was as if their creative energy was bottled up.

There are many reasons for this, and Quebecers today will be the first to admit they were partly to blame. But English-speaking Canada also shares some responsibility.

I remember, for example, a bank official telling me he wasn't able to appoint an accountant as bank manager because he was French-speaking. It was the policy of the firm.

We who lived in Quebec during those years knew that this state of affairs would not last. Sooner or later the lid would blow off.

It was only a question of time before these people with a great cultural background would seek to express themselves in all fields of activity. And this would not be done at the price of their culture and language.

It has happened.

This change from passiveness to objectivity was evident in the beliefs and opinions expressed by the mayors who represent the grass roots of the province.

I spoke to more than 50 mayors and all made it clear that Quebec is determined to retain its identity and take part in the political and economic development of Canada.

"We won't be smothered," they said. "We intend to keep our language, our culture, and to make full use of our human resources."

One mayor drew attention to a change in Quebec which is sometimes overlooked.

"Do you remember how the tendency in Quebec was to save money rather than to invest? Well, that's all changed now. We have become investors, and much of our money goes into Canadian businesses."

He had no resentment against English-speaking Canadians.

Most of the mayors seemed to agree that one of the qualities they admired in the English was the sense of "fair play."

But the point they emphasized is that they are not of the English-speaking culture and can't be expected to respond emotionally to its symbols and history. They have their own.

They all desired a mutual understanding between English and French.

If I found Quebecers more forward, more outspoken and prouder of his racial origin, I also saw a side that has remained unchanged. They were the same warm, friendly and hospitable people of old. And they still love a good time.

The mayors fell in love with Victoria and its people.

Pierre M. Bernardin, mayor of Preville, near Montreal, said he took a short walk Sunday and was stopped by several people who wanted to shake hands.

"I think it was a wonderful idea of the city placing flowers in our hotel rooms," he said. "Your hospitality and kindness has overwhelmed us."

Norman Hortenstein, councillor for St. Laurent, felt there should be more exchange visits between British Columbians and Quebecers. This would do much to promote national unity.

I was standing among a group and the remarks I overheard were flattering.

"The mayor has worked hard and has put his heart in this reception," one said.

"He hasn't forgotten a thing," added another. "I hope we can do as well if they (mayors) ever come to Quebec."

The mayor had done much to create a "bonne entente."

SOLUTION WEDNESDAY

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Jan Friesen, age 9, of St. Catharines, Ont., for her question:

Why does a catfish have whiskers?

If you go to the right river, chances are you can catch a catfish, even if you have never caught a fish in your whole life. It is easy to catch him because the hungry fellow is always eager to snap at the bait on your hook. When you land him, you see the long whiskers around his mouth and know why he is called a catfish.

The whiskers of the catfish are not at all like the whiskers of a real cat. The cat's moustache is stiff hairs made of dead material somewhat like fingernails. If she bends or breaks a whisker, it does not hurt. The moustache of the catfish is very much alive. It is made of sensible feelers, and each whisker is called a barbel.

Mr. Catfish is not choosy about his food, and he eats whatever he can find in the water or on the muddy floor of his river. He enjoys insects and frogs, snails and small fishes, leeches and worms. He also eats water weeds and even garbage. The eyes of the catfish are not very sharp, and he often hunts for his food in murky, muddy water.

The experts who study these things think that his barbels help the catfish find food. As he grubs along the bottom, he uses his whiskers to grope through the mud. We think that they are sensitive feelers that tell him which scraps are good to eat. He also uses them to feel his way around objects hidden in the murky water.

Fins Have Sharp Spikes

There are dozens of different catfish, large and small. A few live in shallow brackish waters near the sea. Most of them live in the fresh water of lakes and rivers. There are channel catfish that may weigh 42 pounds. There are blue catfish that may tip the scale at 150 pounds—they can weigh more than you do. One of the most common catfish is the brown bullhead. He lives in the streams and lakes of eastern North America, all the way from Canada to Florida. His firm, white meat is sweet and almost free of bones, and Mr. Brown Bullhead is one of the most delicious of all fishes to eat.

Catfish have sharp spikes on their fins and sometimes also on their chests. Take care not to get stabbed when you catch one. Some catfish have poison on their spikes, but the brown bullhead does not. So just watch out for the spikes on his fins and get ready to enjoy a delicious meal of delicate fish meat.

Most fishes lay their eggs and leave them to take their chances in the water. But the catfishes take better care of their youngsters. The brown bullhead parents dig a shallow nest in the floor of their lake or stream. Sometimes they hide their eggs under a rock or sunken log. There may be 2,000 eggs, and either the papa or both parents watch over them for several days until they hatch. Then hundreds of the little fishes swim off together, and the parents swim beside them to keep them from harm.

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—Tina Louise won the interview.

I was going to needle the big beautiful redhead about some reviews that had clobbered her TV series, "Gilligan's Island." I asked her whether she was disappointed.

"Disappointed!" She stiffened and threw me a sharp look. "We're one of the big hits. The ratings are high. As for the reviews . . . well, they can't make TV shows just for New York City.

"Why," she laughed, "I was voted 'Miss Cellmate' by the convicts of Kansas State Penitentiary. They sent me a beautiful engraved box shaped like a cell."

Tina, a New Yorker, had come back from L.A. "for six great days' 'and had gone at once to the Actors Studio to "observe" again. At a critical point in her life, two years ago, Tina quit working for eight months to study at the studio to try to become a serious actress.

"I don't know many people who would take eight months off and not work," she said. "I was offered the London company of How to Succeed by Abe Burrows and turned it down to study."

Does the Studio approve of you being a TV comedienne?

"Of course. One must work. If you're not working, nobody sees you and nobody asks you to do anything!"

James Garner says he never heard of a TV performer who wouldn't prefer to be a movie star. Do you agree?

"You're putting me on the spot. I'll do more movies. They're working on some for me now. I could have been a millionairess making movies in Europe. Every week somebody offered me $60,000 to do a movie. But I came back and went to the UCLA to study to be better.

Are you still having your romance with Tommy Leonetti?

"Certainly. The main thing is to be happy and have a romance. Marriage isn't planned at the moment . . . but there are no complaints."

Tina, who now wears bangs, said she'd gone to see Golden Boy and Wow! I could just feel the talk. 'There's that girl we see on television.'"

Tina, what do you do in Hollywood Saturday nights at the end of your long hard week?

THE WEEKEND WINDUP

Liz Taylor and Richard Burton are working five days a week on Flight of the Sandpiper in Europe (unlike other companies that work six). "Life's not worth living," says Burton, "if you have to work six days a week" . . . Doris Day's agents scouted Fade Out-Fade In as a film for her . . . Vito Pisa of Chez Vito complains it's hard to get violinists now: "All the kids who used to study the fiddle now study the guitar" . . . New London fashion for gals: Plum velvet smoking jackets. Elaine Stritch wore one at Gallagher's.

Ex-Copa gal Madeleine Unger, who now owns Il Sole, plans an alumni club of other Copa girls . . . Dolores del Rio wrote her first song, and Pedro Vargas of the Chateau Madrid show will record it . . . The wives of Andy Williams, David Janssen and Steve McQueen'll be on a Jack Benny TV'er. Claudine Williams says they're "the housewives' answer to the Beatles."

Jack Cassidy's note on wife Shirley Jones' new black hairdo: "When we go out I get the feeling I'm cheating on my wife" . . . Prince Rainier, who recently sold his big yacht, is shopping for a smaller one that sleeps only a dozen . . . Mel Allen, who'll be at Joe DiMaggio's 50th birthday party, kids himself when he says, "Joe was so great—he was the only player I ever gave four 'how-about-thats' on one game" . . . Neil Sedaka was asked to appear as piano soloist with the Las Vegas Symphony orchestra.

Tony Randall, who played seven roles in Dr. Lao, was offered a movie in which he'd play eleven roles. "First seven, then eleven," he said. "What am I—an actor or a croupier?"

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: Bernadette Castro reports her neighbor is so wealthy he just ordered a '65 Cadillac with stained glass windows.

WISH I'D SAID HAT: At today's prices, a "living wage" only lets you live four or five days out of the week.

REMEMBERED QUOTE: "It does a man no good to sit up and take notice—if he just keeps on sitting."—Anon.

Papers Stay Shut In Detroit Dispute

DETROIT (AP)—Newspaper printing pressmen, on strike for more than four months, tried to report for work at the Detroit Free Press today, but could not get in.

The pressmen continued their strike against the Detroit News. Management took a position that the strike against both papers still was continuing.

EVERYONE HELPS STRICKEN CHILD

Town Poor, But Not in Spirit

DERBY, Ind. (AP)—It was a festival with bingo games, bowls of hot chili and plates of homemade pie. But there was no laughter.

"Everyone's here," said Rev. Richard Lyons, pastor of St. Mary's Roman Catholic Church, as he glanced over a crowd of 400—four times the population of this Ohio River hamlet near the Kentucky border.

There was an artificial tree—with dollar bills for leaves, 500 of them contributed Sunday to help defray expenses for 3½ - year - old Yvonne O'Bryant, who is dying of leukemia.

"We have more friends than I ever knew about," said the child's father, Charles O'Bryant. "I don't know how to say thanks."

The festival was organized in the hope it could be of help, said Mrs. Luke Kellems, chairman, and "we couldn't have hoped for a bigger success."

INCOME IS LOW

Father Lyons said, "this town doesn't have much money—I've been told it's about the second lowest area in per capita income in the state."

There is no cost for treatment given to blonde, blue-eyed Yvonne at the government-owned National Health Institute in Bethesda, Md., but O'Bryant must pay for frequent trips to the hospital, where the child must spend a week of each month for what doctors say will be the final year of her life.

The O'Bryants have three other daughters — Barbara Ann, 10; Patricia, 8, and Mary Margaret, 5.

BEWARE OF THE CHARMING

JAKARTA (Reuters)—Indonesians have been warned to beware of beautiful young women—whether white, Malay or Chinese.

They may be Malaysian spies, authorities said.

Ali Sastroamidjojo, deputy charman of the peoples' consultative congress, said in a speech that Malaysia was using beautiful women to try to weaken Indonesia's "confrontation" policy against the Malaysian Federation.

Lynn 'Odette', But Not 'Odile'

LONDON (CP) — Canadian ballerina Lynn Seymour receives mixed reviews for her performance in a Royal Ballet production of Swan Lake.

The critic for The Times says the 25 - year - old Vancouver dancer gives validity to the classical ballet cliche that all ballerinas are primarily either an Odette or an Odile.

"Her Odette was among the most deeply felt in living memory but her Odile seemed barely adequate."

"The exquisite, quite extraordinary softness and continuity of her classical movement was never more evident."

Clive Barnes in The Daily Express says Miss Seymour could have been dancing some female equivalent of Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde.

"When she was good, dancing the swan queen Odette, she was as good as they come. But as the evil enchantress she missed out."

RCMP Stays in HQ Despite Liquor Sale

But it has moved its headquarters into the new Montreal Trust Building at 1061 Fort Street which has a licensed restaurant in the basement.

The Cellar restaurant has a licence to sell beer and wine with meals. So far the licence has not been affected.

The RCMP moved its provincial headquarters from 716 Courtney Street to the fourth and fifth floors of the building nearly two weeks ago.

Superintendent Gerry Engel declined comment when asked if the licence granted to The Cellar would be affected by the move.

But he said the RCMP would continue to make its headquarters at 1061 Fort Street although the building will be sold at a sheriff's auction next month.

"The change of ownership will not affect us," the superintendent said.

PUBLIC AUCTION

As a result, the building will be sold at a public auction in the sheriff's office at Victoria Law Courts before the middle of December.

The court has fixed a minimum upset price of $720,000.

The building is also occupied on a rental basis by the Montreal Trust Company, a beauty parlor, a barber shop and several professional and business offices.

'Love' Note Gains Funds For Charity

RINGWOOD, England (AP) The newspaper advertisement read:

"Love is my profession."

After that was a telephone number. Nothing else.

"The phone never stopped ringing," said 20 - year - old Dorothy King.

The telephone number was that of a movie theatre raising money for mentally retarded children. The theatre presented a midnight showing of the Brigitte Bardot film Love Is My Profession.

Perry King, the manager of the theatre, said "it might have been a cruel joke, but it was for a good cause. We raised £80 ($224) for these unfortunate children."

"I think I must have talked to 200 eager Englishmen," said Miss King. "I haven't got a boy friend and after this, I'm not keen on getting one."

2-Year Sentence Suspended For Arsonist

Robert Allan Rathsburg, 38, of 2150 Cadboro Bay Road, received a two-year suspended sentence in Victoria County Court Friday.

He had pleaded guilty to setting fire to premises he rented in the upstairs portion of a building at 1117 Blanshard. A condition of his suspended sentence was that he must make restitution for damage caused by the fire to the owners of the building.

Rathsburg was also required to sign a $1,000 bond to keep the peace during his suspended sentence.

9 IN MEMORIAM

DAY—In loving memory of Leonard R. Day, who passed away Nov. 16, 1953.

Sunshine passes, shadows fall,
Love's remembrance outlasts all
And though the days be many or few,
They are filled with remembrance of you.

DAY—In loving memory of Leonard R. Day, who passed away Nov. 16, 1953.

Of a loved one laid to rest.
In memory's frame we shall keep it

HILTON — In loving memory of Susan Hilton. Passed away November 15, 1963.

My lips cannot tell how I miss her,
My heart cannot tell what to say;
God alone knows how I miss her,
In a home that is lonesome today.

—Albert, Ev and Rick; Gus and Edith and grandchildren.

NOONE—In loving memory of our wonderful Mother, Mary Ellen, who passed away Nov. 16, 1962.

At twilight when twilight hour draws
And sunset flames the sky,
We think of you, dear Mother,
And the happy days gone by.
Thoughts of you come drifting back
Within our dreams to stay,
To know that you are resting

—Remembered every day, James, Sister Maureen Theresa S.S.A. and Robert.

BRIDGE LESSON

By OSWALD JACOBY

While the Italian team won the World Bridge Olympiad, it was not a bed of roses all the way. No one went through the preliminary rounds undefeated and the Swedish team beat them six victory point to one.

Aggressive bidding paid off. The bidding in the accompanying box took place when Sven Berglund of Sweden sat South. He started out mildly enough with his two diamond response, but after his partner reversed to two spades and then gave a diamond preference, Sven was ready to go to the roof.

He checked for aces with four no-trump and when North showed two aces, Sven went right to the diamond grand slam.

It was not the sort of grand slam you want to be in for the rest of your life. Sven did not want to be there when he saw the dummy, but he proceeded to bring it home.

After winning the first heart in dummy he came to his hand with the ace of clubs, led the ten of spades, consulted his crystal ball and let the ten ride.

When it held, his troubles were over. He was able to ruff his two losing clubs in dummy and get rid of his losing heart on the ace of spades.

When Belladonna of Italy held the South cards, he also used four no-trump to check for kings and when North showed only one king Belladonna settled for the small slam. He made only six since he played safe by taking the ace of spades and then leading the queen of spades. East played low and Belladonna discarded his losing heart.

FRONTIERS OF SCIENCE

HIGH PRESSURE BY DESIGN - Part 1
IN OUR EARTHLY ENVIRONMENT, THE PRESENCE OF ABOUT 20 PERCENT OF OXYGEN IN THE ATMOSPHERE IS VITAL TO LIFE.
THIS OXYGEN PASSES THROUGH THE WALLS OF THE LUNGS, DISSOLVES IN THE BLOOD AND IS CARRIED AROUND THE BODY TO THE VARIOUS CELLS, WHICH CANNOT LIVE WITHOUT IT.
TODAY SCIENCE IS MAKING REMARKABLE NEW DISCOVERIES ABOUT WHAT HAPPENS TO THE BODY, NOT IF OXYGEN IS WITHHELD, BUT IF THE SUPPLY IS INCREASED, BY PLACING A PERSON IN A HIGH-PRESSURE OXYGEN TANK.
STARVED OF OXYGEN, THE BODY DIES — AND SOME PARTS DIE QUICKER THAN OTHERS. FOR EXAMPLE, MUSCLES CAN SURVIVE FOR SOME HOURS, BUT BRAIN CELLS DIE WITHIN MINUTES.

EQUITY
CAN MEAN
CASH IN YOUR HAND

That investment you have in your home is an asset in more ways than one. You qualify for the Associates' Home Owner's Loan Plan. Under this plan you borrow from $2,000 to $20,000 on the equity you've built up. The interest rate is reasonable. There are no hidden charges or obscure clauses. You completely repay the loan in equal monthly installments, over a period of up to 10 years. There are no "balance" or "balloon" payments. Interest is computed monthly on the unpaid balance. This means that each payment you make reduces the amount of interest you pay.

There are 101 reasons why you might need cash—financing a university education, buying a second car, remodelling your home. Keep the Associates' Home Owner's Loan Plan in mind. The Associates is one of Canada's largest financing firms with branch offices in principal cities across the country.

Andy Stephen Looks at TV

POT POURRI: Deep Cove resident Sebastian Cabot is putting in a lot of video time these days. Tonight at 6:30 on Channel 6 he'll be seen in the Red Skelton Show which was video-taped in London earlier this year. It was done just before the now internationally-famous meat pie caper when he was stopped in Winnipeg from bringing in a huge meat pie from England. The smoke from that incident is still curling.

Stephen

But back to the Skelton show. It was seen on Channels 7 and 12 last Tuesday and on Channel 8 Friday. So this tour of London with the red-haired clown and Sebastian as guide is getting more than its share of exposure.

The program had enough sight gag material to last the Skelton show a season. Sebastian carried off his role with great ease, showing off a definite comedy flair.

As Chiselwick the guide, he was in for a lot of physical pummelling, which goes against his thespian grain but is allowed because it's all money in the bank.

Not only is Sebastian evident in the Skelton show, but the pantomime guessing game, Stump the Stars, is back again and even better, he narrates the nature study film, A Day at Teton Marsh, on Disney's Wonderful World of Color. This program has still to appear on Channel 12.

* * *

Skelton referred to his London show as a tour of the city. It wasn't, but it must be admitted it showed more of London than did the program last week which was to have been a tour of Rome.

"Sophia Loren in Rome" has to go down in the television books as the most banal and trivial of tour shows to date. It's hard to believe that so little imagination was used in what should have been a memorable viewing experience.

* * *

The grim reaper has been swinging his scythe in the industry following the early ratings reports and several shows, still in infancy, have been axed.

Gone are two half-hour situation comedy segments of "90 Bristol Court"—"Harris Against the World" and "Tom, Dick and Mary." The third segment, titled "Karen," has survived for the time being.

Actor Jack Klugman, who moved from New York to appear in the series, felt the axing especially hard. But there are no feelings to be found in the hallowed halls of unsentimental networks.

"Mickey," a series starring Mickey Rooney, is another loser this season, as is The Bill Dana Show, in its second season. Mickey was knocked off by Dick Van Dyke, while Dana suffered the fate of others who have tried to buck the Ed Sullivan Show.

Other shows waiting word are Mr. Broadway, The Reporter, Many Happy Returns, Slattery's People, The Cara Williams Show, Baileys of Balboa, Daniel Boone and 12 o'Clock High.

Strange as it may seem, in a year when monster, horror and science fiction shows are proving popular, last year's sensation, Outer Limits, will be cut.

It doesn't matter if a show has merit. If it is rated out of the top 20 or 30 shows, especially a new series, it's doomed.

HOME GARDEN

Nut Trees Provide Garden 'Triple Play'

By HILDA BEASTALL

Quite apart from the highly concentrated nutritional value of nuts, the growing of them in the home garden can be aesthetically satisfying.

Hilda

Filberts are suitable for small gardens. If desired or necessary, the bushy trees may serve the triple purpose of providing shade, beauty for the eyes, and as their growth increases, the edible crop of nuts.

In a double-lot garden, the nut trees might form a miniature copse or grove at one side of the property. When well established and beginning to bear, the trees could be underplanted with some of the dwarf spring blooming bulbs, such as blue muscari, blue puschkinias or scillas.

HUNTING IS FUN

The gathering of nuts is one of those simple pleasures which no child should be denied. Searching in short rough grass among the fallen leaves is high adventure, for the treasure in the perfectly moulded shells is rich indeed.

Some of the nuts may still be in the husks, and these are worth more than a casual glance for their own particular beauty.

In this area it is possible to grow nuts which will keep in perfect condition from harvest in one season until the following harvest. Ordinary room temperatures around 65 to 70 degrees have been found quite satisfactory.

Pollination must be achieved between varieties of filberts. In this, it is well to have the advice of a reliable grower.

Bridge Teams Win Two Titles

Victoria bridge teams won two out of four titles and shared in a third over the weekend at the American contract bridge championships in Vancouver.

Cam Wallace and Eric Goodwin won the open pairs competition and Ron Borg and Velma Acres were victorious in mixed pairs.

Tony Marsh of Victoria, and Leo Steil of Vancouver, teamed to win the men's pairs event.

Other major winners were Joan Johnson and Audrey Jones, both of Vancouver, who captured women's pairs honors.

More than 1,300 persons entered the three-day tournament, which concluded Sunday.

Tree Removal Slated At Pat Bay Airport

Boston Police 'Birchers' Get Limited Duty

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Philadelphia Mayor James Tate says policemen who join the John Birch Society can expect assignment only to "limited duty."

Tate made the statement at a press conference while discussing some John Birch Society groups operating within the Philadelphia police department.

Police Commissioner Howard R. Leary explained that "limited duties" generally refers to clerical posts which are usually filled by policemen injured or incapacitated in the line of duty.

The John Birch Society calls itself an educational group dedicated to oppose communism.

Color, Ceremony, Camaraderie for Mayors

By JOHN MIKA

Hospitality, in both English and French accents, was spoken here Saturday as Victorians welcomed the civic leaders of Quebec province.

A total of 263 mayors and their wives—representing a significant cross-section slice of Canada's French-Canadian population—were wined and dined at full-scale functions and in private homes during the weekend.

Today, the Quebec group plunges into the serious purpose of the visit with business sessions at the Empress Hotel involving seminars on the recent annual meeting of the Quebec Union of Municipalities.

Theme of the meeting — and of the whole visit — is "beginning a campaign of mutual understanding between the two major ethnic groups of our country."

In the centennial square, the newly-operational fountain splashed with water while the Union Jack and Red Ensign fluttered from flagpoles flanked by the provincial flags of British Columbia and Quebec.

Another Quebec flag flew at the masthead of the Pandora Avenue entrance and a fleur-de-lis patterned rug, in the Quebec colors, was spread inside the entrance doors where the French-Canadians were given lapel name tags and the familiar plastic Daffodil-Seagull badges of Victoria's flower festival.

Upstairs, a glittering scene met the visitors in the large, high-ceiling council reception room. More than 100 civic dignitaries, military officers in dress uniforms and leading citizens of the community were ranged between the walnut-panelled walls of the richly-carpeted chamber.

Champagne glasses of an imported rose wine and a specially-rigged simultaneous translation service for the guests who spoke no English helped put the assembly at ease as the two groups mixed freely and then listened to a series of short speeches.

Mayor Rosaire Gendron of Riviere-du-Loup, new president of QUM, presented Mayor Wilson with a personal gift of a handcrafted set of cigarette box, ashtray and lighter. He also gave him a souvenir box of Quebec's famous maple syrup, sugar and butter.

Mayor Gendron presented to the city a hand-worked plaque bearing the armorial crest of the Quebec Union of Municipalities.

Recalling personal family ties with Quebec he told the guests "we sincerely hope you will not feel like strangers in a strange land but that you will enjoy yourselves here."

Union of B.C. Municipalities president Reeve Peter Jenewin of Maple Ridge also extended a welcome "not only here to Victoria but to our province of British Columbia."

Scores of portable ear pieces made it possible for the roughly 40 per cent of the visitors who spoke no English to follow all the speeches as UN-trained simultaneous translator Paul Leduc—flown from Montreal by the QUM group—spoke into the closed-circuit wireless system set up in the chamber.

"Your visit is, indeed, an historic occasion," Mayor Wilson told the assembly. "You have shown great initiative in coming nearly 3,000 miles to see us and you have broken with precedent in having your study meeting for the first time outside the province of Quebec.

"We warmly applaud the vision and the courage that engendered this trip, for memorable it will be not only to you and to us but we believe to all of Canada."

Mayor Wilson said that civic leaders in both provinces have "a unique opportunity" to learn each other's problems—the necessary first step towards their solution.

"While the senior governments must deal with the legislative changes necessitated by the events of our time, we, with our very personal contacts, can perhaps do more than any other level of government in leading the way towards a future of better understanding, friendship and mutual respect that will assure a great future for this country to which we all belong.

"You, the mayors of Quebec, have taken this initiative, which we applaud enthusiastically. It is now up to us to follow your example and visit, see and increase our knowledge all we can about La Belle Province de Quebec."

Responding, Salaberry-de-Valleyfield Mayor Robert Cauchon, leader of the Victoria trip, echoed the sentiments that the visit was an historic event.

Saanich Hunter Killed

The 24-year-old Saanich man, who lived at 1170 Palmer, died from a bullet fired from his friend's rifle.

Police said the two were firing at a tin can in the Martin's Gulch area just south of Shawnigan Lake when the accident occurred.

They had decided to target practice after an unsuccessful day's hunitng.

While walking back to the firing line for another try, Mol's .30-30 rifle accidentally went off.

The bullet entered Peakmen's side and he fell to the ground.

Mol ran back to their car but could not find the keys.

RAN FOR HELP

So he set off at a run to get help.

PEAKMAN
. . . firing at can

About two miles down the road he met prospector Robert Copeman of 556 Ker Avenue, Saanich. The two drove back to the scene of the accident.

Meanwhile, Peakmen had been laying two hours in the spot where he was shot.

He was taken to King's Daughters' Hospital, Duncan, but was dead on arrival.

INQUEST TUESDAY

He was employed as a digger operator by local contractor Donald H. Mann of Cedar Hill Cross Road.

An autopsy was to be held later today.

The inquest will be opened for viewing of the body Tuesday night and then will be adjourned to a future date.

RCMP Grab Man After Pair Slain

RIVERS INLET, B.C. (CP) — A suspect was captured today by police in their hunt for a man who raped an 18-year-old girl as two people lay dying of gunshot wounds a few feet away.

RCMP officers were holding Roy Hanuse, about 21, on a police boat at this steamer landing 250 miles north of Vancouver. He was found in an empty cabin on the Indian reserve where the shooting occurred.

Their search was launched into the bush at dawn this morning after Johnny and Aggie Hanuse, parents of 13 children, were shot and killed.

RCMP said the killer shot the couple in order to assault the girl.

Most of the Hanuse children had previously been taken into the care of the Indian affairs department and are living at schools and homes across the province.

Police said Hanuse was not related to the slain couple.

Missionary's Fate Unknown

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (AP)—Congo rebels announced they would execute American medical missionary Dr. Paul Carlson at noon today in Stanleyville but gave no word on whether they did.

Nairobi reported it monitored a Stanleyville broadcast that Carlson's life would be a matter of negotiation, but later found the negotiation announcement had been made before the announcement of the decision to execute Carlson.

The rebels claimed that Carlson was a major in the U.S. Army and had spied and fought against them. This charge was denied by U.S. officials in Washington who said the U.S. would hold the rebels "directly responsible" for Carlson's fate.

FRENCH CHALLENGED

Loose Talk 'Must Stop'

PARIS (AP)—Manlio Brosio of Italy, secretary-general of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, challenged President de Gaulle today to state his position on the alliance's problems clearly.

Speaking to the 10th annual session of the NATO parliamentary conference, (Brosio referred to France's opposition to the proposed Multilateral Nuclear Force MLF) and to French suggestions that NATO must be reformed.

At the same time the secretary-general said proponents of MLF have to justify the proposal.

"Those who put forward new proposals must explain and justify them," Brosio said. "Those who object must argue their case and put forward their counter proposals."

"I believe there is far too much loose talk about the need for reforming NATO. Suggestions that NATO needs reorganizing which are unaccompanied by any practical proposals as to what needs to be done can only create perplexity and cast doubt on the solidarity of the alliance."

In an apparent reference to the nuclear surface fleet, French Foreign Minister Couve de Murville warned the other Western powers against trying to impose any "ready - made solutions" for the problem of nuclear defence.

NO QUICK SOLUTIONS

Welcoming the NATO parliamentarians, Couve de Murville said no one should be under the illusion that there are any "ready - made solutions that would, to everyone's satisfaction, solve problems that have been discussed for so long."

The four - day conference brought together representatives sent from the parliaments of the 15 NATO countries. The conference will discuss various NATO problems and send recommendations to the NATO council of foreign ministers. The conference is strictly a consultative body whose resolutions have no legal effect.

PILOTLESS SPY PLANE SHOT DOWN

TOKYO (AP)—Radio Peking said today an unmanned American high-altitude reconnaisance aircraft was shot down over south-central China Nov. 15.

The broadcast gave no further details.

Plane Hits Mountain, 28 Killed

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Wreckage of an airliner that hit a mountain peak in a storm Sunday night was found early today. Sheriff's deputies said all 28 persons aboard were dead.

One Canadian was among the victims. He was identified as Mr. H. Will of Calgary.

Helicopters flew to the scene and began flying bodies to a lower level.

Searchers were directed to the area by a motorist who told officers he saw the plane skimming the ground Sunday night in a whirl of snow eight miles south of the city. The witness said the plane had one wheel down, as if it were trying to land.

The Fairchild F-27, Bonanza Airline's Flight 114 from Phoenix, Ariz., was three minutes from a landing at McCarran Field when it vanished from the radar screen at 8:27 p.m.

RAISE CUT FOR PM, CABINET

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Wilson today approved a pay raise to members of parliament but trimmed by half the increase recommended for himself and his ministers.

The salary for a House of Commons member was raised from $5,250 a year to $9,750—a raise of about 86 per cent.

He said the increase suggested for all ministers should be cut by half. This would bring his own salary up to $42,000 a year from $30,000, instead of the recommended $54,000.

Motorists Stranded In U.S. Snow

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — A snowstorm that struck the Rocky Mountains Sunday brought blizzards to northern Arizona and spilled wintry weather across normally mild central and southern desert areas.

Motorists were stranded, hunters marooned and 13 persons reported missing as the late afternoon blizzard struck the Kingman area in Arizona's northwest corner. All the missing later were found safe.

Arizona 93, the main route from Phoenix to Las Vegas, Nev., was closed after at least 100 cars were stranded about 15 miles south of Kingman.

The Arizona highway patrol also shut off U.S. 66 to the east, and the Mohave County sheriff's office dispatched its jeep posses into snow-swept desert mountains south of Kingman in search of the lost, mostly hunters. All were found.

Forest fires continued to ravish woodlands in the desperately dry eastern half of the United States, adding to the already staggering cost of the record-shattering autumn drought.

English Canada Asked for Help

TORONTO (UPI) — Premier Jean Lesage today called for English Canada to assist his province in retaining its identity.

Quebec would otherwise be forced into an isolation it did not wish, he said.

Lesage said a future Canada may have fewer than its present 10 provinces if there should be "a regrouping of some of the existing provinces."

Lesage stressed to his audience that he did not wish to be regarded as carrying any warning or ultimatum to English-speaking Canadians.

LESS CENTRALIZATION

Lesage restated his plea for a more decentralized form of central government. He said the economic and cultural progress of Quebec's 5,500,000 citizens could only be assured by a provincial government.

He stressed that Quebec trailed other provinces in development and said this was added reason for its need to have greater control of its own development.

He said that while the French-Canadian only really felt at home in Quebec, the people of Quebec—excepting "a small minority"—had no intention of leaving Confederation.

Lesage said there were many formulas by which Canada could give French-speaking Canada the place which is its due.

"The Canada of the future may be composed of 10 provinces, as it is today, or the number may be reduced following the regrouping of some of the existing provinces," said Lesage.

EXTREMES REJECTED

Lesage rejected what he termed as two "extreme possibilities."

He said one extreme was that Quebec be swallowed up in a "common melting pot." The other was that it be separated from the rest of Canada.

"The rest of Canada must help Quebec to attain its objectives," said the Quebec premier.

"Otherwise, if we are forced to act alone, we shall be in-

FEATURING ETERNAL FLAME

Terrace to Mark Kennedy Grave

WASHINGTON (AP) — Elaborate plans for a white marble terrace and a low, classically plain monument for John F. Kennedy's grave at Arlington Cemetery were announced today.

The central theme for the grave site will be the eternal flame lighted by the late president's widow the day of his funeral almost one year ago.

The grave will lie in a small grass plot marked by a grey slate tablet in what the designers said was the tradition in early New England.

In the centre, slightly elevated is to be rectangular grass plot where Kennedy now is buried. Its marble "frame" contains a kneeling step for prayer. Within the grass plot will be a slate marker about three feet by 4½ feet in size, bearing the incised inscription:

John Fitzgerald Kennedy
1917—1963

A small cross will be incised above the grave.

The marker for the late president will be flanked by smaller tablets marking the graves of the two Kennedy children who died at or shortly after birth.

The eternal flame will burn to the rear of the tablets emerging from a three-pronged bronze font.

WALL BEARS SEAL

The backdrop for the flame is to be a long, low wall bearing the presidential seal.

The plans for the grave site were announced at a press conference today, six days before the first anniversary of Kennedy's assassination last Nov. 22 in Dallas, Tex. Defence Secretary McNamara and architect John Carl Warnecke were in charge of releasing the details.

Senator-elect Robert F. Kennedy, the late president's brother, was to be on hand to represent the family, which approved the plans in advance.

Models of the gravesite will be put on public display at the National Gallery for one month, beginning Tuesday.

The grave is down a gentle slope from the Curtis-Lee Mansion where Kennedy, on a bright March day some nine months before death, stood looking out over the city—the Potomac River, the Lincoln Memorial, the white shaft of the Washington Monument and the Capitol dome in the distance—and remarked "I could stay here forever."

It's seemed almost Canadian aroun' here th' last day er two.

Peso Launches Major Program

By GORDON BELL
Times Business Editor

Distribution of 239,785 shares of Peso Silver Mines owned by Charter Oil Company to Charter shareholders will be affected by a dividend payment of one share of Peso for each 10 shares of Charter, according to an announcement by Charter president, Paul O. Berliz.

Bell

With Peso trading at around $2, the dividend is about equivalent to 20 cents a share for Charter shareholders. After the distribution, Charter's interest in Peso will be equal to three-quarters of a share of Peso for each share of Charter outstanding. The dividend is payable Dec. 17 to shareholders of record Dec. 4.

Peso, the largest single mining development company in the Yukon, is launching a full-scale underground program on its Mount Nansen mines subsidiary in the Carmack district.

Mr. Berliz, who is also chairman of Peso, said the company was aiming for production as soon as possible and felt that the two major veins on the Mount Nansen property would become important gold and silver producers.

2 SITES SELECTED

Two portal sites have been selected and machinery is being moved on to the property, 130 miles south of the Mayo district. Total vein now exposed by exploration is more than 10,000 feet and still open. Assay maps covering several thousand feet of vein structure, of which 20 to 30 per cent is indicated as ore bearing, are now being prepared.

The Brown-McDade property adjoining Mount Nansen, also a Peso subsidiary, will also undergo extensive exploration. Peso now controls more than 30,000 acres of prospect ground in the Mount Nansen area.

Also in the Yukon, Silver Titan Mines reports its exporation programs are continuing favorably on both the Shanghai and Mount Haldane projects and both are to be continued through the winter.

Overburden drill holes have also been laid out on the Galena Hill property and drilling is planned as soon as a drill is available.

170-FOOT SECTION

The Shanghai property, which is being financed by Peso Silver Mines, jointly with Silver Titan, has drifting advanced about 800 feet along the No. 1 vein. Where first intersected during the summer, the zone showed a 170-foot long section heavily mineralized with zinc averaging 13.6 per cent. A high grade intersection in a drill hole assayed 90.4 ounces silver, 46 per cent lead and 5.7 per cent zinc across 2.5 to 3.5 feet. The intersection has been followed along strike and indicates a separate hanging wall vein zone.

Peace River Petroleums reports that after weeks of being held up by unseasonable weather, a drilling rig and crew are ready to spud in the second well in the Monkman Pass area about 50 miles south of Dawson Creek.

The well will be drilled two miles northwest of the company's sweet gas discovery near Stony Lake and will be under the personal supervision of E. V. Gray of Gray Oil, Baytown, Texas, who brought in the 8 million cubic feet daily discovery.

Peace River states that estimated reserves from the first well are more than 70 billion cubic feet per square mile.

Gray Oil is operator for the group which includes, as well as Peace River Pete, Central Del Rio, Richfield, Northwest Pacific Developments, Grizzly Valley Gas and Oil and the French Petroleum Company. The group holds close to 100,000 acres in the area and plans an extensive drilling program.

INCREASE SHARES

The company was incorporated as a private firm last April for the purpose of providing equity financing for a wide variety of western Canadian enterprises. Last month, directors voted to turn it into a public company and increased the authorized capital from 300,000 to 500,000 shares.

According to a company report, the first six months of operation has resulted in a net profit after taxes of $20,000.

The new plant will produce plywoods used for sub-flooring, sheathing, granaries and other farm buildings, H. L. Benson, FCL's manufacturing division manager, said Thursday.

Delegates from the 500 prairie retail consumer co-operatives who comprise the FCL have advocated the erection of such a plant for several years as Federated was selling plywood manufactured by other firms, Mr. Benson said.

'Pension Plan Impact Far From Equitable'

The Canada Pension Plan now before Parliament was described as the most important legislation for "a long, long time."

"Its impact will be fantastically great, for good or ill," said David Kilgour of Winnipeg, president of the Great-West Life Assurance Company.

He hoped Canadians would avoid an over-simplified view that those who supported the plan were good guys and those who opposed it were bad ones.

The pension plan would impose "a new strained system" of taxes and benefits and its impact will be "far from equitable."

NEW TAXES

At the beginning of January, 1966, $600 million of new payroll taxes must be paid on all income over $600 a year, he said.

This amount was equivalent to a 33⅓ per cent increase in all personal taxes. Two million people who don't pay income tax would have to contribute to the pension plan.

"We can reflect what that would do to the cost of living," he told a meeting of the Victoria Life Underwriters Association at Victoria Golf Club.

Mr. Kilgour said anyone who doesn't contribute doesn't get a benefit and the highest benefits go to those with incomes over $5,000 a year.

He gave an example of a man earning $5,000 and retiring at 65 on a pension of $3,500 a year. He would get $200 a month under the Canada Pension Plan, meaning his combined pension would be $900 greater than his earnings before retirement.

'STRONG BAIT'

This man would be "supported by a tax on people earning $1,000 a year," he said, although the measure was "strong bait to offer Canadians."

He gave another example of a man retiring now at 70 and getting the $70 a month old-age security payment. His 60-year-old brother would retire at $179 a month when he reached the same age.

"This inequity won't work and shouldn't work," said Mr. Kilgour.

If the aim of the plan was to redistribute wealth to the needy, a different premise and a different plan were needed.

He hoped Canadians would follow Parliamentary progress of the pension plan carefully and insist on the best plan for everyone.

AUTO INDUSTRY LAYOFFS triggered a 40,000 increase in unemployment to 258,000 between mid-September and mid-October. The Dominion Bureau of Statistics at Ottawa and the federal department of labor estimated the jobless total at 3.7 per cent of the labor force. The force is up .6 per cent from September and down from October, 1963, 3.9 per cent. Graph shows monthly totals, including persons without jobs and looking for work and those on temporary layoffs. MAJOR CITY STORES

Christmas Sales Boom Forecast

Two of them placed retail sales generally in Greater Victoria at 10 per cent more than a year ago.

They were commenting on an American Newspaper Publishers' Association poll which showed 89 per cent of storeowners in the U.S. and Canada expect sales gains.

Storeowners in both countries gave rising prosperity and the U.S. tax cut as reasons for the boom.

In Victoria, Woodward's manager Courtney Haddock saw "a minimum 10 per cent" increase in sales among all stores.

"There is buoyancy all over," he said. "The area is growing, there are more people and everyone's earning."

The boom was "quite thrilling," he said.

Hudson's Bay manager Howard McKay also looked for a 10-per-cent increase in sales generally.

"There's no doubt about that," he said. "The economy is good."

Woolco general manager J. R. Stookes saw declining unemployment contributing to the general prosperity.

"The outlook is very good," he said.

Eaton's manager Allan Leith said the retail trade generally can look forward to an increase.

Maritimes Fish Study Ottawa Plan

OTTAWA (CP) — The cured fish industry in the Atlantic provinces, hard hit by advances in freezing techniques, will be given a thorough going-over by a government commission.

Prime Minister Pearson announced he has appointed an expert in the field to study markets for Canadian salted and cured fish and seek improvements in the industry's efficiency.

Mr. Pearson said Dr. D. B. Finn, former deputy fisheries minister with the federal government and for the last 18 years head of the fisheries division of the United Nations Food and Agriculture Organization, will head the commission.

Salting fish as a preservative measure is one of Canada's oldest industries. Quebec and the Atlantic provinces produce salt fish for export to the Caribbean, Spain, Portugal and Italy and other countries where extensive refrigeration facilities are not available.

Expanded use of freezing techniques and other modern methods of preservation have brought continued decreases in the size of the market for salted fish.

MARKET SUMMARIES

48 PER CENT REVENUE HIKE

VANCOUVER (CP)—Pacific Western Airlines Ltd. increased total revenues by 48 per cent during the first nine months of 1964, compared with the same period in 1963, it was announced Friday.

R. H. Laidman, PWA president and general manager, said that $1,300,000 of the $2,300,000 revenue increase was produced from international flights, inaugurated this year by Pacific Western.

PWA carried 165,375 passengers on domestic flights, 7,686 on trans-Atlantic flights and 1,632 on Caribbean routes. Cargo totalled more than 13,000,000 pounds.

New Imperial Up 12 Cents

AT TORONTO two banks highlighted trading in the senior industrial list. Bank of Nova Scotia was ahead 1½ to 79½, while Toronto-Dominion gained to 70, each at its high. Massey-Ferguson was up to 31⅜ after trading a high of 31.

Aluminium, Consolidated Paper and MacMillan Bloedel each gained ⅜ to 33, 34 and 35⅜ respectively, as Price Brothers and Distillers Seagram each added ½ to 48⅜ and 67½.

TODAY'S GRAIN PRICES

WINNIPEG

WINNIPEG (CP) — Most prices were irregular near the close of dull trade today on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange.

Some selling was started by a report that the United States agricultural department was considering a subsidy on surplus flax for export. This touched off more liberal offerings, but the market rallied from extreme lows at times.

There was some inquiry for Canadian flax from France.

Oats and barley trade disclosed modest overseas shipping support, especially in barley.

Rye was erratic in light trade. Early recessions were erased.

CHICAGO

CHICAGO (AP)—Wheat weakened on the grain futures market on the Board of Trade but the rest of the cereals and soybeans were steady to firm late today.

Wheat declined as a result of weekend rains that soaked much of the drought-stricken areas of the U.S. midwest and southwest.

Corn was made on buying by exporters and commercial houses. Much of the early trade in corn was regarded as spreading operations.

QUEBEC MAYORS GIVE THEIR VIEWS

Councillor Shows Pride

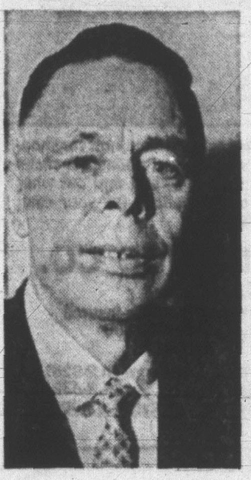
"There are three of us here from Dolbeau, a town of about 6,700 people, some 400 miles north of Montreal, and we plan to distribute some literature Monday so everyone will know about Dobleau.

"This is my first time to to British Columbia although I have made several visits to the United States. I'm really enjoying this trip—it's one of the best.

"I came on this trip because I wanted to see more than just my own province. We all want to learn how people live in the other provinces and how others think of us.

"I hope we meet again—next time in Dolbeau."



Levesque Not That Levesque

Mayor Edmond Levesque of Nazareth-Rimouski grinned as he said through an interpreter that he was not "Rene"—the controversial Quebec Liberal minister.

Mr. Levesque, who has been a mayor for eight years, said it is only the youths of his 35,000-population suburb of Rimouski that are ardent separatists "and that is because they have no jobs."

Separatism should not be taken seriously but it should be understood that Quebec is engaged in a drive to better conditions for its people and improve its position.

"In our area—we are a logging and farming area with no industry—things are in a bad way with lots of unemployment. The way it is now, we receive little government help from Ottawa. Most of that goes to Montreal."

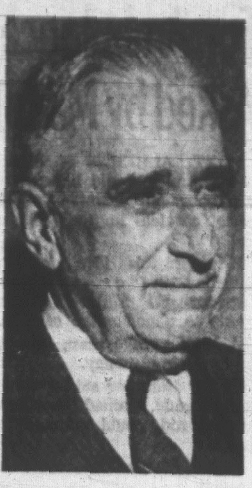
He said the Quebec provincial government is drafting a comprehensive plan intended to help the Rimouski area.

Quebec Flag Appreciated

Phillipe St. Pierre, the mayor of Ste. Genevieve, a Montreal suburb, said he knew that some Victorians probably expected people to arrive from Quebec wearing horns and a long tail.

But now that we could see each other and talk to each other we can see few differences in each other. There should be more of these exchanges of people between the two provinces, he said.

He said the delegation was particularly impressed with Victoria's thoughtfulness in flying the Quebec provincial flag, providing a fleur de lys designed carpet at City Hall and finding waiters for the receptions who were bi-lingual.



News Agencies Hit for Rift

Mayor Olier Payette of Ste. Rose said:

"We came here to bring the greetings of the Union of Quebec Municipalities and the people of Quebec. We are glad to have come to know the people of B.C. better.

"Now you should come to see us so that you will know us better. If you would do so, there would be fewer prejudices against us."

He blamed the news agencies of Canada for creating a needless rift. He thought nothing less than an exchange of visits could correct the damage.

"We will reciprocate what you are doing here. You will say 'after all, they are not so bad.'"

He said none of his group was offended because most British Columbians are unable to speak French.

"It is not their fault. They do not meet French-Canadian groups. How can they practice? We have the advantage of meeting English-speaking groups daily."

He said the English-speaking people he has met are animated by the best of faith. It is just a question of the two groups getting to know each other better, he said.

Repeat to Draw Twice as Many

Ald. Aurelien Seguin, deputy mayor of Ile Perrot, an island municipality of 6,000 population located 20 miles from Montreal, attended with his mayor, Florian Bleau.

"We are creating a relationship here such as we would like to have with all of Canada," said Ald. Seguin.

He was pleased that so many people here could converse with him in French and he praised Mayor R. B. Wilson for speaking in French so adequately.

He said after the fine welcome afforded the Quebec visitors on this occasion, he was certain that if there was a repeat journey to Victoria next year, twice as many people would want to be along.

He said it would be a fine thing for Canada if there could be an annual exchange of students between Quebec and British Columbia.

Not only would they learn more about each other and have a greater appreciation of each other's cultures, but they would have an unparalleled opportunity to practise speaking in each other's languages.

FLQ Sparks Awareness

Now 36, he was the youngest mayor in Canada when he first was elected eight years ago.

Speaking through an interpreter, he said no one in Quebec approves of the FLQ bombings "but all the same that is where the awareness of our problems started.

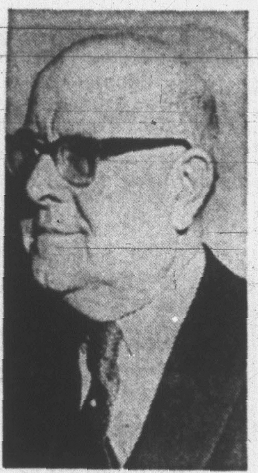
"There is a peaceful revolution in our province—so far.

"All we want is what is justly coming to us—not more than our fair share but not less either.

"Quebec always has observed the terms of Confederation faithfully but not so the other provinces. We have given full liberty and equality to all the minority groups in our province but French-Canadian minorities in other provinces have not been given equal treatment.

President of the St. Jean Baptiste Society in his hometown — the leading organization of French culture in the province—Mayor Lasalle said many responsible people are working hard for peaceful settlement of the problems.

"For the present, extremists are a minority and to be condemned. But do not think that the number of people who are unhappy with things as they are is negligible."



Visits Help Ease Tension

"Just do as we did today. Come to Quebec. You'll be welcome.

"I don't believe we have anything to fear for the future of Confederation.

"Those who were leading the Separatist demonstrations were in the 18-21 age group. We were young once, too. But as we grew older, our minds changed.

"You should not be afraid of the Separatist movement. It's not serious. It's just a matter of youngsters getting enthusiastic.

"We have had the same thing many times in years gone by—but there was no radio and no television then." So the furor went unnoticed by other parts of Canada, he said.

Victoria Wins Rating of A-1

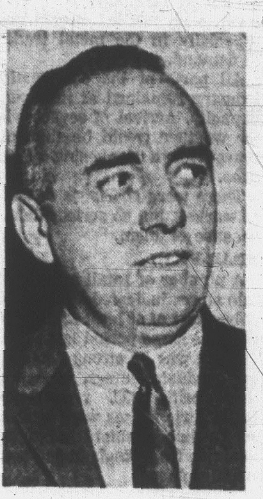
He said there was considerable unemployment in Quebec but not, fortunately, in his paper mill town near Montreal with its 2,000 inhabitants.

He was surprised to find the temperature here just about the same level as in Crabtree Mills although, he added, it is pretty mild for this time of year at home and an earlier snowfall had melted away.



City Traffic Wins Praise

Mayor Valmond Blanchette of Sept. Isles, Quebec, and his wife Blanche said, "If this sort of exchange had started 10 years ago, there would be less talk of separatism in Canada today."

They said the solution to all Canada's differences lies in simply getting to know one another, and getting to know all parts of the country.

Mayor and Mrs. Blanchette arrived in Victoria two weeks ago to attend another convention and stayed over for this event. As a result they have come to know Victoria better than many of their colleagues. They had high praise for Victoria traffic direction, estimating it to be the best in Canada.

"It is so easy to cross the streets," they marvelled.

Mayor Blanchette praised Quebec Premier Jean Lesage as the man best fitted to be the next prime minister of Canada ". . . although we don't want to lose him, of course."

He was disappointed that Real Caouette, leader of the Creditistes, should be so well known here as a Quebecer. In Quebec, he rates zero, he said.

Montreal Sends One for Visit

Coun. Fernand Alie is the only official representative of the City of Montreal, his mayor and the president of the executive committee both are in Paris, France.

The presence of the mayor of Montreal was not mandatory, he thought, because the problems of that city are far different from those of any other Quebec centre, because of its tremendous size. However, the city is a member of the Quebec municipal union association.

Coun. Alie thought the mayor might be in Paris in connection with the 1967 Montreal World's Fair arrangements. But the reason was really still secret.

"We are sure something big is coming out of it," he added.

Coun. Alie was impressed that two Victoria Times reporters, Humphry Davy and Jacques Rouseaux, were at hand with fluent translation abilities.

"I meet French-speaking people all over the world," he said, and he was overwhelmed by the experience.

He said B.C. residents should not worry about the spectre of separatism. Probably not more than 5 or 10 per cent of the population of Quebec is involved in the movement or sympathetic to it, he said.

Coun. Alie said, however, there was a little bit of resentment in every person when his rights as a full-fledged citizen are not respected.

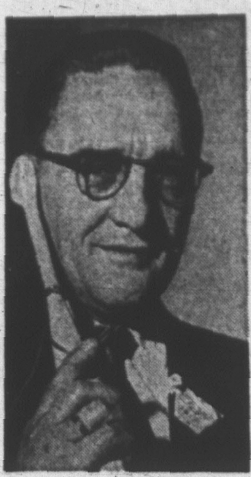
As Exciting As Belgium

Mayor Marcel Marier of Drummondville, a past president of the Quebec Union of Municipalities and veteran of numerous civic gatherings, praised the Victoria visit and compared it favorably with an international conference he attended last year in Belgium.

Turning to the subject of separatism, he said the extremists and non-French-Canadians, such as Algerian and Puerto Rican imimgrants, who have received a lot of press publicity which, of course, they take advantage of."

He said most serious Quebecers are not extremists "but we feel that Ottawa has too much power—we want to run our own province and if we can't then I'm afraid something bad might happen."

"There also are problems of language. For instance, in Montreal or Ottawa many people refuse to speak French and that hurts and irritates us. There are many such irritations and they gradually build up into a big complaint."



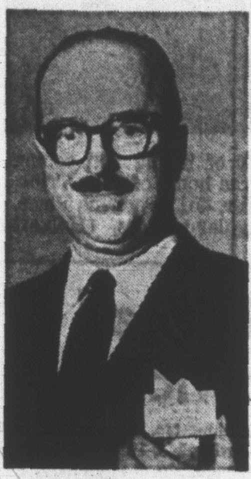
Separatism Not For Discussion

Mayor Aime Racine, mayor of Petite Riviere St. Francois, also prefect of Charlevoic - Ouest County, spoke only French but through an interpreter and plenty of gestures indicated he was both surprised and gratified to find so much hospitality for the visitors.

Accompanied by five others from his county, he said all were enthused by the reception on their first trip to the west coast.

One of the few who would not discuss separatism — "that is a matter of personal feeling and opinion" — he said he was very interested in discovering how other Canadians live.

"I am anxious to see if I can pick up some good ideas to take back with me to my hometown," he said.



'Only Students Seeking Split'

Mayor P. A. Poirier of Victoriaville ("it's between Montreal and Quebec City on the south shore of the St. Lawrence and had a population of 20,228 as of last December") said it was his first trip to Victoria.

"Separatism? I don't believe in separatism because I see no reason for it. First, all the civilized countries of the world are trying to get together to be strong so why should we try to separate?

"Second, it's only the students who believe in that—we all pass through that nationalistic stage when we are young.

"But there is a valid point to the protest and I would hope that English-speaking Canadians become aware of it.

"We don't have equality. In business, for instance, we can never get access to certain positions not because we are not qualified but because we are French-Canadian.

"In the same country, all the citizens should be equal," he said.

'Our Reception Very Cordial'

"This is the first time I've come west and I'm enjoying it very much," said jovial Mayor J. R. Desrosiers of Cap-de-la-Madeleine, a town of 30,000.

"Our reception has been very cordial and I'm glad I came.

"I think we all came because we realized this was a great opportunity to improve our relations with the people of the west coast. We are very anxious to let the Canadian nation know we are not all separatists."

Mayor Desrosiers said more person-to-person contacts are needed to balance the "good press the small minority of separatists get."

WRITER GREETS MAYORS

French in Victoria?—Mais Ouis!

By HUMPHRY DAVY

Something which surprised visiting Quebec mayors who couldn't speak English was to find an English-speaking newspaperman who could speak French.

It was the last thing they expected in Victoria . . . la ville Anglaise.

There was nothing extraordinary about that for me, of course, because my father was English and mother was French. It would have been shameful if I couldn't.

Mais comment, votre nons est Davy. Vour parley Francais," they asked.

Then I had to explain how I gained my knowledge of French. I spoke to my mother in French and she spoke to me in English. There were exceptions. They occurred when she got cross at me. Then French flowed easier.

They were appreciative that I spoke French, especially the shy ones. There are not too many of these because the average French-speaking Canadian is a pretty confident fellow.

Most of the questions they asked were about British Columbia, its history and climate. Then of course they would talk to me about Quebec and the changes taking place there.

TRANSLATION

There were times when I got stuck for a French word, especially when I tried to be too French. For example I wanted the translation for golf course. It would have been wiser to use the English name as my guest used it too.

The French translation for seaweed really stuck me. It was only after extensive mind searching that it came to me—goemon. But I was exhausted.

French comes easier, I find, if you have a good knowledge of the basic roots of the English language. There are hundreds of words which are of French origin—all those which end with the affix -tion.

But the basic thing is not to be afraid to speak French.

U.S. Dues Boycott Hits UN Finance

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — Ten or more nations were expected to boost annual pledges to the United Nations special fund and technical assistance programs today. But they cannot fill the gap left by U.S. refusal to pledge anything until its dispute with Russia over peacekeeping finances is settled.

The United States usually pays 40 per cent of the costs of the development programs.

France, which also owes peacekeeping dues, planned to announce an increase of $505,000 over the $1,122,066 it pledged last year for the special fund, and a repetition of its $1,852,555 pledge for the technical assistance program.

Venezuela was expected to raise its pledge to the special fund to $520,000 from $260,000, Brazil to $400,000 from about $100,000, Indonesia to $225,000 from $60,000, Spain to $250,000 from $50,000, Greece to $235,000 from $50,000, and Colombia to $125,000 from $40,000. Denmark, Norway and Switzerland among others were looked to for increased pledges.

But the U.S. decision to hold back its expected contribution of some $60,000,000 would make it impossible for the two enterprises to meet their $150,000,000 target for 1965.

Three Plead Guilty To Impaired Charge

Three impaired drivers appeared before Magistrate J. A. Byers Saturday but only one was sentenced.

All three pleaded guilty.

Wayne S. Harris, HMCS Fraser, was arrested after he collided with a parked car on Lockley Road shortly after midnight Friday. He travelled 179 feet after the impact tand then hit another parked car that he knocked over the sidewalk and through a fence.

According to police, Harris became violent after being arrested. He said he had been drinking vodka and didn't even remember the accidents.

Harris was fined $250 and prohibited from driving for six months.

Emil Panzenboeck, 1807 Oak Bay Avenue, was arrested after a collision at Oak Bay Ave. and Richmond early Saturday. Evidence was that he reversed into another car and then tried to drive ahead but couldn't because the cars were locked together.

He left the scene and went into his own house but returned when police arrived. A breath test showed his blood alcohol count to be .20 per cent.

Harold Mobley of Ladysmith was charged after he was checked at a road block on the Trans-Canada Highway Nov. 7. His blood alcohol count was .16 per cent.

Both Mobley and Penzenboeck were remanded for sentence after asking to be allowed to retain their licences for business purposes.

VANCOUVER mayor Bill Rathie and three other municipal leaders have asked the provinial government to seek federal aid toward a $100,000,000 east-west freeway through Vancouver. This would be part of a $300,000,000 series of freeways and bridges to relieve traffic congestion.

Youth Fined $30

A youthful driver was fined $30 in Oak Bay court Friday when he pleaded guilty to careless driving. David Hyslop, 2855 Lansdowne Road, was charged after he collided with a parked car on Cadboro Bay Road, Nov. 4.

Sleeper Wins Citizenship

SEATTLE (AP) — The heart of the court softened Friday and Albert Smith, Englishman, will become Albert Smith, citizen of the United States.

U.S. District Judge W. T. Beeks, who denied Smith's application Monday because he thought the Boeing Company aerospace engineer was asleep during the naturalization ceremony, granted it Friday.

Smith, 30, wrote Beeks an apology "for giving the appearance of disrespect." But he denied being asleep.

DEMONSTRATING ALL THE POISE that helped her win Miss Canada title, Linda Douma rode triumphant through throng of friends who came to reclaim their queen for Sidney village. The former Miss Sidney and Miss PNE returned from Toronto by air Sunday and was whisked off to reception at Sanscha Hall in Sidney.

—Times Photos by Bill Halkett

'BEST PART IS COMING HOME TO YOU'

By PETE LOUDON

The girl who put Sidney on the map came home Sunday—and Sidney went wild.

Linda Douma, 20, Miss Canada 1965, lived a day she will never forget, and neither will her home town.

She wasn't quite down the stairs from her plane before her mother folded her in her arms. A band played and civic officials smiled up at her and a crowd of 300 applauded and cried hurray for Linda.

Naturally, she cried a bit. Then there were cameras, flashing from all angles, picturing her with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Douma, baby sister Laurel 5, and young brother Reg., 18, and grandmother, Mrs. D. R. Cole.

There was a microphone and there was Sidney Village Chairman A. A. Cormack, there was a bouquet of roses and there was Lieut.-Gov. G. R. Pearkes and Saanich MLA John Tisdalle and there were Mounties in red felts in her honor.

CAR CAVALCADE

Miss Canada, in a green knitted suit with a grey fur neckpiece, hatless and breathless, collected her poise. There was a car cavalcade into Sidney and a parade through town.

The Chinatown Lions Drum and Bell Corps and Majorettes, and a police car with a flashing red light, and decorated cars filled with purring Lions members and cars filled with well-wishers, convoyed her to Sanscha Hall. And everybody else in town was there.

The North Saanich High School band was playing. There were flowers everywhere. There was a special white throne and a long table filled with food and a hall filled with proud smiles.

ALL KNEW LINDA

There were speeches and gifts and hundreds of hands to shake and everyone told everyone else how well they knew Linda.

She came here, they said, when she was two. Her parents, from the prairies, have a service station. Linda was born in the old RCAF hospital near Long Beach and Tofino, while her dad was in the service. She was schooled here. She went from here to University of Victoria and was a third year arts student who wanted to teach.

Then, last summer, suddenly she was Miss PNE at Vancouver. Then the newly-formed Sidney Lions picked Linda as their first project and the 22 members raised $1,500 to send her to Toronto to see if she could snatch the brass ring and she did.

'OVERWHELMED'

"I'm completely overwhelmed," she said. "It is the most wonderful thing that ever happened to me." She said the last week in Toronto has been a dream.

"But the most wonderful part," she told her friends, "is coming home to you."

She promised that when she is on tour — Cypress in December, Hawaii in January, later at Japan and Hong Kong—she will be representing Canada, but she'll also be a personal delegate from Sidney.

Village commission chairman Cormack said he had predicted she would be Miss Canada, now he would predict she would become Miss Universe.

But Linda and her mother say no—no more contests. The honor of being Miss Canada means giving a year to the position—and it will be a wonderful year, a dream year.

But when it's over—back to university and the teaching career — and none of her friends doubt that's the way it will happen.

Tracking Dog Nabs Escapee After Smashup

3 Others Arrested In Malahat Incident

A 15-year-old youth who escaped from Brannen Lake School was caught by a police dog after he ran away from the wreck of a stolen car on the Malahat early Sunday.

The youth, together with three others from the detention home, stole a new car and raced down-Island.

They were spotted by a patrol car from the Duncan RCMP detachment which gave chase. Near the Malahat Chalet the getaway car hit a pole and ended up in the ditch.

THREE ARRESTED

Three of the youths were arrested on the spot but the driver ran into heavy bush.

The Saanich police dog, Rex, and his handler, Constable James White, were on the scene shortly afterwards. They had been waiting at Goldstream at a road block set up by Colwood RCMP to intercept the car.

Rex flushed the runaway out of heavy bush where he had hidden about one-half mile away from the highway. The youth passed out when arrested and had to be carried out to the road by Saanich Constable Joseph Ferguson. He was not seriously hurt.

Man Slugged By Prowlers

A 50-year-old man was attacked by two prowlers when he entered his apartment shortly before midnight Saturday.

Square Windup Starts Tuesday

All Work Finished By Summer

Farmer Construction Company will begin the $1,000,000 wind-up of the civic precinct project Tuesday morning.

The company plans to move equipment and plant to the site in the morning where it will build the last three portions of the program along the north side of Centennial Victoria Square.

The projects—on all of which Farmer Construction was low bidder—are: senior citizens activity centre, $239,810; police station renovation and construction of a magistrates' courthouse, $347,060; and parking garage and shopping arcade, $417,575.

DONE BY SUMMER

"They should all be finished next summer when all work on the square will be completed," said city special projects planner Rod Clack.

Mayor R. B. Wilson cleared the path for an early start on the work when he politely turned back a move by Centennial Victoria Square committee chairman Ald. A. W. Toone to obtain veto power over design changes in the police station project which could have caused delay.

Ald. Toone, at Thursday's council meeting when the mayor was absent, persuaded council to turn juridiction over the building from city police commission to his committee.

At a special meeting this morning, he proposed a floor-by-floor survey of the plans which prompted Mayor Wilson to observe that the plans always have been available for council examination and suggestions.

"But I also informed them that if council wanted to design the building it should have done so in the first place. The police commission was given that responsibility and if council wished to intervene now it was bound to cast a reflection on its confidence in the commission," he explained later.

The meeting formally approved the $347,060 contract recommended by police commission after the mayor's remarks.

Man Faces Charge In Sailor Beating

A sailor was badly beaten in a street brawl in Esquimalt early Saturday morning.

The attack was not reported by Esquimalt police until today.

Police said a sailor has been charged in connection with the incident. The suspect was to appear in court this afternoon.

Police this morning were interviewing two other sailors in connection with the assault.

It occurred about 4 a.m. in the 800-block Wollaston. Thomas was lying bleeding on the ground when police arrived.

He had severe head injuries and was rushed to hospital immediately. Police would not say what caused the fracas.

TUESDAY MEETINGS

Vandals Hit City Cars, Street Signs

Car wipers were twisted off, windows were smashed and street signs damaged in apparently unrelated incidents reported to police in all municipalities.

But the biggest vandalism occurred in Saanich around the Albina-Hampton district. Four youths, three aged 15 and one 16, have been arrested for causing the damage.

At Hampton and Albina they smashed two street signs and smashed the door of another car parked at Hampton Park. The trellis over a gate at 215 Hampton was damaged and a car aerial and outside windows smashed on a car at 3368 Wascana.

Impaired Driving Costs Woman Fine, Suspension

Mrs. Kathleen Tribe, 4511 Pachena Place, pleaded guilty this morning to impaired driving on Gorge Road early Sunday morning.

She was fined $250 and prohibited from driving for three months.

Crown prosecutor Peter Birkett said she drove through a red light at Gorge and Government. She stopped half-way through, then reversed and almost hit a police car that had pulled in behind her vehicle after it was spotted weaving along Government Street.

Mrs. Tribe's lawyer, Louis Lindholm, said she got in trouble because "she responded to the plea by our mayor to show warm hospitality" to the Quebec municipal representatives who visited the city at the weekend.

He said the charge arose after a "convivial evening" at a reception in the Empress Hotel for the "eastern dignitaries."

New Exhibits At Gallery

Twenty-four works of art, added to the Victoria Art Gallery's permanent collection in the last six months, will be placed on exhibition this week.

Hunter Trials Set for Sunday

It is Garden City Horsemen's Club hunter trials and play-day, for which there is unlimited entry.

Another 2,500 At Goldstream To Watch Fish

Sunny days and salmon returning to spawn and die have attracted the largest crowds ever this year to the Goldstream Park area.

Another 2,500 persons turned up Sunday at the park making the total number of spectators this fall pass the 10,000 mark.

But soon the crowds will disappear just as the salmon are ending another life cycle. The main run of the salmon is finished. They have returned home, laid their eggs, and now their dead carcasses drift back out to sea.

It is expected there will still be a few stragglers fighting their way upstream next Sunday when the Solarium Junior League will be back in the park with the mobile refreshment booth.

TOPICS of the DAY

An undetermined amount of watches and rings were stolen over the weekend from Broad-Johnson Trading Centre, 617 Johnson.

The theft was reported to police Sunday night. Police said the thief apparently entered the premises using a key to the door.

Exact amount of the loss is still being totalled.

Ask The Times

Q. What is the origin of the expression "Indian summer?"—J. R. W.

A. Origin is uncertain. One story says the American settlers named this period of good fall weather after the American Indians who told them it would come.

Another story says the settlers used this name because the good weather gave the warlike Indians chances for more attacks.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve conundrums or legal problems. Nor will it attempt to put a value on old coins, stamps or antiques. These should be submitted to a dealer.

Hassle Forces Ferry To Turn Back to Dock

A government ferry was turned back to its dock at Swartz Bay Sunday night because two passengers "squared off" over a driving incident.

The mainland-bound Queen of Victoria's crossing was delayed about 20 minutes while the would-be combatants were calmed down.

No blows were exchanged.

They were advised to lay charges against each other privately if they wished and were allowed to continue their ferry ride.

Ferry officials said today the incident occurred on the 9 p.m. run, the last from Swartz Bay for the day.

It apparently started when two carloads of young men rolled onto the ferry.

The youths started to squabble, allegedly when one driver accused the other of cutting him off as they approached the ferry slip.

RCMP said they are laying no criminal charges in connection with the incident.

Ferry officials said a full report on the matter is expected by Tuesday.

HOME GARDEN

By HILDA BEASTALL

Quite apart from the highly concentrated nutritional value of nuts, the growing of them in the home garden can be aesthetically satisfying.

Hilda

'Filberts are suitable for small gardens. If desired or necessary, the bushy trees may serve the triple purpose of providing shade, beauty for the eyes, and as their growth increases, the edible crop of nuts.

In a double-lot garden, the nut trees might form a miniature copse or grove at one side of the property. When well established and beginning to bear, the trees could be underplanted with some of the dwarf spring blooming bulbs, such as blue muscari, blue puschkinias or scillas.

HUNTING IS FUN

The gathering of nuts is one of those simple pleasures which no child should be denied. Searching in short rough grass among the fallen leaves is high adventure, for the treasure in the perfectly moulded shells is rich indeed.

Some of the nuts may still be in the husks, and these are worth more than a casual glance for their own particular beauty.

In this area it is possible to grow nuts which will keep in perfect condition from harvest in one season until the following harvest. Ordinary room temperatures around 65 to 70 degrees have been found quite satisfactory.

Pollination must be achieved between varieties of filberts. In this, it is well to have the advice of a reliable grower.

Bridge Teams Win Two Titles

Victoria bridge teams won two out of four titles and shared in a third over the weekend at the American contract bridge championships in Vancouver.

Cam Wallace and Eric Goodwin won the open pairs competition and Ron Borg and Velma Acres were victorious in mixed pairs.

Tony Marsh of Victoria, and Leo Steil of Vancouver, teamed to win the men's pairs event.

Other major winners were Joan Johnson and Audrey Jones, both of Vancouver, who captured women's pairs honors.

More than 1,300 persons entered the three-day tournament, which concluded Sunday.

Tree Removal Slated At Pat Bay Airport

The federal transport department has called for tenders for the topping and removal of trees and the relocation of power lines at Patricia Bay Airport.

The work will bring the airport up to standards laid down by the International Civil Aeronautical Organization.

WINNIPEG (CP) — Beginning today, a special five-cent bus ride will be provided on parts of Portage Avenue and Main Street in downtown Winnipeg.

Boston Police 'Birchers' Get Limited Duty

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Philadelphia Mayor James Tate says policemen who join the John Birch Society can expect assignment only to "limited duty."

Tate made the statement at a press conference while discussing some John Birch Society groups operating within the Philadelphia police department.

Police Commissioner Howard R. Leary explained that "limited duties" generally refers to clerical posts which are usually filled by policemen injured or incapacitated in the line of duty.

The John Birch Society calls itself an educational group dedicated to oppose communism.

Ceremony, Camaraderie For Mayors

By JOHN MIKA

Hospitality, in both English and French accents, was spoken here Saturday as Victorians welcomed the civic leaders of Quebec province.

A total of 263 mayors and their wives—representing a significant cross-section slice of Canada's French-Canadian population—were wined and dined at full-scale functions and in private homes during the weekend.

Today, the Quebec group plunges into the serious purpose of the visit with business sessions at the Empress Hotel involving seminars on the recent annual meeting of the Quebec Union of Municipalities.

Theme of the meeting — and of the whole visit — is "beginning a campaign of mutual understanding between the two major ethnic groups of our country."

In the centennial square, the newly-operational fountain splashed with water while the Union Jack and Red Ensign fluttered from flagpoles flanked by the provincial flags of British Columbia and Quebec.

Another Quebec flag flew at the masthead of the Pandora Avenue entrance and a fleur-de-lis patterned rug, in the Quebec colors, was spread inside the entrance doors where the French-Canadians were given lapel name tags and the familiar plastic Daffodil-Seagull badges of Victoria's flower festival.

Upstairs, a glittering scene met the visitors in the large, high-ceiling council reception room. More than 100 civic dignitaries, military officers in dress uniforms and leading citizens of the community were ranged between the walnut-panelled walls of the richly-carpeted chamber.

Champagne glasses of an imported rose wine and a specially-rigged simultaneous translation service for the guests who spoke no English helped put the assembly at ease as the two groups mixed freely and then listened to a series of short speeches.

SEE STORIES, PICTURES ON PAGES 16, 17

Mayor Rosaire Gendron of Riviere-du-Loup, new president of QUM, presented Mayor Wilson with a personal gift of a handcrafted set of cigarette box, ashtray and lighter. He also gave him a souvenir box of Quebec's famous maple syrup, sugar and butter.

Mayor Gendron presented to the city a hand-worked plaque bearing the armorial crest of the Quebec Union of Municipalities.

Recalling personal family ties with Quebec he told the guests "we sincerely hope you will not feel like strangers in a strange land but that you will enjoy yourselves here."

★ ★ ★

Union of B.C. Municipalities president Reeve Peter Jenewin of Maple Ridge also extended a welcome "not only here to Victoria but to our province of British Columbia."

Scores of portable ear pieces made it possible for the roughly 40 per cent of the visitors who spoke no English to follow all the speeches as UN-trained simultaneous translator Paul Leduc—flown from Montreal by the QUM group—spoke into the closed-circuit wireless system set up in the chamber.

"Your visit is, indeed, an historic occasion," Mayor Wilson told the assembly. "You have shown great initiative in coming nearly 3,000 miles to see us and you have broken with precedent in having your study meeting for the first time outside the province of Quebec.

"We warmly applaud the vision and the courage that engendered this trip, for memorable it will be not only to you and to us but we believe to all of Canada."

Mayor Wilson said that civic leaders in both provinces have "a unique opportunity" to learn each other's problems—the necessary first step towards their solution.

"While the senior governments must deal with the legislative changes necessitated by the events of our time, we, with our very personal contacts, can perhaps do more than any other level of government in leading the way towards a future of better understanding, friendship and mutual respect that will assure a great future for this country to which we all belong.

"You, the mayors of Quebec, have taken this initiative, which we applaud enthusiastically. It is now up to us to follow your example and visit, see and increase our knowledge all we can about La Belle Province de Quebec."

Responding, Salaberry-de-Valleyfield Mayor Robert Cauchon, leader of the Victoria trip, echoed the sentiments that the visit was an historic event.

RCMP Grab Man After Pair Slain

RIVERS INLET, B.C. (CP) — A suspect was captured today by police in their hunt for a man who raped an 18-year-old girl as two people lay dying of gunshot wounds a few feet away.

RCMP officers were holding Roy Hanuse, about 21, on a police boat at this steamer landing 250 miles north of Vancouver. He was found in an empty cabin on the Indian reserve where the shooting occurred.

Their search was launched into the bush at dawn this morning after Johnny and Aggie Hanuse, parents of 13 children, were shot and killed.

RCMP said the killer shot the couple in order to assault the girl.

Most of the Hanuse children had previously been taken into the care of the Indian affairs department and are living at schools and homes across the province.

Police said Hanuse was not related to the slain couple.

Rifle Goes Off In Target Game

The 24-year-old Saanich man, who lived at 1170 Palmer, died from a bullet fired from his friend's rifle.

PEAKMAN
. . . firing at can

Police said the two were firing at a tin can in the Martin's Gulch area just south of Shawnigan Lake when the accident occurred.

They had decided to target practice after an unsuccessful day's hunting.

While walking back to the firing line for another try, Mol's .30-30 rifle accidentally went off.

The bullet entered Peakmen's side and he fell to the ground.

RAN FOR HELP

So he set off at a run to get help.

About two miles down the road he met prospector Robert Copeman of 556 Ker Avenue, Saanich. The two drove back to the scene of the accident.

Meanwhile, Peakmen had been lying two hours in the spot where he was shot.

He was taken to King's Daughters' Hospital, Duncan, but was dead on arrival.

INQUEST TUESDAY

He was employed as a digger operator by local contractor Donald H. Mann of Cedar Hill Cross Road.

An autopsy was to be held later today.

The inquest will be opened for viewing of the body Tuesday night and then will be adjourned to a future date.

Plane Hits Mountain, 28 Killed

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) —Wreckage of an airliner that hit a mountain peak in a storm Sunday night was found early today. Sheriff's deputies said all 28 persons aboard were dead.

One Canadian was among the victims. He was identified as Mr. H. Will of Calgary.

Helicopters flew to the scene and began flying bodies to a lower level.

Searchers were directed to the area by a motorist who told officers he saw the plane skimming the ground Sunday night in a whirl of snow eight miles south of the city. The witness said the plane had one wheel down, as if it were trying to land.

The Fairchild F-27, Bonanza Airline's Flight 114 from Phoenix, Ariz., was three minutes from a landing at McCarran Field when it vanished from the radar screen at 8:27 p.m.

Missionary's Fate Unknown

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (AP)—Congo rebels announced they would execute American medical missionary Dr. Paul Carlson at noon today in Stanleyville but gave no word on whether they did.

Nairobi reported it monitored a Stanleyville broadcast that Carlson's life would be a matter of negotiation, but later found the negotiation announcement had been made before the announcement of the decision to execute Carlson.

The rebels claimed that Carlson was a major in the U.S. Army and had spied and fought against them. This charge was denied by U.S. officials in Washington who said the U.S. would hold the rebels "directly responsible" for Carlson's fate.

RAISE CUT FOR PM, CABINET

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Wilson today approved a pay raise to members of parliament but trimmed by half the increase recommended for himself and his ministers.

The salary for a House of Commons member was raised from $5,250 a year to $9,750—a raise of about 86 per cent.

He said the increase suggested for all ministers should be cut by half. This would bring his own salary up to $42,000 a year from $30,000, instead of the recommended $54,000.

'Don't Isolate Que.'

TORONTO (UPI)—Premier Lesage today called for English Canada to assist his province in retaining its identity.

Quebec would otherwise be forced into an isolation it did not wish, he said.

Lesage said a future Canada may have fewer than its present 10 provinces if there should be "a regrouping of some of the existing provinces."

Lesage stressed to his audience that he did not wish to be regarded as carrying any warning or ultimatum to English-speaking Canadians.

LESS CENTRALIZATION

Lesage restated his plea for a more decentralized form of central government. He said the economic and cultural progress of Quebec's 5,500,000 citizens could only be assured by a provincial government.

He stressed that Quebec trailed other provinces in development and said this was added reason for its need to have greater control of its own development.

Lesage rejected what he termed as two "extreme possibilities."

He said one extreme was that Quebec be swallowed up in a "common melting pot." The other was that it be separated from the rest of Canada.

"The rest of Canada must help Quebec to attain its objectives," said the Quebec premier.

"Otherwise, if we are forced to act alone, we shall be in-

Motorists Stranded In U.S. Snow

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — A snowstorm that struck the Rocky Mountains Sunday brought blizzards to northern Arizona and spilled wintry weather across normally mild central and southern desert areas.

Motorists were stranded, hunters marooned and 13 persons reported missing as the late afternoon blizzard struck the Kingman area in Arizona's northwest corner. All the missing later were found safe.

Arizona 93, the main route from Phoenix to Las Vegas, Nev., was closed after at least 100 cars were stranded.

The Arizona highway patrol also shut off U.S. 66 to the east, and the Mohave County sheriff's office dispatched its jeep posses into snow-swept desert mountains south of Kingman in search of the lost, mostly hunters. All were found.

Forest fires continued to ravish woodlands in the desperately dry eastern half of the United States, adding to the already staggering cost of the record-shattering autumn drought.

CLASPING HER DAUGHTER in queenly homecoming, Mrs. C. J. Douma greeted Linda Douma, Miss Canada for 1965, as she stepped off plane Sunday at Patricia Bay airport. Stop Loose Talk De Gaulle Told

PARIS (AP)—Manlio Brosio of Italy, secretary-general of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, challenged President de Gaulle today to state his position on the alliance's problems clearly.

Speaking to the 10th annual session of the NATO parliamentary conference, (Brosio referred to France's opposition to the proposed Multilateral Nuclear Force MLF) and to French suggestions that NATO must be reformed.

At the same time the secretary-general said proponents of MLF have to justify the proposal.

"Those who put forward new proposals must explain and justify them," Brosio said. "Those who object must argue their case and put forward their counter proposals."

"I believe there is far too much loose talk about the need for reforming NATO. Suggestions that NATO needs reorganizing which are unaccompanied by any practical proposals as to what needs to be done can only create perplexity and cast doubt on the solidarity of the alliance."

The four-day conference brought together representatives sent from the parliaments of the 15 NATO countries. The conference will discuss various NATO problems and send recommendations to the NATO council of foreign ministers. The conference is strictly a consultative body whose resolutions have no legal effect.

FEATURING ETERNAL FLAME

Terrace to Mark Kennedy Grave

WASHINGTON (AP) — Elaborate plans for a white marble terrace and a low, classically plain monument for John F. Kennedy's grave at Arlington Cemetery were announced today.

The central theme for the grave site will be the eternal flame lighted by the late president's widow the day of his funeral almost one year ago.

The grave will lie in a small grass plot marked by a grey slate tablet in what the designers said was the tradition in early New England.

In the centre, slightly elevated, is to be the rectangular grass plot where Kennedy is buried. Its marble "frame" contains a kneeling step for prayer. Within the grass plot will be a slate marker about three feet by 4½ feet in size, bearing the incised inscription:

John Fitzgerald Kennedy

1917—1963

A small cross will be incised above the grave.

The marker for the late president will be flanked by smaller tablets marking the graves of the two Kennedy children who died at or shortly after birth.

The eternal flame will burn to the rear of the tablets emerging from a three-pronged bronze font.

WALL BEARS SEAL

The backdrop for the flame is to be a long, low wall bearing the presidential seal.

The plans for the grave site were announced at a press conference today, six days before the first anniversary of Kennedy's assassination last Nov. 22 in Dallas, Tex. Defence Secretary McNamara and architect John Carl Warnecke were in charge of releasing the details.

Senator-elect Robert F. Kennedy, the late president's brother, was to be on hand to represent the family, which approved the plans in advance.

Models of the gravesite will be put on public display at the National Gallery for one month, beginning Tuesday.

The grave is down a gentle slope from the Curtis-Lee Mansion where Kennedy, on a bright March day some nine months before death, stood looking out over the city — the Potomac River, the Lincoln Memorial, the white shaft of the Washington Monument and the Capitol dome in the distance—and remarked "I could stay here forever."

34-44% FEWER CAVITIES AMONG KELOWNA YOUTH

The reporters, from Duncan and Nanaimo, were given proof that fluoride helps reduce cavities.

Guests of the city of Kelowna, they were shown figures comparing children who drank Kelowna's treated supply and others in Penticton and Vernon who didn't.

And there was a difference.

Kelowna's children had between 34 and 44 per cent fewer cavities.

Duncan, Nanaimo and North Cowichan are the three Vancouver Island centres among 11 B.C. communities which will hold fluoridation plebiscites next month.

Kelowna's city water supply has been fluoridated for eight years.

Dr. Alan Gray, regional dental consultant at Kelowna Health Centre, said there had been no signs to indicate straining of teeth from fluoride, or that the incidence of arthritis or heart strain was on the increase.

ISLAND DIGEST

REGIONAL REPORT

All's Bright On Job Front

Employment conditions in B.C. are buoyant and should continue that way well into the winter, says B. C. White, regional employment officer.

While the number of unplaced applicants seeking jobs through National Employment Service offices at Oct. 31 was 12.3 per cent higher than the previous month, it was 9.6 per cent less than the same period last year.

He reported skilled loggers and maintenance men were still difficult to obtain, but there was a steady increase in the number of unskilled workers seeking jobs.

CHRISTMAS TREES

Harvesting Christmas trees was a major activity in Cranbrook and the Windermere Valley areas with crews bundling the "million or more" trees shipped during November.

Before the Oct. 22 strike of 640 herring fishermen, a season's total of 90,000 tons had been landed and processed.

"This is the highest recorded catch of herring in the past 20 years," he said.

All parts of the construction industry remained at near-peak capacity. Arrival of severe winter weather would be the only reason for a slackening of the pace.

There were shortages of skilled workers but no serious delays because of them.

NEAR-PEAK

A number of retail and wholesale stores indicated an increase of business of at least 12 per cent over the same period last year.

There was "a strong demand" for graduate nurses, especially those with B.C. registration. Psychiatric nurses were in short supply but graduates continued to arrive from England and were readily placed.

Volunteer Unit For Ambulance Asked by Mayor

PORT ALBERNI — Mayor Les Hammer would like to see a 24-hour call volunteer ambulance service in the Alberni Valley.

He put this idea forward Saturday after ambulance operator Ed Miller said he wants to abandon the service.

A local garage man, he said he is losing money.

Mayor Hammer said a volunteer brigade, trained intensively in first aid, could manage the job.

About 30 persons would be needed.

They would run on the same lines as volunteer firemen and auxiliary police.

Said the mayor: "I feel personally that the hospital should be operating the ambulance service. However, they (the hospital board) do not seem to think so."

He also said Health Minister Martin is apparently opposed to including ambulance services under BCHIS.

Mayor Hammer's scheme would include formation of an ambulance district with each householder in the valley assessed to pay the cost of the service.

The ambulance was given to the city by the Kinsmen Club and Mr. Miller provided a driver and attendant.
